Vanguard III Orbits Earth

Satellite May Help Plot Safe Path For Voyages

WASHINGTON (AP) — America's 100 - pound Vanguard III whizzed about the earth Friday on a mission that might help plot a safe path for future space voyagers.

The satellite, shaped like a big ice cream cone, was launched Friday morning from Cape Canaveral, Fla., and promptly began sending back loud and clear radio signals packed with information.

With luck it might get some extra information from a total eclipse of the sun on Oct. 2.

Third In 11 Tries

Whizzing through space up to 18,567 miles an hour, at altitudes ranging from 319 to 2,329 miles above the earth, the new satellite was only the third put up in 11 tries by Vanguard scientists.

But it brought to eight the number of American satellites now orbiting the earth, not to mention the Pioneer IV space probe which is wheeling, perhaps eternally, around the sun.

The Vanguard success came at the end of a rather cloudy week for American space prestige. It was a week that opened with the Soviet moon-strike. Then came two successive U.S. space failures. However, the week also saw two other successes in related projects.

Vanguard III was sent aloft at 12:20 a.m. Two hours and 50 minutes later, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced the satellite was in orbit. It consists of a 50-pound instrument filled payload and the attached 50-pound spent third stage of the launching rocket.

Measures Field

Main missions of the space messenger are to measure the earth's magnetic field, solar X-rays, micrometeorite bombardment and temperatures inside and outside the satellite. All are tied in with getting further information to help speed and make safe man's eventual attempts to reach the moon and other planets.

The satellite makes a circuit of the earth every 130 minutes in an orbital pathway inclined 33 degrees north and south of the equator.

Its expected lifetime aloft is estimated at 30 to 40 years, and its radio equipment should operate for about three months.

Famed Lawyer Suffers Attack

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Famed Hollywood attorney Jerry Giesler collapsed from a heart attack at his home Friday and was taken by ambulance to Mt. Sinai Hospital.

Dr. Jack A. Sheinkopf said the attack was "mild." But Giesler, 72, was expected to remain hospitalized for about two weeks for observation as well as "rest and treatment."

Robert Neeb, Jr., a partner, said Giesler has been "ill and sort of tired" recently. He said Giesler collapsed Friday in the bedroom of his home.

Giesler's courtroom career has spanned nearly half a century. His clients have included Rudolph Valentino, Errol Flynn, Marilyn Monroe and the teen-age daughter of actress Lana Turner in the Johnny Stompanato killing.

Rejects Appeal

TOKYO (AP) — The Japanese Supreme Court ruled Friday capital punishment is constitutional. It rejected an appeal by three prisoners sentenced to death by lower courts. Japan's death sentence is carried out by hanging.

45 Scottish Miners Feared Dead In Fire

KIRKINTILLOCH, Scotland, (AP)—Forty-five Scottish miners were feared dead Friday in a coal pit swept by fire, smoke and deadly gas.

Twelve hours after the miners were trapped nearly a quarter of a mile underground, masked rescue workers detected a large concentration of carbon monoxide in the area.

This is the dreaded "white damp," which proves lethal in a matter of minutes.

"A heavy loss of life must be expected," said an official of the National Coal Board.

As rescue workers wearing oxygen masks kept up the struggle to reach the entombed men relatives of the miners clustered anxiously at the pithead.

Mothers, daughters and wives were there. Several were so overcome they were led away weeping by Salvation Army workers.

The miners were trapped Friday morning while riding on a pit train 1,050 feet underground in the 50-year-old Auchengeich Colliery 10 miles from Glasgow, one of Britain's nationalized mines.

A huge electric exhaust fan burst into flame, quickly filling the passageways with smoke. The fire ate through support timbers, causing rock and earth falls.

Rescue workers brought the body of one miner to the surface about noon. Another was rescued unconscious.

The disaster might have been greater were it not for a three-day strike which ended Thursday. The mine employed 800 men but most had stayed out, planning to return to work Monday.

Refuses Comment

PARIS (AP)—Yul Brynner refused Friday to confirm or deny published reports that he planned to separate from his wife, Virginia Gilmore. Brynner said in a telephone interview "They publish things like that about me every year. There's nothing I can do about it."

Soviet Plan To Receive Long Study

Eisenhower Has No Comment On 4-Year Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — Official Washington took the general position Friday night that Nikita S. Khrushchev's four-year plan to disarm the world should be studied carefully.

It was widely noted that the Soviet premier was vague on the question of controls and inspection—regarded as critical by the West.

There was no immediate comment from President Eisenhower, spending the weekend at Gettysburg, Pa. The State Department stood on a statement issued in New York by Secretary Christian A. Herter.

Seems To Repeat

Herter said Khrushchev's proposal requires very careful examination, adding that it seems to repeat total disarmament proposals made by the Soviet Union previously.

Among members of Congress still in the city, the consensus seemed to be that the plan should be given serious, cautious study.

Chairman J. William Fulbright (D-Ark) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee withheld comment.

Sen. Alexander Wiley (R-Wis), senior minority member of the committee, termed the Soviet premier's gambit a grandstand play. Several other congress members dismissed the proposal as propaganda.

The full text of Khrushchev's U. N. speech was being rushed to the President at Gettysburg. He and Khrushchev will get down to serious talks next Friday.

Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, assistant Senate Democratic leader, said:

"We Did Disarm"

"We did disarm after World War II and were caught short in Korea, therefore we have to be extremely careful of any proposals.

"However, we should not reject out of hand Mr. Khrushchev's proposals."

Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn), chairman of a subcommittee on disarmament, said:

"We ought not to pass it off as a mere propaganda stunt. We should give it careful scrutiny and study, and pursue every avenue and effort toward a meaningful disarmament program which must include adequate inspection and controls."

Friendly Cop Won't Guard "K"

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Tony Mihalovich, one of Des Moines' most popular policemen, will not help guard Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev here next week.

Mihalovich, born in Yugoslavia, said he requested that he not be assigned the guard detail because his friends from Slavic nations "just wouldn't understand" if he were to do so.

Tony twice has been cited by the community for his friendliness.

Establish Camp

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP) — The all-woman expedition trying to top 26,867-foot Cho Oyu (Big Head) Peak in the Himalayas has established base camp at 19,000 feet, according to reports reaching here in midweek. It's headed by Mrs. Claude Kogan of France.

U.S. Recalls Commander Of Icelandic Air Base

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a move to soothe ruffled feelings, the United States has pulled an Air Force general out of his command in Iceland.

Brig. Gen. Gilbert Pritchard, who took command of the American - staffed NATO base at Keflavik airport only two months ago, has been relieved at the request of the Icelandic government, an Air Force spokesman said Friday.

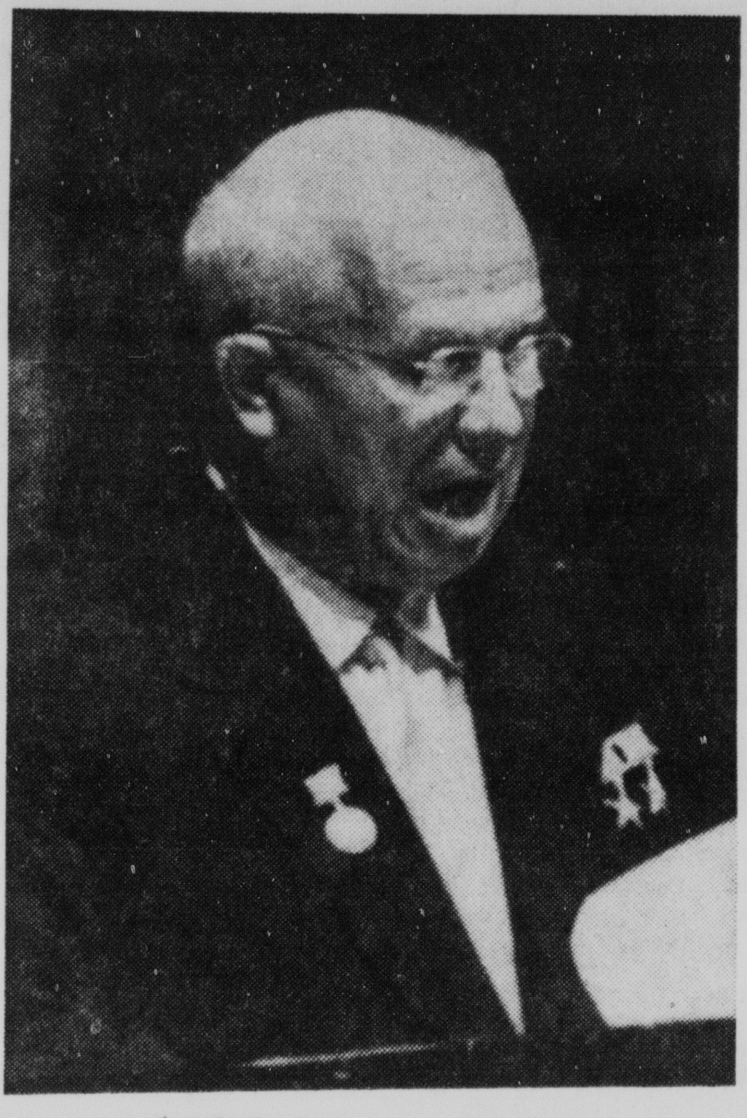
The action followed diplomatic protests over an incident involving an American sentry and two Icelandic air control officials.

State Department officials said Pritchard was being reassigned only because of the Icelandic request and not because of any reflection on his personal competence.

The Sept. 5 incident at the airport stirred anti-American sentiment and has been used by Communists in Iceland for a new demand to oust all American forces from the strategically located island. About 5,000 U.S. personnel are stationed there.

U.S. forces first went to Iceland, an important point on the air route to Europe, at the start of World War II. Eight years ago Americans moved back into Iceland when it became an outpost of defense in the NATO structure. They have never been too popular with the local citizens.

Following the Sept. 5 incident, in which the two Icelandic officials said they were challenged and forced at gunpoint to lie in a puddle of water for 10 minutes, Icelandic representatives were told to boycott sessions of the Iceland-United States Defense Council. One of the functions of that Council is to ease friction between U.S. forces and the citizens of Iceland.



Addresses U.N.

Khrushchev Puts Wreath On FDR's Hyde Park Grave

HYDE PARK, N.Y. (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, standing solemnly in a light rain, placed a wreath of roses on the grave of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt Friday.

The Premier had traveled a total of more than four hours for a pilgrimage that lasted only 57 minutes.

He told Roosevelt's widow, Eleanor Roosevelt: "I felt it an obligation to come here to pay my respects to your husband and his memory. I did not come for pleasure but for duty."

Khrushchev had to hurry back to New York for his United Nations speech.

Khrushchev, accompanied by his wife, Nina, was 39 minutes behind schedule when he stepped out of a limousine here at 11:09 a.m. and was greeted by Mrs. Roosevelt outside the family rose garden where the late president was buried April 15, 1945.

Khrushchev wore a light gray suit and was hatless.

He told Mrs. Roosevelt: "How do you do. I'm glad to see you again."

The two had met before in 1957 when she was visiting in the Soviet Union.

After the wreath - laying ceremony, the Khrushchevs flanked Mrs. Roosevelt for a short walk down a gravel drive to the three-story stucco and stone home in which Roosevelt was born in 1882. Mrs. Roosevelt tucked Mrs. Khrushchev's arm in hers and the two women smiled at each other and chatted briefly.

The party spent only a few minutes in the ancestral home looking at a chair Roosevelt used when he was governor of New York, and at a glass case of stuffed birds, examples of the type he hunted as a teen-age boy.

The last stop in Khrushchev's visit was at Mrs. Roosevelt's cottage, about four miles from the Hyde Park estate.

There, coffee and rolls were waiting but Khrushchev was so pressed for time that he couldn't pause to eat. Both he and his wife, however, grabbed a roll, presumably to nibble on after their departure for New York.

"One for the road," said Khrushchev.

Bob Hope Loses Partial Vision In Left Eye

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Comedian Bob Hope said Friday he has lost partial vision in his left eye, temporarily, because of overwork.

"But there's no use worrying about it now," Hope told a newsman. "I'm just waiting for nature to balance itself up. My doctor says it will happen. After all, lots of people are in the same spot as I am.

"Anyway, it hasn't affected my golf. I had a 73 last week."

Hope has been under treatment since he suffered a blood clot during the Christmas season last year, when he made a 16,000-mile tour of U. S. military bases in Europe and Africa.

Moscow Can Use Assembly Plans

MOSCOW (AP) — A Soviet engineer who helped build the U.S. exhibition here said efficient American instruments and principles of assembly could be used profitably by Soviet engineers. Writing in an industrial-economic magazine, he said films made of the exhibition's assembly would be shown to Soviet engineers.

Bishop Appointed

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector (AP)—Bishop Pier Chaispero, 50, has been appointed head of the Latin —Roman Catholic— Church in Israel, the Israeli Ministry of Religious Affairs was informed by Latin Church representatives here Friday. Chiaspero succeeds Msgr. Antonio Vergani, who resigned some time ago for health reasons.

Typhoon Leaves Trail Of Death

TOKYO (UPI)—Typhoon Sarah rolled out into open waters Friday night leaving a trail of death and destruction from the southern Ryukyus across Korea into northern Japan.

Still incomplete casualty reports showed the storm had left at least 148 dead or missing and 469 injured since Wednesday when it swept northward from tiny Miyako Island in the Ryukyus.

No Americans were listed among the casualties, although U.S. military installations in South Korea and southern Japan suffered more than a million dollars in damage.

The typhoon, 19th of the season, began its sweep of northern Pacific land areas with winds of up to 158 miles an hour, but most of its strength was diminished as it moved out into the Sea of Ohkotsk Friday night.

The premature lifting of storm warnings in southern Japan nearly resulted in a major tragedy when a ferry boat carrying 599 persons headed out into the Tsugaru Strait between Honshu and Hokkaido and was caught in boiling seas. It finally managed to return to port safety.

Sails For Baltic

MOSCOW (AP)— The 16,000-ton Soviet atomic icebreaker Lenin sailed for Baltic test runs Friday after a two-day stop in Kronstadt, Soviet port on the Gulf of Finland, the Soviet news agency Tass reported. She was launched in December 1957 and commissioned Saturday in Leningrad.

Mitchell Seeks Report By Hoffa

Teamster Head Has 10 Days To Show Cleanup

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell disclosed Friday he has directed Teamster President James R. Hoffa to report in 10 days what steps he has taken to remove from office Teamster officials having criminal records.

Mitchell said in a speech to the AFL-CIO convention he has sent similar messages to individual officials of other labor unions. He did not name them.

The secretary said he was acting under a provision of the new labor control law passed by Congress and signed by President Eisenhower this week. It bars from service as a union official anyone convicted of certain crimes or having been a Communist Party member for five years after such conviction or membership.

Have Records

A number of Teamsters Union officials have been disclosed in Senate Rackets Committee testimony as having criminal records.

A special AFL-CIO convention session unanimously approved a plan recommended by President George Meany and other labor chiefs to ask the organization's 12½ million members to contribute an hour's pay a month to aid the steel strikers.

The nation's half million steelworkers have been idle 66 days, longest steel strike in modern times. The aid action, designed to furnish the steel union with as much as 30 million dollars a month, represents solid labor support for the walkout.

Meany said the steel strike is part of a big business drive to prevent workers from getting wage boosts which he said are warranted because of huge industry profits and productivity gains.

Heads of all AFL-CIO unions were called in for Friday's session. It was a meeting of the federation's general board, a group assembled only for major labor policy decisions.

Huge Fund For Aid

Emil Mazey, secretary-treasurer of the United Auto Workers Union, said the huge new fund sets a pattern for centralized strike aid funds in major labor-management showdowns.

"This sets a pattern for central strike funds for the labor movement, of pooling our resources for strikes in the future," Mazey said.

Mazey's union, headed by Walter Reuther, gave the steel union a one million dollar donation and said it will vote next month to give one million dollars every month the steel strike continues.

The decision to pool labor resources behind the current strike and in future major walkouts parallels to some extent the action by segments of business in adopting strike insurance plans to cushion strike losses.

The steel strikers have asked for a 15-cent hourly boost and benefits for every year of a new labor contract. The industry insists that any labor cost increase would be inflationary. The steelworkers averaged $3.11 hourly earnings before the strike began July 15.

'Mr. K' Drives Hard For Major Objective

By RELMAN MORIN

NEW YORK (AP)—With a pixie grin, waggling his fat finger, cracking homespun jokes and pleading sweet reason, Nikita Khrushchev is driving hard for a major objective of his American tour.

This is to persuade Americans that he is not the monster they pictured.

He is endeavoring to build up a wholly different image, the image of a sensible, practical, down-to-earth man who wants to be friendly. To this task, he brings the force of a towering personality and a shrewd eye for effects.

It is a selling job, and Khrushchev is an effective salesman. Note some of the techniques—

He describes his government as a "corporation," and himself as a corporation executive, one of the most familiar figures on the American scene You can reason with an executive.

Knowing the implications of the word, "Communist," he says, with engaging candor, "Well, here I am. I wanted you to see a Communist in human form without horns or tail."

Then the quip "Anyway, if I had horns, I don't have any hair to conceal them."

Boldly, he discusses the two systems, capitalist and Communist. But he doesn't try to deprecate the former or sell the latter. On the contrary, with the appearance of immense common sense, he says, "You believe in your system and I wouldn't waste my energy trying to convert you to ours."

Americans may believe this is exactly what the Kremlin has been trying to do since World War II. Khrushchev, quietly, or with the tolerant smile, tells them they are mistaken.

He pulls a big switch, a sharp departure from an orthodox line—praising President Eisenhower as a great military leader "in our common struggle" during World War II, and acknowledging the importance of American military aid.

China Regime Shakeup Said Far-Reaching

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials said Friday a shakeup in the Chinese Communist regime is more far-reaching than originally suspected and may reach the proportions of an across-the-board government purge.

Experts on Chinese affairs, after studying monitored reports of Peiping Radio, said the reshuffle is extending from the Ministry of Defense to the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, the State Planning Office and the State Statistical Office.

They said at least four members of the powerful Communist Central Committee have been kicked out of office with no announcement of assignment to other jobs.

They were Chang Wen-T'ien and Wang Chia-Hsiang, both vice ministers of foreign affairs, Marshal Peng Teh-Huai, minister of defense who was replaced by Marshal Lin Piano.

The fourth, former Army Chief of Staff Gen. Huang Ko-Cheng, was relieved of responsibility Thursday and replaced by Gen. Lo Jui-Ching, former police boss.

U.S. officials struggled with a long list of Chinese names the offical government radio said were being replaced. Some were named to other jobs but not all.

To American officials it appeared obvious that the new convulsion in the Chinese Communist government on the eve of the 10th anniversary celebration of the Communist rise to power meant only one thing:

There must have been profound dissatisfaction with the way domestic affairs had been going since adoption of the commune system one year ago. The system tried to organize the Chinese peasantry into semi-military production units.

Four-Year Program Is Set Forth

Contains Catches Western Allies May Not Accept

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —Nikita S Khrushchev proposed Friday that the world disarm itself completely within four years. His plan presented to the United Nations would do away with armies, navies, air forces, nuclear weapons, military rockets and leave only domestic police forces for keeping internal order.

The proposal contained catches the Western allies may be unable to accept. The Soviet premier recognized this tacitly. Accordingly, he laid down a program for partial disarmament as a temporary measure.

But he said that complete and general disarmament, by treaty and under strict international control, is the "lever by grasping which mankind could be stopped from backsliding into the abyss of war."

Complete Disarmament

"The essence of our proposals," Khrushchev said, "is that over a period of four years all states should effect complete disarmament and should no longer have any means of waging war."

The world's Communist leader was vague, however, about controls and inspection—a topic on which the West is touchy and, on the basis of past negotiations, suspicious of the Soviets. Violations of the projected disarmament treaty would be subject to "immediate consideration" by the U. N. Security Council and General Assembly. And Russia has a veto in the council.

Khrushchev had promised a new disarmament plan in his speech to the General Assembly. And he unfolded it dramatically, in a long address filled with his customary words on peace and friendship and in a memorandum distributed to delegates of the world organization.

The premier managed to stir applause only once during his 65-minute speech. That came from Soviet bloc countries when he plugged for admission of Red China to U. N. membership. The corpse of Nationalist China, the premier said, should be carried out.

No Real Hopes

Eden Confined With Virus

PEWSEY, England (UPI) — Sir Anthony Eden Friday was confined to bed with a "more serious" attack of fever than those which had plagued him since illness forced his resignation as British Prime Minister.

The 62-year - old architect of Britain's disastrous 1956 Suez invasion made his last public appearance in London earlier this month to attend one of two dinners for President Eisenhower. His physicians would not let him attend the other dinner.

Eden's physician, Lord Evans, said he would see the retired statesman Saturday at his home in Pewsey Wintshire.

A spokesman for Eden said his fever was "more serious than previous ones."

Dr. Evans said he believed it was "another of those bouts of fever which he has been getting from time to time."

Eden, who succeeded Sir Winston Churchill as prime minister, had suffered from an abdominal ailment and underwent surgery in the United States.

He resigned on Jan. 9, 1957, twenty-one months after taking office. At the time, there were reports he had quit becuase of the Suez fiasco. But his physicians said that to have continued would have ruined his health. They said he retired becuase of a "recurrence of an abdominal ailment."

On Jan. 11, four days later, he resigned his seat in the House of Commons and went into retirement with his wife, Lady Clarissa, a niece of Churchill.

Legal System For Peace In World Urged

BALTIMORE (AP)—The United States should take positive action to help establish a world legal system to maintain peace, Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo) said Friday.

"It is only through the advancement of law that we can reach any true position of peace through international agreement," he said. "That is our conviction as a people, and that is what we should be certain Mr. Khrushchev understands before he leaves our shores."

Symington noted that Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev had said he seeks a relaxation of cold war tensions.

"Our leaders should emphasize to him that there is no better way to do so than to cooperate in establishing the rule of law throughout the world," said Symington, former secretary of the air force and mentioned as a possible Democratic presidential candidate.

Symington's speech was prepared for delivery at a testimonial dinner honoring a former Maryland circuit judge, Michael Paul Smith.

"Every civilized nation," Symington said, "has found that as a way of settling domestic disputes, law is vastly preferable to force, and now we must set up machinery to settle disputes at the international level."

He suggested:

1. A worldwide conference of statesmen, lawyers and judges who would explore more effective ways to use existing agencies, such as the International Court of Justice, for deciding international disputes.

2. The State Department give high priority to preparing a revision of the U.N. charter. Symington said that in the last 14 years the United Nations has won respect as a forum for peaceful debate and the sensible solution of differences. But, he added, it deserves additional authority not inconsistent with national sovereignty.

3. More exchanges of lawyers, judges and legal scholars of all nations so that they can see how other legal systems operate and discover principles and values that are common to the laws of all nations.

Clerical Error Nullifies Pact

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP) — A clerical error has nullified contracts for the purchase of $192,000 worth of land on which to build a county office building in Silver Spring.

Judge Thomas N. Anderson of Circuit Court Friday granted an injunction requested by five neighboring landowners on grounds that newspaper advertisements did not carry a required phrase that other sites were not available.

The proposed site is at First and Anson Streets, Silver Spring.

After the judge said he was "reluctant to come to this conclusion because of a clerical error," County Atty. Alfred H. Carter said he believed the county would readvertise the property and hold another public hearing within 15 days.

The landowners object to construction of the building on grounds it would reduce the value of their property.

The county has been trying to obtain a site in Silver Spring for two years.

Lawyer Guilty Of Soliciting

CHAMBERSBURG, Pa. (AP)—A Franklin County jury Friday convicted a 43-year-old Mercersburg attorney of illegally soliciting Democratic campaign contributions from State employes.

Lawrence C. Zeger, who resigned last month from the county's Democratic Executive Committee after previously serving as a State committeeman, was found guilty on five counts.

Judge John J. Pentz of Clearfield County, specially presiding, gave Zeger four days to put in writing an oral motion for a new trial. Zeger was released under $500 bond pending the appeal.

Man Found Dead With Throat Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — Several hours before he was to have undergone surgery, a man was found dead today in a George Washington University hospital bathroom. His throat had been cut.

A nurse noted Leonard Martin, 54, Indian Head, Md., was missing from his bed, unlocked the bathroom door and found him dead on the floor. Police said a razor blade was beside the body.

Martin was to have had a back operation.

Fails To Stop After Train Hit

BALTIMORE (AP) — A Pikesville motorist was charged Friday with failing to stop after hitting a train.

Police said Kenneth A. VanHeusen, 46, kept on going after his car collided with a diesel shifting engine in Southeast Baltimore.

He was charged with failing to stop and reckless driving.

Casey Found Guilty Of His Wife's Murder

BALTIMORE (AP)—Former Air Force Sgt. Robert L. Casey was convicted Friday of second degree murder in the stabbing death of his wife.

He could get up to 18 years in the state penitentiary. Criminal Court Judge Joseph Allen withheld sentence to give defense counsel three days to decide if an appeal will be made.

The slim, pale defendant, who weighs about 130, took the jury's verdict with no outward show of emotion. After the jury of seven men and five women returned from their five-hour deliberations, Casey waited in the subdued courtroom for his counsel to return.

The 35-year-old erstwhile noncom at Malmstrom Air Force Base, near Great Falls, Mont., sat with head in hands, as though lost in deep thought. He wore a loose fitting dark gray suit.

As the jury gave its verdict, the defendant's mother in the first row of spectators appeared pale and anxious and to be fighting to hold back sobs.

Casey, of Baltimore, was charged with stabbing his 27-year-old wife to death with a hunting knife on May 11, 1958. The prosecution said he was absent without leave from the air base at the time.

The former airman pleaded innocent by reason of insanity.

The prosecution introduced a note written by Casey addressed "to whom it may concern." In it he was quoted as saying he loved his wife but when he found her at home early one morning with another man "I lost all sense of reason."

Casey, and his wife whom he met while stationed in Texas, had three children.

Less Workers Put On Job

BALTIMORE (AP) — The State Department of Employment Security placed less workers in jobs during August than it did during July. The dropping off of work in the food processing industry and the steel strike were blamed for most of the slackening.

The DES placed 5,925 in nonfarm jobs last month, it reported, a drop of 12.2 per cent from July, and 11.2 per cent under the number placed in August 1958.

There also were fewer job openings, the department said.

Executive Director Robert B. Kimble said it was not possible to define the amount of slowdown caused by the steel strike, but he said it definitely was a factor.

WM To Close Bergoo Agency

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — Western Maryland Railway has been authorized by the Public Service Commission to discontinue its agency at Bergoo in Webster County as of Oct. 1.

The railway showed at a recent PSC hearing that expenses from the Bergoo operation were $5,310 more than income in a Jan. 1, 1956-March 31, 1959 period.

Westernport Man, 75, Reported Missing

Maryland State Police at La Vale have been notified that Mocomas Broadwater, 75-year-old Westernport man, has been missing since 10 a. m. Thursday when he was last seen in that community.

He is six feet tall, weighs 160 pounds and has gray hair. When last seen he was wearing a red checkered shirt, brown hat and brown trousers. He walks with a cane and is reported to have a heart condition and palsy.

Special Street Boxes For Air Mail Letters

BALTIMORE (AP) — Special collection boxes will be set up on street corners in Baltimore for air mail letters only.

Postmaster William F. Laukaitis said Friday a new pickup schedule geared to plane flight times will be put into effect Monday at 29 boxes in the downtown section.

Laukaitis said Baltimore will be the second city in the nation to establish the special collection routes. Los Angeles put a similar system into effect recently.

Four-Year

Western diplomat commented.

"The Messiah has come," said another.

And from a prominent Asian: "It sounds so easy. I think they must take us for morons."

U. S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter issued this formal statement:

"Obviously the disarmament proposal made by Chairman Khrushchev is one which will require very careful examination even though it seems to repeat proposals for total disarmament made by the Soviet Union in 1932 and the more specific proposals made on May 10, 1955.

"Speaking in general terms, I think I can say that the United States will go as far on the path of controlled disarmament as any other country. I stress the word 'controlled' because up to now the previous proposals have foundered on the Sovite government's refusal to agree to effective controls."

From delegations friendly to Russia came the expected, almost automatic praise of the plan. Deputy Foreign Minister Endre Sik of Hungary said: "I think it will cut the Gordian knot." Polish Foreign Minister Adam Rapacki commented that "there is no doubt that it is a speech given to relax tensions."

Khrushchev was more solemn than on any occasion since his arrival in the United States Tuesday. He spoke deliberately, following his manuscript carefully, scarcely glancing up.

The premier's stop at the towering glass and stone U.N. building along the East River was spliced between a dinner offered in his honor by U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold and a pilgrimage to the graveside of Franklin D. Roosevelt at Hyde Park, N.Y.

It was a hurried visit by car, to lay a wreath of red roses beside the tomb of the man who brought about U.S. recognition of Communist Russia and worked with Soviet leaders as allies in World War II.

Enjoyed Nothing

"He enjoyed nothing," Mrs. Roosevelt said afterward. "A man behind him all the time kept whispering, 'seven minutes, seven minutes.'"

After his address, Khrushchev started a little touring. Hammarskjold piloted him around U.N. headquarters. Then, after a brief detour to his headquarters at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel, the seemingly tireless communist chief was off to take a look at capitalist Wall Street and the Stock Exchange.

But the appearance in the modernistic assembly hall here was the high spot of the day.

And it was one of the high spots so far of a stay in the United States which was tailored to provide time for momentous private conferences with President Eisenhower at the beginning and end.

"We belong," Khrushchev said, "to those who hope that the exchange of visits between the leading statesmen of the United States and the U.S.S.R. and the forthcoming meetings and conversations will help to pave a direct road to the complete ending of the 'cold war.'"

But he bid again for a full-scale summit conference of East and West.

Representing the Soviet Union as a "resolute and consistent champion of disarmament," Khrushchev acknowledged the control issue as a major obstacle to agreement.

Hunter Held In Shooting Of Officer

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va. (AP) — An out-of-season squirrel hunter accused of shooting a young conservation officer was in the Marshall County jail here Friday awaiting a preliminary hearing.

State Police Sgt. R. L. Bonar said Okey Randolph Holmes, 52, of near Moundsville, must answer a charge of malicious wounding before Magistrate Chester A. Burks. Holmes resides on Rt. 1, Glen Easton, about 11 miles east of here.

The man's son, 22-year-old Gene Lawson Holmes, was held as an accessory after the fact. He also was awaiting arraignment, and was in the county jail.

Sgt. Bonar said the Holmes duo admitted the Tuesday shooting, which took place in a wooded area near Moundsville. Investigating officers found a hat that was traced to Okey Holmes.

The man was quoted by Bonar as saying it had been his intention all his life that no game warden would ever take him out of the woods. Bonar said conservation department officers joined with State police in investigating the shooting.

The Conservation Department in Charleston said Gary Wade, 22, of Moundsville, the man shot, went with State Trooper H. E. Robinson to investigate reports of pre-season squirrel hunting. They came upon a man and a boy who were hunting.

The man turned as he fled and fired at the officers, hitting Wade. The victim was in a hospital. He was hit by four shotgun pellets.

Steel Strike Hits Secondary Industry

BALTIMORE (AP)—The nationwide steel strike was given as the reason for the laying off of 27 workers in secondary industry in Maryland during the week ending last Wednesday.

The Department of Employment Security said Friday all of the latest layoffs occurred in the Baltimore area. This brought the total of layoffs in the state since the steel strike began July 14 to 4,534, with all but 410 occurring in the Baltimore area.

Secondary industries affected were railroads, motor freight, construction, wholesale and retail trade, non-striking segments of the primary metal industry and manufacturers of electrical equipment, lumber and wood products and stone, clay and glass products.

State's Attorney Pleads Innocent To Tax Charge

BALTIMORE (AP) — Edwin F. Nikirk, serving his third term as State's attorney for Frederick County, pleaded innocent Friday to charges of evading $10,424 in federal income taxes.

The 43-year-old Nikirk's plea was entered by counsel at a brief arraignment before U.S. District Judge R. Dorsey Watkins.

Defense Counsel Cornelius P. Munday of Baltimore asked and was given until Oct. 15 to file motions in behalf of the prosecutor and requested a jury trial.

Nikirk remained silent throughout the proceedings, which had been delayed by his illness. He stood between Mundy and another defense attorney, Benjamin Rosenstock of Frederick.

Assistant U.S. Atty. John G. Underwood told the court the trial could be expected to take a "minimum of three weeks."

Nikirk, who has continued as prosecutor since his indictment last Jan. 6, was charged with improperly reporting his income while engaged in private practice between 1952 and 1954.

The government charged his income for the three years was $56,143 with a tax of $13,956 due. The indictment charged that Nikirk's return listed income of $20,844 for the three years, with a tax of $3,532.

The indictment was returned one day after Nikirk, a Democrat, was sworn in as State's attorney early this year. He was first elected in 1942 but entered the Army for World War II duty. He returned to the position after his discharge and was reelected in 1946. Nikirk lost out in a bid for another term in 1950, and returned to private practice. He was named to his present term in the November, 1958, election.

Nikirk, a native of Frederick County, is a former chairman of the county's Democratic Committee. He began practicing law in Frederick in 1938 after his graduation from the University of Baltimore Law School.

Youth Sentenced For Assault, Robbery

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—A 20-year-old Anne Arundel County youth was sentenced to eight years in the reformatory for males Friday in the robbery and beating of a hitch-hiker.

Circuit Court Judge Benjamin Michaelson also sentenced William F. Kirby Jr. of Arnold to six years for the holdup of a cab driver. The terms are to run concurrently.

Given reformatory terms along with Kirby in the robbery of Bobby Gene Scholz, a sailor they picked up last Aug. 14 on Ritchie Highway, were Isaiah Norman Herald, 21, of Arnold, three years; Joseph Holmes, 21, Arnold, six years, and Byron Jacobs, 23, Annapolis, six years.

James Somerville, 24, of Severna Park, was sentenced to eight years in robbery and beating of cab driver Louis J. Hayes on Aug. 15.

Two Brothers Escape Police

WATERLOO, Md. (AP) — State troopers searched Friday for two brothers who escaped from the State Police barracks here a few hours after they were arrested.

Police said Leland Crawford, 35, and his brother, Lloyd Crawford, 34, used their iron cots to bend their cell door bars. The escape was discovered early Friday, less than 24 hours after the brothers were picked up near Laurel.

Leland Crawford escaped April 9 from a Raleigh, N.C., jail where he was serving a term for burglary and larceny. His brother Lloyd was wanted by the sheriff's office in Surry County, Va.

DMV Should Inspect School Buses, Head Says

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Department of Motor Vehicles should be given the responsibility for inspecting all school buses and issuing special licenses to their drivers, says the department's commissioner.

John R. Jewell made the observations as a followup to Gov. Tawes' request to State agencies to come up with recommendations to eliminate school bus accidents. Last week a train struck a school bus in Garrett County killing seven children and injuring 11.

Jewell said bus drills should be held at schools as firedrills are. And a monitor should be assigned to each bus in charge of the emergency door.

Two Charged In Rape Case

BALTIMORE (AP) — A District Federal Court grand jury Friday indicted two Washington men on charges of kidnaping and raping two young FBI clerks on a lonely, rural Maryland lane.

The indictments were returned against Ronald E. Garrison, 27, and Joseph L. Price, 30. They face the death penalty if convicted under terms of the federal Lindbergh kidnaping statute.

The FBI charged that the two girls were seized on a Washington street early the morning of Aug. 30 and driven across the District of Columbia line into Maryland's Montgomery County, where they were raped.

The two girls are clerks in the FBI's Washington headquarters.

They told police they were returning home from a dance at a firehouse in Maryland when they were followed by a car in which two men were riding. The auto caught up with them, they said, and the men armed with knives entered the women's car.

The alleged attack occurred on View Farm Lane off Norwood road near Silver Spring.

The FBI reported that Garrison and Price were arrested after scores of persons who had attended the dance were questioned. Garrison and Price were picked out of a lineup by the two girls.

Tawes Receives Honorary Title

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes Friday received a commission as a lieutenant colonel (honorary in the Civil War Press Corps for his interest in creating a journalism Hall of Fame at Gatland State Park.

The park in Frederick County was formerly the estate of George Alfred Townsend, Civil War correspondent who established a stone memorial arch on it to the war correspondents of all ages.

Orchid Blooms After 116 Years

COPENHAGEN (AP)—A Mexican orchid that slept 116 years in Copenhagen's botanical gardens has come into beautiful bloom as an apparent result of long abnormally hot summer weather. Danish physicist Hans Christian Oersted brought it home in 1843 from Mexico, where it blooms annually.

Paralytic Polio Cases Again Decline

WASHINGTON (UPI) — New cases of paralytic polio dropped last week for the second week in succession, the Public Health Service reported Thursday.

There were 273 cases during the week, compared to 291 the week before. Before the week ended Sept. 5, the number of paralytic cases had increased every week since May 23.

There have been 3,084 new cases of paralytic polio so far this year, compared to 1,397 during the same period last year.

The Public Health Service reported that 841,920 doses of Salk vaccine were released during the week ended Sept. 12. During the same period, manufacturers shipped 920,643 to communities in the United States and exported 233,411 doses.

Patricia Phillips Heads Iota Epsilon Chapter, TPL

Officers were elected and activities for the year were discussed at a meeting of Iota Epsilon Chapter of Tau Phi Lambda of the Supreme Forest Woodmen Circle held Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Hazel Kemp, Myrtle Street. Mrs. Patricia Hunter and Mrs. Dorothy Ambrose were cohostesses.

Miss Patricia Phillips was elected president; Miss Juanita Prine, vice president; Miss Jacqua Day, secretary; Miss Shirley Stair, treasurer; Miss Sylvia Sisk, warder; Mrs. Mary White, historian; Mrs. Patricia Hunter, chaplain; Mrs. Jane Frederick, musician, and Mrs. Juanita Leese, advisor.

The business session was conducted by Miss Day. Mrs. Betty Dean presented the slate of officers. Mrs. Margaret Hartman reported that the club stands sixth in the national organization. Mrs. Kemp reported she had sent flowers to two members in the hospital, Mrs. Anna Margaret Connelley and Mrs. Carol Kenny; and a sympathy card to Mrs. Frances Hartman, Keyser. The club voted cash for stamps for the sunshine and birthday chairmen.

In welfare work it was announced 10½ hours had been given as chaperones at the annual children's picnic, given by the American Legion. The chaperones were Mrs. Frederick, Mrs. Juanita Leese and Charlotte Leese.

Prospective members were voted upon and Miss Phillips announced the rush party will be held September 24 at the Girl Scout house. Gypsy costumes are to be worn. Committee chairmen were appointed. They are invitations, Mrs. Frederick; favors, Mrs. Margaret Hartman; Mrs. Kemp; program, Miss Ruth Spangler, Mrs. Mary White; refreshments, Mrs. Betty Dean, Mrs. Anna Lee Snyder, Mrs. Mary Alice Millholland, and decorations, Miss Marjory Crist, Miss Day and Miss Prine.

A rummage sale is to be held early in October. The committee includes Miss Stair, Mrs. Dorothy Ambrose and Mrs. Kemp. Other activities include the Founders Day dinner the latter part of October; filling a Thanksgiving basket in November, and the annual Christmas dinner, December 10.

The evening concluded with a surprise birthday party for Mrs. Kemp.

Leaguers To Mark Observance

To "demonstrate the power of the Holy Spirit when young lives are confronted by the Gospel," several members of the Luther League of St. Paul's Lutheran Church will assist the pastor in both morning services tomorrow, for the first time in the history of the church. The theme is "In this sign conquer."

At the 8:30 service those participating are Bonnie Norris, Kent Allison, William Summers, Charlynne Hyde, and Darlene Browne as speakers; and, Lee Judy, Brad Moon, John Taylor, and Stephen Bennett as ushers. The youth of the Chancel Choir will sing at this service. At the 11 a. m. service those taking part are Robert Smith, Karen Frick, William Ritchey, Jane Sammel, and Cynthia Siehler as speakers; and Frank Williamson, James Brinkman, Robert Bruce, Patrick Trost, James Davis, Charles Floto, Merwin Hast and John Northcraft as ushers.

Those filling offices and teaching in the Sunday school hour are: William Ritchey, William Hartung, Teryl Chaney, Jane Sammel, Carol Griggs, Robert Smith, Linda Gipe, Bonnie Norris, Charlynne Hyde, Jean and Elizabeth Taylor.

The 6:30 p. m. Luther League program will be held in the youth chapel with William Ritchey as leader. The topic will be "Youth, Answer Christ's Call."

Sept. 23 the leaguers have planned a fall roundup party for all the young people of the church.

Advisors are Miss Virginia Lee Beall, Mr. and Mrs. James R. Smith, Mrs. M. Monroe MacKenzie and Rev. John F. Sammel.

LaSalle Mothers Club To Entertain Members

LaSalle Mothers Club will honor the mothers of the freshmen September 29. The party will be held in St. Patrick's Social Center at 8 o'clock, at which time Christian Brothers will be introduced to the mothers. Retiring and present officers will be in charge of arrangements.

The club is planning a rummage sale. It will be in SS. Peter and Paul hall, October 9 from 7 until 9 p.m., and October 10 from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. Mrs. Milton Kyhos is chairman, assisted by the officers. For pickup of contributions persons may call Mrs. Helen Schwenninger, PA 4-1605 or Mrs. Kyhos, PA 4-6573.

Rev. Charles W. Bogan will be celebrant for a mass at 10 o'clock October 25 in St. Mary's Church, when the club will attend, preceding the annual breakfast in the parish hall. Brother E. Paul, director of Anselm Hall, Elkins Park, Pa., will be guest speaker. The local faculty will attend. A business meeting will be held October 13 at 8 p.m. in the social center.

1951 Class Reunion Reservations Due

Dinner reservations for the reunion of Fort Hill High School, Class of 1951, are to be made by September 23, with Mrs. Shirley Taylor Squires, PA 2-5611.

The reunion will be in the form of a dinner and dance, September 26 at the Clary Club, beginning at 6:30, with music by Peck Mills Orchestra for dancing. Final plans were formulated at the meeting at the home of Mrs. Martha Burke Dailey.

Rev. Don Brake, member of the class, is to be master of ceremonies. Guest speakers will be Victor D. Heisey, Mrs. Kitty Pafel Wilson, Miss Catherine Cumbee, class advisor, and Carl Ritchie, financial advisor. Richard Dailey will offer the invocation.

Piney Plains PTA Plans Program

The Piney Plains PTA approved a plan to have Harry Norris furnish a bus to transport the school children to Fort Hill High School to see a play there twice during the school year. The association is to pay for the transportation cost, and the children, their own admission charge.

Other discussions during the first meeting of the year, conducted by Homer Creek, concerned continued need for road signs for children crossing, and the need of at least 15 members in order to obtain a leader for a child study course. Following prayer, J. Paul Andrick, principal, led in the flag salute. Mrs. Jack Bowman and Mrs. Faye Creek gave the treasurer and secretary report respectively.

Presentation of the PTA pin was made to James Crawford, former president.

Committees were named. They are James Collie, James Crawford, Mrs. Gloria Crawford, program; Joseph Price, John Bowman and Mr. Andrick, playground; Paul Smith, Lester Roberts and Brooks Stottlemeyer, budget and finance; Mrs. Joseph Price, Mrs. Olive Creek and Mrs. Alda Fletcher, refreshment. Bruce Blackburn is to continue as membership chairman; Mrs. Frieda Smith, music, and Mrs. Virginia Blackburn, publicity.

James Crawford and James Collie are to contact members interested in an advanced first aid course.

A social followed and refreshments were served by Mrs. Andrick and Mrs. Price, assisted by Ann Blackburn and Donna Fletcher.

Moberly, McGreevy Team Wins

Mrs. Bernard V. McGreevy and John A. Moberly topped the field in a Western Maryland Bridge Association game Thursday evening at the Cumberland Country Club. The game attracted a near-record attendance, there being 17½ tables in play. Section A was composed of nine tables, with an average of 108. There were 8½ tables in Section B, with the average score being 94½.

Runners-up to Mrs. McGreevy and Moberly in East-West of Section A were Mrs. Barnett Leibowitz and A. J. Feigus, 129½; Mrs. Milton Gerson and Mrs. Emmett L. Jones, 124½, and Mrs. Margaret B. Sloan and Mrs. William Frailey, 119.

Top scores in North-South of Section A were Mrs. James Hugglestone and Harding Monroe, 138½; Mrs. George F. Bottorf and Mrs. A. J. Feigus, who tied with Irving Millenson and Norman W. Taylor, each finishing with 121½, and Mrs. Roger X. Day and Mrs. Bernard F. Lewis, 118.

Leaders in North-South of Section B were George F. Bottorf and James N. Long, 106½; Mrs. Joseph Knepp and Mrs. William S. Snyder, 102½; Edgar J. Dawson and Lloyd G. Trimmier, 102, and Miss Alice Stalum and Miss Louise Zihlman, 101½.

Winners in East-West of Section B were Robert I. Dezen and Richard D. Schwab, 102½; Mrs. Norman W. Taylor and John R. Wilkinson, 99; Miss Julia Jackson and Theodore W. Gray, 98½, and C. William Dailey and William A. Douglas, 95.

The Western Maryland club will hold its annual meeting September 24 at 7:30 at the country club. All members are to attend, and a game will be played following the meeting.

The Potomac Valley Bridge Club will play a game Tuesday at 8 p. m. at the Woman's Civic Club house.

Group 3, Central Methodist Church, will hold a rummage sale Monday at the church from 10 until noon.

Moorefield Club Plans Projects

The Women's Club of Moorefield opened the 1959-60 year with a membership tea at the home of Mrs. M. H. Maxwell earlier in the week. Mrs. Albert Hiser, Mrs. Loy High, Mrs. Mask Harwood and Mrs. L. S. Moomau were new members welcomed into the club this year.

Mrs. Donald Baker, president, announced that Roy Hamilton had made and donated a new gavel to the club. It is made of apple wood.

It was decided that the club would purchase again this year the pins for the members of the National Honor Society at the Moorefield High School. It was also decided that a fan would be purchased and donated to the Grant Memorial Hospital if the Hospital Auxiliary indicated that the fan was still needed.

Mrs. Baker announced the appointment of the standing committees for the year: community service — Mrs. R. J. Troughton, Mrs. R. J. Bean, Mrs. Wendell Hester and Mrs. C. A. Ludwick Jr.; sunshine — Mrs. John Harman, Miss Elizabeth Wilson, Miss Icie Barbe; American home — Mrs. T. P. From, Mrs. J. M. Harrison, Mrs. C. G. Hamrick, Mrs. M. A. Bean; public affairs — Mrs. C. B. Bishoff, Miss Helen Leatherman, Mrs. Scotty Reynolds, Mrs. L. L. McConnell; international relations — Mrs. H. G. Muntzing, Mrs. Roy Hamilton, Mrs. Albert Hiser; civil defense — Mrs. Lois Baker, Mrs. Elmo Pownall; fine arts — Mrs. James Ansel, Mrs. Francis Baker, Mrs. Ida Feller, Mrs. C. R. Powers; youth conservation — Miss Edna Bauserman, Mrs. Lester Cleaver, Mrs. James Bond; telephone — Mrs. Clyde Grimes, Mrs. E. W. Pettit Jr., Mrs. LaMar Sager; membership — Mrs. W. D. McCauley, Mrs. Tom Hawse, Mrs. Ashby Scea; devotional — Mrs. Don Smith, Mrs. K. C. Vance; poultry festival — Mrs. R. J. Bean, Mrs. T. P. From, Mrs. Oscar Bean, Mrs. C. R. Powers, Mrs. John Harman, Miss Helen Leatherman.

The club voted to recommend Mrs. Donald Baker for office of vice president in the Eastern District. The district meeting will be held in Petersburg, October 17.

Miss Jane Welton, who was sent to Rhododendron Girls State by the Moorefield Club, reported upon her week at Jackson's Mill. Miss Carolyn Chipley, sponsored by the Women of the Moose, also appeared and shared the program with Miss Welton.

Hostesses for the evening with Mrs. Maxwell were Mrs. C. G. Hamrick, Mrs. Roy Hamilton, Mrs. Guy Lang, Mrs. Ida Feller and Mrs. LaMar Sager.

Mrs. Jeanne S. Moehn, University of Maryland will conduct a training meeting for the Girls Trail, 4-H local leaders and club presidents at 10 this morning in the extension office.

A games party, sponsored by Queen City Council 114, Daughters of America, will be held at 1:30 today in Junior Order hall.

Beta Sigma Phi Council To Sponsor Friends Aware

Four socials were planned and a project for the year adopted at the meeting of Beta Sigma Phi City Council, which was held Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Josephine Pfeiffer, Willowbrook Road.

A leave of absence was granted to Mrs. Ora Mae Lewis and Mrs. Jean Green was elected new vice president to replace her.

The Ritual of Jewels banquet is to be held October 29 at the Ali Ghan Country Club. "Guest Night" is to be held either October 14 or 21. The annual dance is to be held in April and a card party in mid-winter.

For the year's project the council selected Friends Aware.

Mrs. Betty Barnes was appointed general chairman for the dance. She will be assisted by Mrs. Dolly Green of Lambda Chapter; Mrs. Frances Frank, Omicron Chapter; Miss Betty Stegmaier, Miss Janet Stegmaier, Alpha Alpha Chapter; Miss Helene Schutz, Xi Beta Chapter and Mrs. Sara Rank, Xi Nu Chapter. The card party is to be under the chairmanship of Miss Martha Lee Heron.

Members attending were Mrs. Eve Sliviak, Mrs. Kathryn Sampson, Mrs. Barnes, Mrs. Imogene Hixson, Mrs. Rank, Mrs. Jean Green, Mrs. Lois Nichols, Mrs. Dolly Green, Mrs. Dorothea Hare, Mrs. Lewis, Mrs. Betty Frantz, Miss Heron, Miss Schutz, Mrs. Wilma Jean Heinrich and Mrs. Frank.

The next meeting will be October 15.

Mrs. Walter A. Fraley Sr., 109 Park Street, is recuperating in Sacred Heart Hospital, where she underwent an operation.

Panel To Discuss Fashions

Mrs. Rudolph Steinberger, 11 Meadow Drive, Cresaptown, will serve as moderator for a panel discussion by 10 Allegany County homemakers. She was chosen by editors of McCall's magazine, sponsor of the 1959 Congress on Better Living, which is an outgrowth of the government-sponsored "Women's Congress on Housing" of 1956.

The discussion will be on fashions and tentative plans are for it to be held October 6 in the meeting room of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association.

Besides Mrs. Steinberger, others taking part will be Mrs. Benjamin R. Lewis, Mrs. James B. Reinhart, Mrs. Edward W. Dove, Mrs. Edward R. Sokolowski, Mrs. Henry Sauer, Mrs. Arthur C. Crum of Cumberland; Mrs. Harvey E. Funk, Cresaptown; Mrs. William C. Van Newkirk, Frostburg; Mrs. Alan Macy, LaVale, and Mrs. Earl W. Jamison, Potomac Park.

Mrs. Steinberger was chosen moderator because she had been a delegate to the Washington Congress last October, after receiving an honorable mention for her entry in the kitchen remodeling contest. The ten panelists were selected from their answers to the questionnaires they received on home building, home equipment, fashion, food, beauty fields and trends in physical and emotional aspects of living.

During October, groups of 10 will meet in 150 cities to discuss the whole area of family interests, from home construction to food preparation, as well as fashions, health, beauty aids and child care. Reports of their opinions will be compiled and the results returned to the moderators.

Secrets Of Charm

Hair Control Made Easy

In a date-loaded week like this, the moment is sure to come when permanents look endy, straight hair hangs limp, and even naturally curly hair gets ideas about going its own way. This nadir between sets is bad enough at any time but it's close to tragic when you want to look your extra special best.

That's the moment to treat yourself to the miracle of the Powers Girls' sixty-minute set. During the same sixty minutes you can bathe and dress for the party ahead.

The second you hit your room, start your set by dry-cleaning your hair and scalp. Begin by parting your hair in a clean sweep over your left ear, clear across the crown of your head. Rub the part vigorously with a fresh turkish towel. Continue the parting and rubbing until you reach your right ear. Then, rub your hair with the towel as though you were drying it after a champoo.

A good brushing comes next. Bend over and let 'er fly. Then stand erect and smooth all your hair straight back. Dip your comb in a quick-drying lotion (always on hand for these crucial moments) and comb it sparingly through your hair.

Now, make a part about an inch above the hairline, horizontally across the front hair. Subdivide this into inch-square sections. Roll each section in turn around your finger.

If you want your wave or curls to fall forward, roll the hair in a forward direction. If you want them to turn backward, pull them toward the back and roll. It's all right to mix the direction if some of your hair-do sweeps forward and some back.

When you've got a thick roll over your finger, slip it off and secure the curl flat to your head with straight hair pins. Systematically roll every inch of your head this same way. It shouldn't take more than fifteen minutes.

You can spend the time while your lotion dries bedecking yourself. Just five minutes before the clock strikes the hour, take the pins out, give your curls a swipe of pomade and brush your hair into your accustomed style.

Remember, all you have to say to compliment is, "Thank you, kind sir!"

Club Has Czech, Polish Program

The Music and Arts Club appointed Mrs. Samuel Weatherholt, second vice president of the state federation, to represent the club at the state board meeting in Frederick October 9. Miss Dorothy Willison presided at the opening meeting of the season Monday evening at the home of Mrs. William Ludman, LaVale.

A program of Czechoslovakian and Polish music featured the program, with Mrs. Harry Parker giving a resume of the music and composers. Miss Carole Reith conducted the group singing with Mrs. Duke Burger at the piano. Others taking part were Mrs. Ludman, Mrs. Vernon Cost, Mrs. Howard Irwin, Mrs. Ivan Hall, Mrs. Robert Bittle and Mrs. Robert Gormer.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Ludman, Mrs. Weatherholt, Mrs. Frank Stuart Rowe and Mrs. Irwin.

BPW Receives Members, Outlines Year's Program

Three new members were accepted and highlights of the coming year outlined at the first fall meeting of the Cumberland Business and Professional Women's Club, held in the form of a dinner-meeting earlier in the week at Sheehe's Restaurant. Mrs. Blanche Mantell, Miss Mary Jo Simpson and Miss Nell Hawkins were accepted into the membership.

Mrs. Ethel Northcraft presided and Mrs. Kathleen Burke, program co-ordinator, gave highlights of the 1959-60 calendar and distributed the programs. They include a theatre party, observance of National Business Women's Week, the annual hobby show, a benefit card party, and the annual Christmas party December 8 and June picnic. Mrs. Thelma Swartzwelder, finance chairman, presented the budget, which was approved. Miss Dorothy Manley notified the club members that reservations are being taken for a matinee-dinner party, to be held September 26. Plans are to attend a performance of "Howie" at the Jennerstown Mountain Playhouse, followed by dinner at the White Star Restaurant.

Members were urged to attend the state board meeting to be held at Elkton October 3. Mrs. Northcraft, Mrs. Burke, Miss Orpha-Bonita Pritchard and Miss Gerardine Pritchard will attend and others are considering going.

Plans for the celebration of Business and Professional Women's Week, October 4-10, were announced by Mrs. Ethel Davis. The observance will open with a breakfast Sunday at the Fort Cumberland Hotel at 8:30; Monday there is to be a BPW 'Listening Party" at Seifert's third floor; and Tuesday a banquet will be held at the Ali Ghan Country Club.

A public card party was announced by Mrs. Claude Twigg. It is to be held at the Woman's Civic Club house, October 14 to augment the scholarship fund. Mrs. Karl Perry will be chairman for the annual hobby show to be held November 10, 11 and 12. Meetings are to be held the third Tuesday of each month at 5:45 at Central YMCA, except the annual spring meeting, in April.

Guests attending the dinner were Miss Lucy B. Higgins, Mrs. Effie Parsons and Miss Jane Williams. She'll Never Neglect Him...

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Day	Book	Chapter	Verses
Sunday	I Samuel	1	26-28
Monday	Luke	2	39-40
Tuesday	I Samuel	3	17-19
Wednesday	Luke	2	46-49
Thursday	I Corinthians	2	3-5
Friday	Psalms	37	3-6
Saturday	Deuteronomy	7	9

Mrs. Thompson is a "modern" mother. She wouldn't think of neglecting her baby's regular visit to the doctor. She knows that these early check-ups plus proper diet, rest and care, are vital if her child is to grow up into a strong, healthy boy, ready to take his place in tomorrow's world.

Nor will she forget an even more important factor in his development—his spiritual check-ups. When the time comes and baby is old enough, his tiny footsteps will lead him into Church School where another kind of ministry will be given to him. Later still, he will worship with his parents, and the importance of the family unit together at work, at play and in worship will be engrained in his mind.

In tomorrow's world he will be well equipped to take his place physically, mentally . . . and spiritually.

Future Teachers To Meet At Jackson's Mill Oct. 2

JACKSON'S MILL, W. Va. — College and high school students who will teach West Virginia's schools of tomorrow will gather at Jackson's Mill October 2-4 for their annual convention. About 300 are expected.

Sponsored by the West Virginia Education Association, the meeting will include members of the Future Teachers of America and Student National Association.

Eugene Smith, education major at West Virginia University will preside over the three-day session when students will consider school problems in the state. This is the eighth annual convention for the group.

Dr. Bertha Lawrence, New Jersey educator, will make the keynote address to the group Friday afternoon and Theella Woods, a student at West Virginia State will describe highlights of the NEA national convention in St. Louis last summer.

Dr. Craig Wilson, assistant superintendent of West Virginia schools, will speak to the group Saturday morning. He will be followed by a student panel headed by Kenley Hamlin of West Virginia Tech.

Beatrice Harvey, state Classroom Teacher official and a teacher in Greenbrier County, will discuss professional standards with the group Saturday; Myron Drummond, president of the Elementary Principals Association from Huntington will make a talk on public relations. Professional ethics will be discussed by Ella Bergdoll, state Classroom Teachers president from Moorefield, and Dr. John F. Montgomery of Greenbrier College in Lewisburg will talk on "Quality Teaching."

Heading a discussion on professional organizations in general will be Willis Chambers, Kanawha County assistant superintendent of schools.

Taking part in workshops will be Dr. Eddie Kennedy, West Virginia University; Edward McMillion, Nicholas Co. high school, Summersville; Virginia Frazier of Nitro High School; Mrs. Doris Bowers of Nitro and Miss Mabel Nichols of Webster Springs High School.

A banquet will be held Saturday evening when Catherine Clark, president of the WVEA, and Dr. Harrison H. Ferrell of West Virginia State will make principal talks.

Corma A. Mowrey, director of professional services for the WVEA, is in charge of the meeting.

Bible Prophecy Lecture Series Begins Sunday

FROSTBURG — Beginning tomorrow evening at 7:30 a "Bible Prophecy Speaks" series of evangelistic meetings will begin in the Adventist Church at 81 West College Avenue, Frostburg. Otis L. Parish, pastor and Bible lecturer will be the speaker.

The opening topic will be "World Peace or Atomic Pieces" with the film "Is the World Headed for Chaos?"

"This subject is especially appropriate in the light of the age in which we live, because so many are asking questions about this very thing," says Pastor Parish.

Motion pictures will be shown each night and the sermons will be illustrated by Colorama. Appropriate books will be given away every night.

On Tuesday evening the subject is "Did God Create a Devil?" and on Friday, "What and Where Is Heaven?" The services will continue each Sunday, Tuesday and Friday nights for several weeks. The public is invited.

Keyser Airs Proposal For Public Housing

Council Approves C. Of C. Suggestion

KEYSER — The Mayor and councilmen of Keyser have agreed to cooperate with the Keyser Chamber of Commerce in the establishment of a local Public Housing Authority, and have also passed an emergency ordinance to curtail use of water any time the supply becomes limited or an emergency exists.

The ordinance, which goes into effect immediately, gives the city administration the power to prohibit the use of water for lawns, washington automobiles and the like and limits its use to household needs only. Violators may be fined from $5 to $10.

It was, of course, enacted because of the city's precarious water supply due to the drought. Earlier this week the Mayor and Council requested consumers to limit the use of water, but now the request has become an order and can be enforced.

The Housing Authority proposal by the Chamber of Commerce was accepted enthusiastically by the Mayor and Council. It would set up a Housing Authority similar to that in nearby Cumberland. Funds would be obtained through the Public Housing Authority for slum clearance and the erection of low-cost housing units.

The rentals from the units would amortize the PHA grant in 40 years, and the properties then would be turned over to the city.

I. Fred Anderson is chairman of the Chamber of Commerce committee, assisted by Floyd C. Boor, Earl K. Hess, Ralph O. Martin and J. Lee Temple. No definite action towards forming the Housing Authority has been taken, except that Anderson has conferred with officers of the Cumberland Housing Authority to obtain pertinent information.

If a Housing Authority is formed here, the next step would be for the PHA to make a survey and determine the needs and location for the low-cost rental units.

Officials Plan Discussion Of Race Passes

R. Bruce Livie, chairman of the Maryland Racing Commission, will be in Hagerstown today to work with racing officials toward an agreement over alleged "discrimination" against area fans attending the Cumberland Fair Association's 12-day racing meet there.

Mr. Livie told J. Glenn Beall, president of the Cumberland Fair Association, he will confer today with Dr. Robert Snavely, president of the Hagerstown Fair Association, in an effort to reach agreement.

The local fair association yesterday lodged an official protest with the Maryland Racing Commission over what it terms discrimination.

Conferring by telephone with Mr. Livie, Senator Beall complained that Cumberland passes are not being honored at the Hagerstown track, to which the local meet was shifted due to the shortage of horses.

Senator Beall told the Maryland racing head that area race fans are being discriminated against. Tax-free passes, he said, which were put out by the Cumberland Fair Association are not being honored. A 50-cent service charge is being assessed, he stated, on grandstand passes and a dollar on press passes.

This, Senator Beall maintained, is not only unfair to the fans, but is depriving the state of additional revenue because it is hurting the wagering.

Harry J. Barton, general manager of the Cumberland Fair Association, also conferred with chairman Livie on the matter.

Three Trailer Owners Pay $10 Arrival Tax

Three more owners of house trailers have paid their $10 Allegany County arrival tax and have received tags to attach to their trailers as receipts.

The latest to pay this new tax, which became effective June 1, are James McKenzie, McMullen Highway, whose trailer is in Election District 7; Kenneth M. Wallizer, whose trailer is in District 21, and Hugh Speir, Danville, whose trailer also is in District 7.

Sterling F. Malcolm of McCoole, District 31, purchased the first trailer tag on September 9.

These trailer arrival taxes are required for every trailer remaining in Allegany County for 30 days. They are required under House Bill 795, introduced by Delegate William Walsh. The measure is designed to get house trailers on the county tax books. Those who pay the $10 arrival tax are allowed a $10 rebate on their real estate taxes in the coming year.

Orphans Court Probates Wills Of Three Persons

The last testament of Charles Francis Kaiser, who was 68 and lived at 214 Emily Street at the time of his death August 29, was one of three wills admitted to probate yesterday in Allegany County Orphans Court.

Mr. Kaiser left all of his household furniture and other tangible personal property to one of his daughters, now Mrs. Mary Jean Kaiser Rapson. All the rest of his estate was left equally to three daughters, Mrs. Helen Kaiser Wilson, Mrs. Catherine Kaiser McNeel and Mrs. Rapson, a stepson, Elwood Mitchell, and a son, Charles Francis Kaiser Jr. Attorney William Walsh qualified as executor of the estate under a $5,000 bond. The will was dated November 20, 1957.

Also probated westerday was the will of Mrs. Bessie May Davis, who was 70 and lived at 1418 River Avenue at the time of her death September 11. Her husband, Frank Theodore Davis, qualified as executor under a $5,000 bond. He was bequeathed her property at Roberts Street and River Avenue along with all merchandise, store fixtures, store furniture and household furniture. He was given a life interest in all of the rest of her estate which is to go equally to her four sisters upon his death. The will was dated November 6, 1940.

The last will of John M. Murphy, who was 74 and lived in Lonaconing at the time of death August 17, left his entire estate to his friend, Etta Mae Dare, Lonaconing. She qualified as executrix of the estate under a $1,000 bond. This will was dated May 19, 1959, less than three months before his death.

Additional Frost Slated For Area

A heavy frost covered this area early yesterday morning as the temperature dipped to a low of 27 degrees at Oakland.

More scattered frost was forecast in Western Maryland this morning. Mostly sunny weather with slightly warmer temperatures are forecast for this afternoon.

Other area readings yesterday morning included 28 degrees at Deal, 31 at LaVale and 34 at Cumberland and Frostburg.

Stocks Suffer Fourth Loss Of Week In Quiet Market

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks suffered their fourth loss of the week Friday, bringing the loss in values for the five session to more than seven billion dollars.

Trading picked up on the decline but it still was a relatively quiet market. Sales totaled 2,530,000 shares, against 2,090,000 Thursday.

Again it was the thinness of the market rather than any news that brought the easiness into the list. The market received very little support as investors stood to the sidelines awaiting new developments in steel negotiations and the money market.

Khrushchev was virtually ignored by the market. There were many glowing predictions about the outlook for 1960, but even these failed to lure investors into trading.

Electronics issues again were the hardest hit in the sell-off. General Time dropped 5, IBM 4⅞ and Litton 3¾, the last ignoring stock split news.

An optimistic outlook for American Motors lifted that stock 1⅛ in an otherwise narrow and mixed auto section. Chrysler and Ford added fractions while General Motors eased.

The prolonged steel strike kept the pressure on steel shares. Carpenter fell 3½; Armco 1⅝, Wheeling and American Steel Foundries 1⅜ each, and U.S. Steel 1¼.

Oils extended Thursday's substantial losses by as much as 1¾ in Seklly, which Thursday ended its merger talks with Tidewater. The latter was off 1⅛.

Rails dropped to a new 1959 low on average paced by a one point decline in Southern Pacific. Western Maryland, not in the averages, fell 1¾.

United Industrial Corp., with the help of a late block of 80,000 shares, was the most active issue on sales of 89,800. It closed up ¾.

Of the total 1,179 issues traded Friday, 971 declined, 229 advanced, and 179 held unchanged. New 1959 lows were made by 169 issues and new highs by two.

Stock values were cut in all major groups Friday as trading tempo increased on the American Exchange.

Oils, electronics and metals all showed widespread losses of moderate portions. A few scattered specialties were the only bright spots.

Vanguard Is Boosted Into Space

ABL Develops 3rd Stage Engine

The third stage rocket engine which boosted the Vanguard III satellite into orbit yesterday was developed at Allegany Ballistics Laboratory at Pinto and the Hercules Young Development Division, Rocky Hill, N. J.

The third-stage engine consists of a double-base solid propellant encased in a plastic shell. The solid propellant was developed at Allegany Ballistics Laboratory and the case was designed and produced by the New Jersey unit.

It is essentially, the same unit used as the third stage of the Thor Able III which launched the National Aeronautics and Space Administration Explorer VI, which remains in orbit.

ABL is a Navy Bureau of Ordnance facility which has been operated by Hercules Powder Company since 1946.

The propellant charge was designed especially to be burned under the vacuum conditions that exist at high altitudes. The combination of its high-performance characteristics with the lightweight case provided the final "kick" that brought the satellite's velocity to the designed level.

The glass filament-reinforced plastic case resulted from 10 years of research and development by Hercules for a material lighter than metal yet just as strong, for use in making solid propellant rocket engines. It constitutes a major structural change in modern rocket design, and permits designers of rocket engines to put greater weight of propellant, or more "push per pound," in the finished rocket engine. This is an especially critical factor in multistage space probes, where each additional pound of dead weight in second and third stages of the vehicle requires hundreds of pounds of additional fuel in the first stage.

Scientists and engineers at ABL yesterday were pleased to learn of the success of their participation in the Navy's Vanguard program. This effort by the laboratory came on the last-scheduled firing in the present series of Vanguard launchings.

John N. Sherman, assistant superintendent of the Rocket Development Department, and William B. Helbert Jr., development engineer, have been at Cape Canaveral since last Saturday assisting in the installation of the ABL third-stage motor.

Sherman, in a phone conversation with ABL officials stated, "Both Mr. Helbert and myself thought, while viewing the Vanguard launching, that it was going skyward with many hours, days and nights of concentrated engineering efforts and hard work by ABL and Hercules, in addition to the other companies involved.

"When we learned that the firing was successful, we felt that the long hours spent preparing the third-stage for its function in the overall program were certainly hours well spent."

N.Y. Eggs And Butter

NEW YORK (AP) — (USDA) — Wholesale egg offerings very short on large and short to ample on mediums and smalls. Demand good. Receipts 11,900.

Nearby Whites: Top quality (48-50 lbs) 51-55; mediums 32-33; smalls 20-21; peewees 14-15.

Browns. Top quality (48-50 lbs) 51-52; mediums 32-33; smalls 21-22; peewees 14-15.

Butter offerings adequate. Demand fair. Receipts 561,000. Prices unchanged.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Grains were mixed and mostly quiet Friday in the last session of the week on the Chicago Board of Trade.

At the final bell, wheat was off ⅛ to up ⅞; corn was off ¼ to up ¼; oats were up 1½; new oats off ⅛ to up ¼; rye was up ⅛ to off ½ and soybeans were off ¾ to 1¼.

The wheat market was steady. September contracts were wanted at 5⅝ cents below the December price. Several commission houses sold September. There was some early commission house buying and later commission house selling. The weather forecast in portions of the winter wheat area was favorable.

Corn was mostly steady. Northwest brokers bought September and the market rallied. Commission houses were sellers. Favorable weather was reported for the corn belt. Most export subsidy bids were rejected.

The oats market was steady with not much trade. Cash houses continued to buy new September. Commission house trade was mixed.

Rye was weak, led by nearby contracts.

Soybeans were heavy, after opening on the easy side. One export house bought on the decline. There was moderate commission house selling. There was little to suggest that rains might interfere with the harvest. Some of the trade expected the new crop movement to expand over the weekend or as the new week progresses.

Meals were easier.

Germany and Denmark were reported to have bought soybeans. The United Arab Republic and Pakistan were said to be in the market for wheat. Trading in September grain futures contracts will end at the close of business Monday. New figures on the amount of grain under price support will be made public by the government early in the week. Outside markets were irregular. The range:

Collectors Should Make Tax Probes, Rowan Says

Allegany County tax collectors who were appointed before the central collection system went into effect this year should be responsible for all investigations into cases involving insolvencies.

This was the opinion of John J. Rowan, president of the Board of Allegany County Commissioners, on the subject concerning a Georges Creek case.

The collector involved was appointed under the previous administration and is paid on the percentage of taxes collected.

These collectors serve until all the taxes are gathered for the years in which they serve, or until those that can't be collected are declared insolvent and the books cleared.

Rowan pointed out that these collectors are bonded, and in his opinion, the county has no legal right to pay for an investigation of any case involving an insolvency.

He pointed out an assessor's report is also considered when the county commissioners grant an insolvency.

Payment for this Georges Creek case investigation by the county would be setting a precedent for other pending tax cases, he added.

The board of commissioners also sent to the State Department of Assessment and Taxation the names of three men who are candidates for the job of assessor in the County Assessment Department.

The job becomes vacant with the retirement of Claude R. Woodard, veteran assessor in that department.

The candidates sent to Albert W. Ward, director of the Department of Assessment and Taxation are Cletus G. Brailer, Mt. Savage; John R. Kelly, 727 Maryland Avenue, and John H. Stiteley, 749 Washington Street.

Hearing Is Set In Sewer Case

Warrants have been served on two property owners who are charged by the city engineer's office with maintaining a nuisance by improper maintenance of a private sewer line on Decatur Street.

Warrants were served yesterday on Byron Kight, 309 Decatur Street, and William A. Spruill, 743 Washington Street, who owns an apartment house adjoining Kight's property. A hearing has been scheduled for 9 a. m. Monday in Police Court.

Spruill previously had been ordered to make repairs to the sewer line, but advised authorities that he was unable to obtain permission from Kight to get onto his property in order to make the repairs.

At a hearing before Trial Magistrate Allan Weatherholt, the city engineer was advised to have a firm make the repairs to the sewer line and then bill the charges to the proper person.

Picketing Continues At Packing Plant

Pickets continued to pace yesterday before the local Swift and Company branch unit here as negotiations between the company and the two AFL-CIO unions continued deadlocked in Chicago.

The line was set up early this week and yesterday was manned by several members of Pittsburgh Local 424, which has bargaining rights here, and a number of women workers from the plant.

The Chicago negotiations are being conducted by the Meat Cutters and the Parking House Workers unions.

A plant spokesman said the union wants to see what the Western plants settle for before negotiating for area contracts and that area units should not be struck.

A local 424 spokesman said the strike here has been authorized and that the Swift settlement offer falls 9½ cents short of the Armour agreement.

About 25 workers are affected here.

Lonaconing School Safety Meeting Set

County Commissioner William A. Wilson said yesterday he will meet with the Mayor and Council of Lonaconing Monday night on the subject of school children's safety on Georges Creek Boulevard.

A complaint was received by the Board of Allegany County Commissioners Tuesday concerning students at Valley High School having to walk on Route 36 to and from school.

Wilson was named to investigate the issue and said yesterday that the problem is also one that must be shared by the Allegany County Board of Education.

The commissioner said he will discuss the 300 feet of Route 36 on which the students walk that is in the corporate limits of Lonaconing.

The remainder of the distance is in the county and the children use the state road for a sidewalk.

Wilson pointed out that the students walk three or four abreast and motorists have to stop for them.

He commented that possibly a school boy patrol system with disciplinary action would be one solution.

Most of the houses abut right on the highway, he explained, and there is no room for a sidewalk.

Another solution is using an alley behind the properties that face on Route 36. This would involve going across land owned by a Frostburg coal concern and would lead from Church Hill to the school.

Board Is Thanked By Two Agencies

Letters of thanks were received from two Allegany County agencies by the Board of Allegany County Commissioners yesterday.

One was from Miss Henrietta Schwarzenbach, president of the Allegany County League for Crippled Children, and was in appreciation of the $1,000 given the league by the county from the public welfare fund.

She pointed out that this contribution gives tremendous support and added encouragement for all those who work with crippled children.

Miss Schwarzenbach reported that the league has an active caseload of 987 children.

Another communication of thanks was from the Allegany County Chapter of the American Cancer Society. Mrs. Regina Cioni, executive secretary, thanked the commissioners for the donation of $600.

Hot Time In The Space Capsule

Now that Project Mercury is fast working up toward the man-in-orbit goal, the candidates for the first trip — somehow "maiden voyage" seems inappropriate — are watching the results of every experimental shot with interest. Interest? That's putting it mildly.

When a fellow crawls into a capsule sometime a year or two from now, he wants to think he can come back safe and sound to earth. It's a safe bet there's not a single would-be colonizer among all those astronauts.

One thing an astronaut wants to know is that he has a good chance of coming back uncooked. So it is worth noting that the temperature inside the space capsule fired recently from Cape Canaveral, Fla., never exceeded 100 degrees Fahrenheit despite an outside temperature that reached a peak of 3,000 degrees.

Anyone can stand 100 degrees for a while. Before air-conditioning was standard equipment for cars crossing the Great American Desert—or for the cars of sheiks of Araby and their harems — men, women and children withstood temperatures somewhat higher with more or less ease.

That being a matter of record, the astronauts can consider that 100-degree warmth in the nose cone that went 100 miles up, and be reassured. After all, those two rocketing monkeys survived, some months ago. A larger capsule seems on the way to offering nothing worse for a man.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Going Capitalist

Installment buying is saving in advance; that is, it is possible to make purchases without possessing the means to make the purchase. It is a distinctly American innovation in the capitalist economy.

Prior to installment buying, the purchaser bought a commodity after he had the money. One of the earliest forms of installment buying was the "Customer Pedlar." He was, in effect, a factor who lent the customer the money to buy a commodity, provided the purchase was made in a particular store. The Customer Pedlar got his from both sides, a commission from the store and interest on the money he lent to the customer.

Installment buying is, in a large measure, responsible for the exaggeratedly high standard of living in the United States. It makes mass production possible because of the enormous purchasing power developed among the people. It is also inflationary.

Installment buying has generally been condemned by Marxists as wasteful and as a weapon of the capitalists to soften the worker into believing that he is better off than he really is. Now, however, "Izvestia," the Soviet government organ, officially announces that Soviet Russia is about to adopt installment buying as a method of increasing the purchasing power of the Russian people. Herewith the text:

" 'Izvestiya' reports that in the near future workers and employees will be able to buy a variety of consumer goods through installment buying. The list of these goods includes phonographs and radio sets of the super, first, and second class; cameras costing from 400 rubles; bicycles, scooters, motorcycles 'M/L/M' and 'K/58'; 'Moskva' boat engines; 'Tula' sewing machines; shotguns costing from 700 rubles; metal wristwatches; and woolen and silk clothing. This list, applicable to the union republics, may be changed and augmented.

"In buying goods on the installment plan, customers will make an initial cash payment of 20 percent of the value of the goods and pay off the rest over 6 and 12 months.

For the convenience of customers and on their written authorization, enterprises and institutions where they are employed will deduct the installments from their salaries. This will result in a considerable saving of time. An interest rate of one to two percent of the cost of the goods is charged for the installment plan facilities."

Two phases of this announcement are interesting. One is the check-off. In the United States the check-off is employed principally to collect labor union dues. It is also used in connection with fringe benefits to which the employer makes contributions. It is rarely employed in connection with installment buying. However, in Soviet Russia the government is the sole employer and the government is the sole shopkeeper. In a word, if a fellow wants to gyp, he can only gyp the government which gives him his job, determines his wages, provides him with permits to use living quarters and sells him everything he buys.

The other factor of exceptional interest is the interest rate which the government charges for its money. Interest is a capitalistic device. In theoretical Marxism, interest is usury. It is adding to the cost of an item, a sum over and above the cost to produce, carry and distribute the item. It is building capital instead of productivity.

In capitalist theory interest is a just compensation for the use of money, provided the rate charged is not usurious. Usury is a term fixed by law.

In a capitalist country, loans for installment buying are made by banks, finance companies and since World War II, in the United States, to a limited degree, by government agencies, particularly to veterans.

In Soviet Russia, it is the government that becomes the lender and charges the interest. It is the government that goes capitalistic and becomes a finance company, charging for the use of money to purchase goods made by workers in government-owned factories.

However, the ownership of the factories or the stores by the Soviet government does not lessen the fact that Soviet Russia is forced to increase its use of capitalist devices. Whereas Red China continues to attempt to operate under classical Marxist theories, Soviet Russia is moving in the direction of a peculiar type of mixed economic system for which there is no name. Soviet Russia might land in a kind of William McKinley capitalism rather than in Leninist Communism.

Labor Leaders Had Hot Debate About Meeting With Khrushchev

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — The public knows that Nikita Khrushchev of Russia is sitting down in the Mark Hopkins Hotel in San Francisco tomorrow to be cross-examined by a group of AFL-CIO leaders. But the public doesn't know what happened behind the scenes before this meeting was arranged.

When James Carey, president of the United Electrical Workers, arrived at Unity House, Pa., for the recent AFL-CIO executive council meeting, he had no sooner stepped inside the door than he was paged. It was Ambassador Menshikov in Washington calling.

"It is important," he said, "that Khrushchev get the views of American Labor leaders. We will agree to such a conference."

Carey went into the dining room, sat down at the most important table, No. 8, called the "captain's table," usually occupied by David Dubinsky, head of the International Ladies Garment Workers which owns Unity House. On this occasion it was occupied by President George Meany and Jay Lovestone, the reformed Communist who is Meany's anti-Communist adviser. Meany didn't look too hospitable as Carey sat down. He had heard him paged by the Russian Ambassador.

"George, I was paged on my arrival here by Ambassador Menshikov," said Carey, "and he has agreed to a meeting between labor and Khrushchev. Khrushchev has a very tight schedule but he will agree to meet with us in San Francisco. I wanted to know what are the wishes of labor."

"Jim," replied Meany, "you delivered the message and you know how I feel."

"That I do," replied Carey.

Jay Lovestone remarked that he would like to tell Khrushchev a thing or two, to his face.

"Do you want me to set up a meeting?" asked Carey.

"Khrushchev would no more meet with Jay Lovestone," replied Lovestone, "than the chief rabbi would eat ham on Yom Kippur."

"I don't think Khrushchev knows of your existence," replied Carey, 'but I'll try to arrange it—with Meany's permission. Suppose we put you both on television and give you 20 minutes and Khrushchev 20 minutes."

"I'll take ten," snapped Lovestone.

Asking For Punishment

Later, at the closed-door AFL-CIO executive council meeting, Meany expressed his blunt disapproval of any labor conference with Khrushchev. Obviously Meany hadn't realized the amazing changes that must have taken place inside Russia when its No. 1 man was not only willing to face a battery of press club questions but sit down with blunt-talking American labor leaders who have taken the lead in opposing Communism. This would never have happened under Stalin, nor under Malenkov, his successor, nor with Foreign Minister Molotov. They did not tolerate debate or disagreement.

However, Deputy Premier Mikoyan had stuck his head in the lion's mouth at a luncheon with Carey, Walter Reuther, Bill Doherty, head of the Letter Carriers, Jack Knight, head of the Oil Workers, and Joe Beirne, head of the Communications Workers. They had heckled and cross-examined him. Despite this, Khrushchev with Ambassador Menshikov's blessing was ready to return for similar punishment. Meany knew all this. However, he exploded at the closed-door executive council meeting.

"If President Eisenhower and the State Department want to welcome this tyrant to the United States that's their business," he said. "But I want no part of it and neither do the great majority of working people we represent."

Meany added that he understood Carey had already arranged a meeting with Khrushchev through the Soviet Embassy.

"What's wrong with some of us meeting with Khrushchev?" shot back Carey, who has waged a bitter battle to purge Communists from labor unions. "It doesn't mean we agree with him or condone Communism. On the contrary, we want to sit down with this man and set him straight on a few things, including how American labor feels about events in Hungary.

"We also want to set him straight on the high living standards and democracy enjoyed by American working people."

Meany countered that the Khrushchev visit would be interpreted as "appeasement" by our NATO allies in Europe.

"I feel the same way about it," Meany added. "If the White House and State Department want to wine and dine this guy with blood on his hands, American labor doesn't have to get into the act."

Reuther Disagrees

Walter Reuther immediately spoke up to say that there was no "appeasement" in talking to Khrushchev "straight from the shoulder in the usual American way."

"This is a golden opportunity for American labor to speak its piece in the cold war," Reuther said. "Khrushchev is a former workingman, and miner. He may not understand the State Department, but we can talk to him in his own language."

"Communications is my business," interrupted Joe Beirne, president of the American Communications Workers. "It is the bread and butter of my union. Everyone says that the way to world peace is through understanding. How are we going to understand this guy if we don't communicate with him? It was the Apostle Paul who said if you're going to convert the heathen you must carry the Gospel to them."

"I agree with that idea 100 per cent," said Doherty, president of the Letter Carriers, "except that it was not Paul who was the first to carry the Lord's message. It was Moses. Saint Paul may have pioneered your union, Joe, but Moses was the first letter carrier. He carried the word of the Lord on slabs of stone down from Mount Sinai."

This was the rough-and-tumble debate held behind closed doors by American labor leaders before some of them arranged to meet the head of the Soviet Union in an equally rough-and-tumble debate in San Francisco.

Hints On The Game Of Khrushchev-Watching

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

On television or in person, a great many people will be watching and listening to Nikita Sergeyvich Khrushchev in the next ten days. Here, then, are some tips of Khrushchev-watching, based on recent experience.

Remember, first of all, that this sport of pastime demands extreme prudence. Bear in mind the broken careers of Molotov and Malenkov, Kaganovich, Shepilov, Bulganin, and how many others, who have been Khrushchev's competitiors for power. Consider Marshal Zhukov, defeated and destroyed.

These men were also Khrushchev-watchers, all but Zhukov, studying Khrushchev's every move and glance with the deadly intensity of rivals; but they were not watchful enough. Remember these men's fates. Then look at Khrushchev on the rostrum, and you begin to suspect how it happened.

The solid, squat, gutta-percha-like figure is not outwardly impressive, despite the careful tailoring. There is nothing majestic or commanding, nothing to intimate the fearful power the man wields. Reading one of his shrewdly prepared speeches, having a little trouble with his old-fashioned steel-rimmed spectacles, stumbling every so often with a difficult word, he looks like any prosperous, hard-working, penny-pinching farmer who has reached the chairmanship of the local school board by the sheer weight of his own toilsome success with his fields.

Better still, look at Khrushchev answering or asking questions, without the spectacles and the prepared manuscript. He is all animation, all vivid gesture, and if the question can be turned to humor, he is marvelously humorous. A great actor would be needed to imitate Khrushchev at the National Press Club, when he pretended to confuse Communist China and America, to suggest that we too had had our Communist revolution, and then to apologize most humbly for his error. At such a moment as this, you can imagine his rivals thinking of him, with easy, perilous complacency, as "Little Nikita, the Kremlin's favorite comic turn."

But wait until there is a question that angers or embarrasses him, about Hungary, for instance, or about his own complicity in Stalin's crimes. Then the heavy jaw juts; the powerful shoulders hunch forward; the little eyes flash daangerously; the pleasant voice grows harsh. And suddenly, if you have been brought up on "Horatius at the Bridge," you find yourself recalling:

"The great wild boar that had its den

"Amidst the reeds of Cosa's fen

"And wasted fields, and slaughtered men

"Along Albania's shore."

No doubt Khrushchev did not allow himself these moments of self-revelation, when it was needful to convince Malenkov and Molotov that he was only "Little Nikita, the Kremlin's favorite comic turn." But now, in the plenitude of his unparalleled power, with his Lunik landed on the moon's face, he can permit himself to be more forthright as a guest of the United States. And in these forthright flashes, you may glimpse the danger and the strength and the dynamism of this strange human animal, this ultimate product of an iron struggle for survival such as most Americans cannot even imagine.

Study, too, the inner meaning of the smooth-worn phrases that he always uses. "The right of all peoples to choose the system they live under" equals, "What happened to Hungary and what is now happening in Laos, unless you others can stop it." And, "Peaceful co-existence" equals "You lie quiet while we do you in." And, "Banishing all threats to peace" equals "Western surrender at Berlin." And so it goes, from start to finish, unless the fog of double-meaninged cliches is accidentally dispelled.

The fog was dispelled in Washington, when Khrushchev was asked whether he had once said of the capitalist world, "We will bury you." There was a trace of the ingratiating old peasant, oiling his way over an indiscretion; there was a momentary sketch from a Turgenev short story, when he sweetly explained that he really did not want to bury us all physically. But there was an amazing ring of confidence and belief and finality in his trumpeted proclamation, "From feudalism, capitalism was born, and capitalism buried feudalism; from capitalism Communism has been born, and I think I know the end."

Thus you know that this is a man who believes, deeply believes, in the system that has produced and aggrandized him. And thus you see how the belief has justified the horrors, and how Nikita Sergeyvich Khrushchev quite surely thinks of himself as a highly moral man.

TOURISTS GALORE — Eighty million visitors a year seems an astronomical and impossible figure, yet this is what the National Park service estimates the total will be in visitors to the nation's parks by 1966.

The nation's parks and monuments range from the historic sites in Washington and New York and other eastern cities to the vast virgin forest lands and plains of the West.

Several years ago, when the mounting tide of vacationers indicated that increasing millions would visit the nation's parks and monuments in the years ahead, the National Park service embarked on an improvement program to make ready for the stampede.

In the last three years, the National Park service has completed nearly $100 million in improvements, including buildings, roads, exhibit facilities, lodges and camp grounds. The Park service says that when those 80 million come swarming around in 1966, they'll be ready for them.

Homemaking Is More Than A Full-Time Job

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Being a housewife is a full-time job, consisting of companion, cook, housekeeper, wife, mother, hostess, chauffeur, financier, and citizen. Occasionally the woman also is a bread-winner. The job of homemaking deserves more prestige than it receives because home and family are basic to the survival of our western culture.

It is easy to understand why most mothers are dead to the world by the end of the day. Many with young children work 16 hours a day, 7 days a week. They get no vacations and are bogged down with responsibilities. If, in addition, they must care for aged relatives, the situation may become overwhelming.

The problems of homemaking are so complex it takes a stable woman to escape without a few emotional scars. Worries about husband, children, and money are everyday affairs in some households. Fatigue invites nervousness, insomnia, and depression.

Women are not always happy with their lot and feelings of guilt or hostility often stem from incidents of bygone days. But the majority have a built-in safety valve in the form of an active tongue and free flowing tears. They obtain considerable relief by talking things over and ventilating their plans, fears, problems, and hopes.

Others need more practical assistance in the form of leisure time, outside activities, and more social life with husband and friends. A new hat helps temporarily. Recognition from a loving husband goes a long way, especially when he cooperates by altering his work schedule to spend more time at home.

Now and then relief is obtained through the help of assistants to provide more needed breaks in the routine of "mother's never ending day."

PREMATURES

D. A. writes: Is it true that incubator babies usually have an eye defect?

REPLY

No. Several years ago some incubator babies became blind because they received too much oxygen. Giving oxygen to prematures is a life saving procedure. But the tiniest babies, who were born before the eyes had a chance to develop, were the ones whose vision was affected. This no longer occurs.

MILK IS BASIC

H. E. M. writes: Is milk essential in a child's diet?

REPLY

No, but milk contains so many essential nutritive substances, it is difficult to plan a balanced diet without at least a pint a day.

DIZZINESS ON LYING

T. S. writes: Could blood pressure be responsible for getting dizzy when I lie on my back?

REPLY

Possibly, but the commonest cause is a disturbance of the balancing mechanism in the ear.

PARENTS' BLOOD

Mrs. D. writes: Since a baby has only the mother's blood during pregnancy, does the child get any of the father's blood?

REPLY

The baby manufactures his own blood, which comes into close contact with the mother's blood in the placenta. It is here that the youngster receives his nourishment, even though two streams of blood do not mix. The type of blood is determined by a mixture of the chromosomes from the father and mother.

ETHER

J. L. writes: Is ether still used as an anesthetic?

REPLY

Yes, but not as often as it was a decade ago. It is most valuable when deep anesthesia with full relaxation is needed.

OVERSUPPLIED

W. I. writes: If a person has three kidneys must the extra one be removed surgically?

REPLY

No—the more the merrier, so long as the kidneys are healthy.

MEAT AND WEARINESS

W. D. writes: Will eating more meat help overcome fatigue?

REPLY

It might, provided your meat intake is low at present. Why are you fatigued?

THERE ARE TESTS

F. D. writes: How can a woman 39 tell whether she is pregnant or in the change?

REPLY

Via examination and the usual pregnancy tests.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Mims Jemison, of Tuscaloosa, Ala., sent me this very heartening story:

"Some years ago, a civic-minded merchant, Dave Rosenau, proposed a cup to the 'most useful Tuscaloosan.' Jim Brierton, wealthy industrialist, promptly proposed Dr. Obediah Dawson for the honor, and his motion was passed unanimously. Dr. Charles Boyd was chosen to preside at the ceremony. Attorney Cliff Penick was named to make the presentation speech, and Mose Coe appointed to ring the church bells summoning folks to the meeting. Now hear this:

Dave Rosenau is a Jew.

J. L. Brierton is a Catholic.

Dr. Dawson is a Baptist preacher.

The building chosen is the Methodist Church.

Dr. Boyd is a Presbyterian minister.

C. H. Penick is an Episcopalian vestryman.

And Mose Coe is an elder of the First African Baptist Church."

Bravo, Tuscaloosa!

Red Trade? Peanuts!

By Leslie Gould

Next to propaganda, the main purpose of Nikita Khrushchev's visit to the U.S. is trade. And that on the cuff. The figure is around $5 billion.

For years Russia has been promising the western world increased trade.

The drive for this has stepped up with the shift under Khrushchev to what he terms "peaceful competition."

There is nothing peaceful about this competition. It is economic warfare. It is just as all out as any phase of the hot and cold wars, that have disrupted the world since the ending of the big war in 1945.

Trade as practiced by the free world is an exchange of goods and services. This trade must be in balance if one or the other countries involved is to remain financially solvent. When trade gets out of balance — a country buys more than it sells—it loses gold.

Russian style trade is different. Under the Russian concept of economics, trade is perverted solely for political action.

Russian trade is designed:

1.—To further world Communism.

2.—To undermine the economies of the capitalistic nations.

3.—To bring under Communist domination the underdeveloped countries.

Soviet trading is state trading. Profit is not a consideration. Prices thus can be strategically determined by the Kremlin bosses in ways not open to competing private enterprises. Also, some of the goods and raw materials are slave labor produced.

When it has suited Moscow's purposes, prices can be — and they have been — fixed under the market.

Moscow can dump goods and disrupt the world markets as it has recently in platinum, tin and aluminum. A typical deal was in Egyptian cotton, which Moscow bought and then, when displeased with Nasser, dumped at 10 per cent below the market.

Russian trade can be largely illusionary — particularly when it comes down to how it is to be paid for.

At the official rate of four rubles to the dollar — which is a fictional value — total Russian trade with the non-Communist world for the latest year is only about $2.2 billion. This is less than 1 per cent of the total of all world trade.

Russia's trade with the outside world is less than that of tiny Denmark and about the same as that of Austria.

Trade between the U. S. and Russia is infinitesimal. It is about half the volume with Haiti.

U. S. imports from Russia are running around $17½ million and exports to Russia about $3½ million. It could be larger if the U. S. were to agree to sell them strategic goods and materials.

Trade never has been larger, even in the early days of the New Deal when the U. S. recognized Moscow. The "bale of hay" for that recognition was to be increased trade. American business then was coming out of a slump.

The trade never developed. From an average annual export of $33 million in American goods in the 1931 to 1935 years, it got to $69½ million in 1938. The war years jumped this — Lend Lease for which the Russians refuse even today to settle on a 30 cents on the dollar basis.

Since the war exports to Russia have been virtually nil and in the Korean War years were nil — only $19,000 in 1953. In the last three years they have come back to around $3½ million, which is less than two hundredths of 1 per cent of our total export business and less than three-quarters of one per cent American sales to Europe.

It is peanuts.

Fort Hill and Frederick battled to a 7-7 deadlock last night in the Cumberland Valley Athletic League opener for both schools, before a crowd of approximately 3,000 fans at Frederick.

The Sentinels, defending co-champion of the CVAL with North Hagerstown, tallied first in the gruelling contest, but the Cadets of Coach Jack Molesworth came back in the final period to tie it up and were threatening to move in front when the game ended.

Frank Robinson Tallies

Frank Robinson, flashy Fort Hill halfback who racked up three touchdowns in the Sentinels' 39-6 victory over LaSalle last week, scored the only Fort Hill six-pointer last night when he crashed off tackle from six yards out. This scoring drive began on the 30-yard line in Fort Hill territory.

A penalty gave the Cumberlanders a second crack at the point after touchdown after the first try (from placement) had failed. The infraction against the Cadets advanced the ball from the two to the one-yard line, from where Joe DiNicola, Fort Hill fullback, bulled over for the point.

Marko Knots Score

A sustained drive which commenced on the Frederick 19-yard line was climaxed when Frederick fullback Dave Marko scored on a six-yard plunge. Rich Markey kicked the extra point for the equalizer. The longest gallop in this scoring series was a 26-yard gain by halfback Ken Wilbourne, who personally outrushed the entire Fort Hill backfield (129 yards to 128).

Twice during the earlier stages of the battle, Frederick penetrated deep into Fort Hill territory. In each instance, long runs by Wilbourne sparked the attack, but these threats died when the Cadets lost the ball on downs.

In the closing seconds of play, a pass interception by Frederick's Marko, coupled with a personal foul violation against Fort Hill, placed the ball on the Sentinels' 29. An 11-yard run up the middle gave the Cadets another first down on the 18, but time ran out at this point.

Score by quarters:

Fort Hill	0	0	7	0—7
Frederick	0	0	0	7—7

Scoring: Touchdowns — Robinson, Fort Hill (6-yard run); Marko, Frederick (8-yard run). Points after touchdowns: DiNicola, Fort Hill (plunge); Markey, Frederick (placement).

Senators Whip Baltimore, 5-3

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Bald Bill Fischer, winless since July 16, broke a six-game losing streak Friday night and pitched a five-hitter to give Washington a 5-3 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

The victory was Washington's 62nd of the year, the best showing for the Senators since 1954 when they won 66.

The Senators bounced starter Jerry Walker for four runs on six hits. Jim Lemon hit his 33rd home run off Hal Brown who came in to pitch the eighth. It was Lemon's fifth home run in the last eight games.

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — Young Bob Goetz of Tulsa, Okla., carded an eight under par 64 to share the halfway lead in the 72-hole $20,000 El Paso Open Golf Tourney with hometown pro Iverson Martin Friday.

Each had a nine under par 135 for the 36 holes.

Doug Ford of Crystal River, Fla., finished with a 71 to stand one stroke back of the leaders at 136.

TO QUIT CLEVELAND JOB — Joe Gordon, manager of the Cleveland Indians, talks on his hotel room telephone to a reporter yesterday after announcing he is resigning at the end of this season. The resignation followed a blast by Indians' General Manager Frank Lane that he was displeased with the team's showing and that he had four or five men preferred over Gordon. Gordon was a former star second baseman of pennant winning teams at New York and Cleveland. (AP Photofax)

Gordon Removes Himself As Tribe Pilot In 1960

Joe Says Harmony Can't Be Achieved With Frank Lane

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Joe Gordon, apparently in a "win or else" situation and embittered by second guessing by general manager Frank Lane, Friday definitely removed himself as manager of the Cleveland Indians next year.

Gordon said he would finish out the year as manager of the second-place Indians, but would not consider taking the job again next year "under any circumstances."

Gordon said "it is obvious that harmony cannot be achieved between Frank Lane and myself."

Refers To Feud

He referred to a simmering feud between the two that broke wide open in the closing weeks of this year's close pennant race between the Indians and the leading Chicago White Sox.

Gordon, the former dazzling second baseman who was on four Yankee pennant winners and once for Cleveland, made his announcement in a prepared statement four hours before Friday night's game with the Kansas City Athletics.

The Indians were 5½ games behind with 8 to play and the "magic number" of the White Sox wins and Cleveland defeats to give the flag to Chicago was down to three.

Gordon did not actually resign Friday for he had only a one-year contract. He only removed himself from consideration for the job next season and that may not have been necessary.

Leo May Get Job

It was authoritatively reported that Lane would hire Leo Durocher, the former Dodger and Giant manager who only Thursday resigned a lucrative television job, to manage the Indians in 1960.

Gordon came to Cleveland as manager early last season to replace Bobby Bragan who was fired by Lane.

Lane said recently that Gordon thought he had become a genius and would not accept any advice. Lane said he thought Gordon did a better job as a manager last season.

Perhaps the most stinging and obvious barb in the rift between Lane and Gordon came earlier this week when Lane publicly criticized him for not calling a bunt during a situation in a 1-0 loss to Boston.

Earlier this season it was known that Lane was unhappy over the benching of Billy Martin and Jimmy Piersall.

Red Sox Trim Yankees, 6-4

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Boston Red Sox scored five runs in the first inning but then had to choke a ninth-inning rally Friday night to beat the New York Yankees, 6-4.

The Yankees, held to four singles during the first eight innings by Frank Baumann, scored four runs in the ninth and had the bases loaded with two out when Bobby Richardson fouled out to end the game.

Indians Win, 11-2

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—The Cleveland Indians kept their feeble pennant hopes alive Friday night with an 11-2 win over Kansas City but the magic number was reduced to two as Chicago defeated Detroit, 1-0.

Lollar Homer Gives Chisox 1-0 Triumph

Bob Shaw Victor Over Jim Bunning

CHICAGO (UPI)—Sherm Lollar, "old reliable" of the pennant-bound Chicago White Sox, belted a home run in the fifth inning Friday night to decide a pitching duel between righthander Bob Shaw and Jim Bunning and give Chicago a 1-0 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

The win was the 35th one-run decision for the White Sox in their march to their first American League pennant since 1919. It was Shaw's 17th victory of the season against six losses, but the young star of the Chicago pitching staff needed a game-saving catch by Jim Rivera, who went to the rightfield wall and robbed Gail Harris of a home run in the ninth inning.

Lollar, leading long ball hitter of the White Sox, smashed the second pitch off Bunning in the fifth inning into the second row of the leftfield stands. It was his 21st of the year and it marked the eighth time his homers proved to be the winning run for the White Sox.

But Lollar's blow was all that Shaw needed. The 26 - year - old righthander from Garden City, N.Y., gave up five hits and permitted only one runner past second base. This came in the ninth when he walked Harvey Kuenn, and Charley Maxwell lined a single to rightfield, sending Kuenn to third base. But he worked the count to 2-2 on Frank Bolling and got the Tiger second baseman to bounce into a forceout at second base and end the game.

It was the first victory for the White Sox against Bunning in three decisions this season and the first win for Shaw over the Tigers.

Ron DeCarlo Leads Trojans To Third Win At Morgantown

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. — St. Francis High School's Trojans rolled to their third straight victory here last night when they downed the Explorers of LaSalle High School of Cumberland by the score of 18-13.

It was the Trojans' fourth victory over the Marylanders in five meetings. Their 1940 game was a scoreless tie.

Ron DeCarlo, St. Francis left halfback, who is touted as a candidate for All-State honors, accounted for all of his team's scores. DeCarlo smashed over from the two-yard line for the initial tally in the first period, snared Joe Wiltsey's pass for the second six-pointer in the second quarter and slashed off tackle for 10 yards and the final score in the third stanza.

LaSalle's scores came on long passes thrown by quarterback Carroll Wilt. Tom O'Rouke scored on a pass play that covered 40 yards and Tom Simpson snared an aerial for a 40 yard gain and the final Explorer six-pointer. Fullback Allen Lueck kicked LaSalle's only extra point.

Coach Sam Barberio's undefeated Trojans whipped Lumberport, 19-6, and Mountaineer High of Thomas, 20-6 in their first two outings. LaSalle suffered its second straight loss of the campaign, having dropped a 39-6 decision to Fort Hill in the season opener.

Touch Grid League To Meet Wednesday

There will be a meeting Wednesday night at 7 o'clock at the City Hall to organize the Adult Touch Football League. All persons interested in entering a team are urged to attend this meeting, so that the league can be organized and play started as soon as possible.

The League was re-organized last year after a lapse of several years. Twelve teams participated last season with six teams in each division. Each team played six games.

The league will operate very similar to last year with an approximate entry fee of $10.00. All games were played on Sunday afternoon last year.

All operational plans will be discussed at the Wednesday meeting.

Wind Ensemble Concert Tonight

The Allegany County Youth Wind Ensemble has completed plans for its fall concert to be presented at 8 o'clock tonight in the Allegany High School auditorium under the direction of Dr. Frank E. Gamble, supervisor of music education in the public schools.

Some 14 older musicians will augment the 36 youngsters of junior high school for tonight's performance. No admission will be charged.

West Virginia School for the Deaf launched its 1959 football campaign with a 13-6 victory over Southern High School of Oakland, Md., in a Potomac Valley Conference game yesterday at Romney and extended its three-season winning streak to eleven games.

Coach Donald Bullock's Lions have won eleven in a row since a scoreless tie with Harpers Ferry late in the 1957 season. Last season the West Virginia School for the Deaf posted an 8-0 record and was the only undefeated and untied high school eleven in the tri-state area.

Larry Jones, of Dunbar, scored the Lions' initial touchdown in the opening quarter on a 47-yard run. Freeman Saylor of Dunbar plunged the point.

After Saylor's 35-yard touchdown run gave the WVSD eleven a 13- lead, the Highlanders hit paydirt before the first period ended when Keith Butler drove over from the six three plays after Bolyard intercepted a pass and returned it 42 yards to the 17.

Alexander Rubiano of New York, graduate of Gallaudet College, Washington, D.C., is the new assistant coach at West Virginia School. He replaces William Swaim, who goes to the Maryland School for the Deaf at Frederick as head basketball coach. Swaim had served on the coaching staff at the Romney school for three years.

Tony Anthony Cops Decision

Johnson Is Loser In Baltimore Bout

BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI) — Light - heavyweight contender Tony Anthony finished the stronger Friday night to win an upset unanimous 10-round decision over heavyweight contender Alonzo Johnson in their TV fight at the Baltimore Coliseum.

It was a timely victory for slender Anthony of New York who has just invaded the heavyweight division and is starting a campaign for a shot at Ingemar Johansson's title.

Johnson, ranked eighth among heavyweight contenders by the NBA, weighed 189 pounds to 184 for Anthony, rated fourth among light-heavy aspirants by the NBA.

It was a zig-zag fight until the seventh round, when Anthony staggered the Braddock, Pa., contender with a straight right and a left hook to the head, and slowed him down.

There were no knockdowns. Anthony slipped to the canvas in the first session when he crossed his feet while evading a body punch. Johnson slipped down in the third round.

But Johnson was favored at 7-5 because he had lost only two previous bouts in his 19 starts. It was Anthony's 40th victory in 48 bouts.

The three ring officials, scoring on the five-point-must system, favored Anthony unanimously as follows: Rederee Eddie Leonard, 46-45; Judge Benny Goldstein, 46-44, and Judge Tom Kelly, 48-43. The United Press International agreed, 46-44.

F. & R. Shufflers Win

Fisher & Robinette swept three games from Ruth's Tavern last night in the Allegany County Men's Shuffleboard League. Bob Robinette paced the winners with 23 points while Hemmis was high for Ruth's Tavern with 19.

Coach Eddie Hartman's Romney High School Pioneers handed the Franklin High Panthers their second straight shutout of the season yesterday in a P.V.C. contest at Romney. The score was 6-0.

With six minutes remaining in the final quarter A. D. Hott, Pioneer's quarterback, scored from the three-yard line to break a scoreless deadlock. John Blue's kick for the point was low.

Franklin muffed an opportunity to score in the second period due to a fumble in the end zone which Romney recovered. With 29 yards to go, a pass advanced the Panthers to the 12. With a foot to go, the ball carrier fumbled to end the visitors' scoring threat.

Romney piled up a total of 196 yards on the ground and through the air in posting its second P.V.C. victory. The Pioneers beat Berkeley Springs, 34-0, and lost a non-league game to Charles Town, 26-9. Franklin dropped its opener to Green Bank, 35-0.

CCC Mixed Foursome Event Ends In Tie

Phil Jenkins and Mrs. R. W. Trevaskis tied Dr. Frank T. Cawley and Mrs. Charles Helmrich for first place in the Mixed Scotch Foursome Tournament yesterday at the Cumberland Country Club, each team posting net scores of 34.

L. W. Brown and Mrs. Morgan C. Harris tied Dr. W. R. Hodges and Mrs. George Griffith for third place with net 35s.

Three combinations were tied for the lowest number of putts—15. They were Judge Morgan C. Harris and Mrs. L. W. Brown, Jack Moberly and Mrs. William Carscaden and William Carscaden and Mrs. Lester Deneen.

Dr. Frank Leger and Mrs. Jack Moberly had the most putts—a total of 19.

Twenty-eight members participated in the tourney.

LSU To Play Rice In Top Game Today

Tarheels To Meet Clemson; Boston To Battle Navy

By JACK CLARY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The menu for the 1959 college football season was made up long ago. The first course was served Friday with some delicacies to tempt any gridiron fan for the main course which begins next weekend.

This is the weekend when the football fan can get a good glimpse of the new "wild card" player instituted by the rule makers last winter, and also the lengthened crossbar of the goal post to 23 feet, 4 inches.

He also can catch an eyeful of 1958 national champion Louisiana State, picked to succeed itself this year in the pre-season Associated Press poll.

Tigers Play Rice

The Tigers take on Rice Saturday in the first national television game at 4 p.m. (EST) over NBC.

The Athletic Assn. of Western Universities, more succinctly known as the Far West Five, began operations but face their former partners in the old Pacific Coast Conference.

The Rice-LSU game in Baton Rouge, La. is rivaled for attention only by Atlantic Coast Conference champion Clemson's invasion of North Carolina, where the 1959 ACC title could be decided. A bowl bid could also hang in the balance here.

The Tar Heels were picked No. 12 in the pre-season rankings, Clemson No. 18.

The only other team in the top ten to see action is No. 8 Mississippi, runnerup to LSU for Southeastern Conference honors last year. Ole Miss travels to Houston for a night game against Hal Lahar's Houston Tigers.

Two Night Games

Southern California, ranked 14th and a member of the Far West Five, brings its mammoth line to Oregon State for a night game, while 13th rated Texas Christian hosts Big Eight member Kansas, also at night.

Texas, picked No. 17, is at Nebraska in another top intersectional clash.

In the East, Navy, under new Coach Wayne Hardin and minus center and Capt. Jim Dunn because of injuries, plays Boston College in the only big game.

The South has West Virginia traveling to Maryland where the Terrapins' new coach Tom Nugent unveils his "I" formation. Georgia Tech is at Kentucky in an SEC night game and Alabama is at Georgia in the daylight.

Duke goes to South Carolina for an ACC night game. Southern Conference stalwart Virginia Tech plays ACC member North Carolina State in a night game at Norfolk, Va.

Eastern independents Pitt and Penn State travel to the Mideast to meet Marquette and Big Eight member Missouri, respectively.

Sparked by the versatile Gary Keedy, who scored three of his team's touchdowns, Keyser High School's Golden Tornado spoiled the debut of Beall High School as a member of the Potomac Valley Conference by walloping the Marylanders yesterday at Stayman Field, Keyser, by the score of 38-0.

It was Keyser's opening game of the season after cancellation by Charles Town and Parsons and the victory was the 26th straight in P.V.C. competition since the 1953 season. Beall was shut out for the second straight time. The Mountaineers lost their opener to Allegany by the score of 20-0.

Keedy, Keyser's track, basketball, baseball and grid star, scored the game's first touchdown in the opening quarter on a 10-yard ramble. Robert Shaw kicked the point to make the score 7-0.

In the second period Keedy sprinted 20 yards for Keyser's second score and tallied the third on a 60-yard punt return. He also passed to Fred Clark, son of head coach "Tack" Clark, for an extra point. Ronnie Shaffer intercepted a pass and dashed five yards for another Keyser td to give the P.V.C. co-champions of 1958 a 26-0 advantage at the halfway point.

Floyd Wilt ran 10 yards for Keyser's fifth touchdown in the third period and later in the same quarter Jim Miers passed 10 yards to "Bud" Smith for the final six-pointer.

Beverly Hanson Leads Tourney

Louise Suggs' 144 Trails By Stroke

ATLANTA (AP)—Slender Beverly Hanson shot steady golf Friday and staved off a strong bid by Louise Suggs for the midway laad in the $7,500 Atlanta Women's Open.

Miss Hanson, former journalism student from Indio, Calif., fired a 72, one over par, for a 36-hole total of 143. Miss Suggs, of Sea Island, Ga., scrambled to a one under par 70 — best round of the tournament so far — for 144.

Kathy Cornelius of Lakeland, Fla., tied with Miss Hanson for the lead after the first round, slipped to third place with a 74 and 145.

Par for the 6,265-yard Continental Colony Club course is 35-36—71.

Danny Murtaugh Praised By Brown

PITTSBURGH (AP) — General Manager Joe L. Brown of the Pittsburgh Pirates Friday termed ridiculous reports that Danny Murtaugh may be on his way out as manager. "With the team we had and the inujries and everything else," Brown told The Associated Press, "Murtaugh's done one helluva job."

Giants Will Battle Forty Niners Today

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—The San Francisco 49ers and the New York Giants clash here Saturday night in an exhibition game that shapes up as the offensive power of the 49ers against the rugged defense of the Giants.

The two clubs meet in the final tuneup game of the season before starting league play. The game, third postwar professional football contest to be played in Salt Lake City, officially opens the 1959 football season here.

Hemmis To Seek Canadian Cycle Hill Climb Crown

Ontario Test Set Oct. 11; Joe Sweeps Rochester Events

Joe Hemmis

Joseph W. Hemmis, national professional motorcycle hill climbing champion for the 1959 season and also the nation's high point scorer this year, will compete in the Canadian championships to be held in the province of Ontario, Sunday, Oct. 11.

Winner of the United States crown at Muskegon, Mich., in August, Hemmis has been competing in hill climbs since 1947 and this will be his first appearance in Canada.

Before he goes there, however, Joe will participate in two more hill climbing tests in this country — York, Pa., Sept. 27 and Dayton, Ohio, Oct. 6.

Last Sunday, Cumberland's slant riding ace, piloting his English Triumph, made a sweep of two professional events at Rochester, N.Y. He reeled off his eleventh and twelfth consecutive victories and upped his 1958-59 season first places to 28 in 33 tries.

Hammis has finished out of the money only once this year. Cash awards go to riders finishing first, second, third and fourth in each event.

Here is the order in which the riders finished in the pro events at Rochester:

FIRST EVENT:

1. J. W. Hemmis, Cumberland, 7.30 seconds.
2. Charles Jacobs, Bangor, Pa., 7.87.
3. Howard Mitzel, York, Pa., 8.82.
4. Jake Nealen, Bedford, Ohio, 8.84.

SECOND EVENT:

1. J. W. Hemmis, 7.59 seconds.
2. Charles Jacobs, 8.50.
3. Howard Mitzel, 8.95.
4. Kenneth Hatton, Canada, 10.46.

Milwaukee Protest Denied By Giles

LOS ANGELES (AP) — President Warren C. Giles of the National League Friday formally denied a protest by Milwaukee in its losing game to the Los Angeles Dodgers Sept. 15.

The protest was based on a ball that Joe Adcock hit that lodged in the notorious left field screen. Manager Fred Haney and General Manager Joh McHale of the Braves claimed the ball sailed and stuck beyond the screen and should have been called a home run instead of a ground-rules two base hit.

Milwaukee would have won the game in nine innings, 7-6. The Dodgers went on to win in 10 innings, 8-7.

Motorcyclist Fatally Hurt

BALTIMORE (AP)—A 28-year-old motorcyclist was fatally injured Friday in a collision with a dump truck east of the city's downtown section.

Gene McKinney, of Baltimore, died at Mercy Hospital after doctors revived him by massaging his heart. On the way to the hospital the ambulance was involved in a minor accident when a side door flew open and struck a parked car.

Police said McKinney was making a left turn at an intersection when he was involved in a collision with the truck driven by Frank Kelly, 33, a Negro, of Baltimore.

By STEVE SNIDER

NEW YORK (UPI)—Sports of all sorts:

At last the script writers of those "improbable" college movies of not so long ago have been vindicated . . Michigan right end Bob Johnson, who used to play trumpet in the varsity band, now is a starter on the football varsity. . . Bob weighed 180 when he reported for freshman football at Michigan and promptly decided playing in the band would be a lot safer than playing big 10 football. . . now he weighs 207 and fears no man in football gear.

Joe Dey of the U. S. Golf Association, a much-travelled executive, found himself a "man without a country" on his trip to England for the Walker Cup matches earlier this year. . . Joe got out of the U. S. without his being aware of it, on an out-dated passport. . . took some doing to get him back in.

Georgia Has 3 Passers

Georgia may open its new football season against Alabama Saturday with three forward passers in the same backfield. . . top tosser is quarterback Charley Britt, but fullback Tommy Lewis was a quarterback for two years and halfback Bobby Walden also is an accomplished thrower.

Marquette, trying to get itself on the winning side for a change, has a "King Kong" backfield this year, the lightest back weighing in at 203. . . quarterback Pete Hall is 204, left half Jim Webster 203, right half Silas Woods 222 and fullback Frank Mestnik is 205. . . Saturday's opener is Pittsburgh.

Manufacturers hit an opitmistic note for American tennis. . . . sales of racquets, balls, shoes, shirts and shorts were way up this year. . . the well-known theory insists the more you have playing, the better the chances of finding new talent. . . big boom reported among youngsters, too.

Rivera Forgot To Run

One of the week's best baseball anecdotes came from Al Lopez, White Sox manager, who had alerted base runner Jim Rivera (then on third) that a squeeze bunt was coming. . . the bunt was executed but Rivera failed to dash for the plate. . . "I caught the sign, all right," Rivera confessed later. "I just forgot to run."

The Pittsburgh Pirates have won 18 extra inning games this season, 10 of them in the 10th inning. . . which, in part, accounts for the way Elroy Face piled up those 17 straight victories in relief.

You can bet the ponies legally in the east clear up to December 15. . . . it's legal, that is, if you travel to Baltimore where Pimlico runs from Nov. 13 to 10 days before Christmas.

Terps Make Debut Under Tom Nugent

West Virginia Foe In Opener Today

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Football uniforms will be about all West Virginia and Maryland have in common when they clash here Saturday. And those will be different colors.

The game at Byrd Stadium is the opener for both squads but there the similarity ends.

Maryland Coach Tom Nugent will be making his maiden voyage for the Terps, having replaced Tommy Mont after several years at Florida State.

West Virginia Coach Art (Pappy) Lewis has been at Morgantown so long (10 years) he's part of the landscape.

The Terrapins are sure to uncork some Fancy Dan razzle-dazzle, including the "I" formation that Nugent has used before.

The Mountaineers probably will play their usual brand of split-T football that is orthodox by comparison.

Terps Outweighed

It also will be the big ones against the little ones. West Virginia is famous for its beefy lines and though Lewis has been moaning that his mountain boys are small this season they'll still outweigh Maryland about five pounds per man in the backfield and 10 pounds up front.

And then there are the coaches themselves.

Nugent has been gabbing all week about what he plans to do and what he can expect come Saturday. The taciturn, bushy-browed Lewis has been his usual closed-mouth self and West Virginia even practiced behind closed doors.

Both schools are trying to make a comeback from a losing season. Maryland was 4-6 last year and the Southern Conference champs were 4-5-1.

West Virginia flew into Washington Friday and worked out briefly at College Park before returning to Washington to spend the night. Maryland also had a last-minute, light tuneup.

Game Is Tossup

The game is pretty much a toss up and both coaches know it.

"We're going into this game even, I would say," said Nugent. "We can win, and I think we will win."

"A lot depends on how we do in our opener against Maryland," said Lewis. "We have a bunch of young sophomores on our squad and a victory in the opener would give them a lot of confidence."

Game time is 1:30 p.m. (EDT).

Twelve To Vie In Futurity At Aqueduct Today

NEW YORK (UPI)—The 70th running of the $75,000 added Futurity Stakes drew a field of 12 starters Friday for its first running Saturday at Aqueduct and its first round a turn since 1915.

The time - honored classic for two-year-olds formerly was contested on the now-eliminated Widener course at Belmont Park and the new $33,000,000 Aqueduct Track has no six and one-half furlong straightaway.

The wonders of the track will be viewed for the first time by racing television fans throughout the country, for CBS will televise the Futurity from 4:30 to 5 p.m. e.d.t.

The young horses entered are Encanto, Penowa Rullah, Count Amber, Weatherwise, the entry of Pleasant Prairie and Greek Page, Persian Spy, Winonly, All Hands, Udaipur, Catapult and Hallursan.

All carry 122 pounds.

Cubs Top Phils In 13th Frame

Irv Noren's Blow Decides Game, 5-4

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago Cubs blended a 13th inning walk with George Anderson's error and Irv Noren's single and defeated the Philadelphia Phillies 5-4 Friday.

A paid crowd of 971 saw Tony Taylor draw the leadoff walk in the 13th inning before Anderson muffed what looked like a double play grounder off the bat of George Altman.

Then Noren singled to right giving outfielder-turned-pitcher Bob Bowman his first loss. Dave Hillman, fourth Chicago pitcher, picked up his seventh win. He has lost 11.

All the Phillies' runs resulted from a pair of homers. Gene Freese stroked his 21st with one out in the second. Wally Post pounded his 21st off starter Art Ceccarelli in the sixth after Solly Drake bunted for a single and shortstop Joe Koppe singled to center.

The game ended play this season between the two teams, the Phillies winning the series 12-10.

Braves Host Moorefield

League Teams Will End Series Sunday

Pennant winning teams of the Mountain State Baseball League and the Twilight Baseball League windup their home-and-home series Sunday when the Moorefield All-Stars tackle the Barton Braves in Barton at 2:30 p m., EDT.

Moorefield won the opening game of the series on its home field last Sunday with Gordon Raines gaining an 8-1 decision over Lou Fazenbaker. Barton collected 11 hits in this game but stranded 14 on the hassocks. The Mountain State League team racked up a total of 12 hits.

Tomorrow will be observed as "Frieda Thomas Day" at Barton and the Moscow resident who has done so much for the Barton baseball cause will be presented gifts before the game gets under way.

Barrelville And Hyndman Will Open Series Sunday

Old Exports Seek 18th Straight Win In Playoff Opener

Hyndman's Merchants and the Barrelville Old Exports will tangle at Barrelville Sunday at 2:30 p. m., in the opening game of a best-of-three series for the playoff crown in the Pen-Mar Baseball League.

For the past two seasons Hyndman has won the pennant and Barrelville emerged the winner of the post-season playoffs. This year Barrelville bagged the pennant with a 25-3 record, and finished 6½ games in front of Hyndman which won 18 games and lost nine.

Manager Raymond "Buck" Fiorita's club has made a sweep of the regular season and playoff title three times in previous years—1956, 1954 and 1949—and is hopeful of turning the trick for the fourth time.

Win 17 Straight

Barrelville takes a 17-game winning streak into tomorrow's game and Bobby Raines, the ace of the Old Exports' pitching staff (14-1) has racked up 13 consecutive victories since his lone defeat on May 10 when he dropped a 6-5 decision to Robert "Abe" See at Hyndman. Raines later decisioned Stan Corley at Barrelville, 5-4. Barrelville scored two other wins over Hyndman, Bobby Dawson beating See, 8-3, at Barrelville, while Jesse Markley won over Von Lehman in Hyndman, 4-3. The fact that three of the games were one-run decisions is an indication these teams are evenly matched.

The Old Exports' last loss came on June 14 at the hands of Salisbury, 2-1. Barrelville's third loss of the season also was by the margin of one run and that was an 8-7 setback dealt out by Salisbury.

If Raines doesn't pitch tomorrow's opener for the Old Exports Bobby Dawson (8-1) or Jesse Markley (5-1) will be on the firing line for the pennant winners.

Bob See (9-4), Vohn Lehman (3-1), Stan Corley (4-2) and Jim Leydig (3-2) are the Hyndman pitchers.

Both Made Sweep

Barrelville reached the playoff finals by whipping Mt. Savage, 2-1 and 5-4. Hyndman disposed of Centerville's Reds in two straight, 1-0 and 4-2.

Jack Nicklaus Will Play Coe

National Amateur Golf Final Today

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—Charlie Coe, a great golf competitor over a dozen or more years, and 19-year-old Jack Nicklaus Friday took opposite routes into the finals of the U.S. Amatuer Golf championship.

Coe, a skinny Oklahoman who has won the championship each time he has reached the final, trounced Dudley Wysong, a 20-year-old collegian from McKinney, Tex., 6 and 4.

Nicklaus, who temporarily left college this spring to play or the U.S. Walker Cup team, had to go to the last green to defeat 46-year-old Gene Andrews of Whittier, Calif.

They will meet Saturday in the 36-hole final over the picturesque 7,010-yard Broadmoor course nestled at the base of the Rockies.

Jim Tatum Leaves $167,000 Estate

HILLSBORO, N.C. (UPI)—University of North Carolina football Coach Jim Tatum left an estate of about $167,000 when he died this summer, according to a preliminary inventory released Friday.

The bulk of assets listed in the inventory were assigned to a trust fund for his widow and three young children.

Tatum died in Chapel Hill July 23 of the effects of a "massive virus" attack.

WINNING RECORD

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Coach Paul Brown of the Cleveland Browns started the 1959 National Football League season with a record of 267 victories, 55 losses and 11 ties on all levels of the sport from high school to professional competition.

Coach George Hott's Moorefield Yellow Jackets registered their second straight victory of the season in the Potomac Valley Conference by whipping the Petersburg High Vikings yesterday in Moorefield by the score of 20 to 7.

Moorefield packed its scoring punch into the first half while Petersburg, making its conference debut under new coach Wayne Barr averted a shutout by scoring in the final period.

Billy Sherman scored the Jackets' first touchdown in the opening period on a 35-yard gallop. He also kicked the extra point.

In the second period Sherman tallied from four yards out and Bill Toohey flipped a 22-yard pass to Marlin Evans for the Hardy Countians' final six-pointer. Sherman converted on a placement kick.

Quarterback Jack Boor smashed over from the three for the Vikings' TD in the final stanza and Eddie Nelson placekicked the point.

Petersburg opened the season last week with a 7-6 win over Terra Alta. Moorefield downed Southern of Oakland in a PVC contest, 25-7.

Ray Hewett's point-after-touchdown was the margin of victory yesterday as Berkeley Springs High School eked out a 7-6 decision over Ridgeley High School's Blackhawks in a Potomac Valley Conference game at Berkeley Springs.

The win was the first in three outings for Coach Allen Goldstrom's Indians. Ridgeley suffered its first defeat after opening last week with a 26-0 victory over Circleville.

Hewett scored Berkeley's touchdown and extra point in the opening period. Berkeley blocked Kenny Phillips' punt and Hewett recovered. Several plays later the Indians' fullback went over from the two-yard mark. Then he ran the extra point to give his team a 7-0 lead.

Ridgeley drove 60 yards for its lone touchdown in the third quarter, with Frank Lambert carrying on the final play from the one yard line. Ridgeley's kick for the point, however, was blocked.

Berkeley Springs had lost to Romney 34-0 and Hancock 8-6 prior to yesterday's game.

Giants, Dodgers Game Rained Out, Play Pair Today

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Friday night's crucial game between the league leading San Francisco Giants and second place Los Angeles Dodgers was postponed because of rain and wet grounds.

A club spokesman for the Giants said that the teams will play a day-night doubleheader Saturday. It will be the first twin bill of the year at Seals Stadium, where the Giants have not been washed out since May 14 of last year. That one also involved a game with the Dodgers.

San Francisco played 74 home dates this year without a postponement.

Giant secretary Eddie Brannick said the Giants and Dodgers would play one game at 4:30 p.m., e.d.t. and another at 11:15 p.m.

Overexposure For Mr. Khrushchev

Everyone's giving Khrushchev advice. Advice about our way of life, our freedom, our supermarkets, warnings about our determination, our unity, our banquet food. I'd just like to insert my two cents worth of advice and warning. Overexposure, Mr. Khrushchev. It killed Milton Berle. It can murder you, too. If there's anyone who can wear out his welcome faster than a comedian, it is a sinister comedian.

Mr. Khrushchev may be overexposed by the time this gets into print. He opened on three networks and within an hour, a single joke had been worn threadbare. (If the Soviets can get to the moon only a minute or so off schedule, why are they an hour late getting here? There were many variants.) Of course, it wasn't Mr. Khrushchev's joke but he'll get blamed for it anyhow. (In our country, Mr. K., we never blame the writers. The comedian takes full responsibility—but on the other hand, it is he who makes all the money and who sells the story of his miserable childhood to "Look" magazine, too. That's the American way.)

David Brinkley, of NBC, declared that, while Khrushchev had expressed the wish to see our people at work and play, he was likely to see instead just the inside of a lot of limousines as he went from banquet to banquet of chicken and peas. This is a very trenchant observation but also, I'm afraid, it is a critique of televised or electronic journalism.

Many years ago George Bernard Shaw complained that our movies seemed to be only a succession of shots of people getting in and out of automobiles. Well, as I look back over the years of great events covered by television, I see again and again the image of a car passing up through cheering throngs bearing the newly-elected President up Pennsylvania Avenue, or taking Queen Elizabeth to lay a wreath some place, or transporting de Gaulle to the Arch of Triumph. If Khrushchev is going to see the inside of a lot of limousines, we, the viewers, are going to see the outside of a lot of limousines—and both of us will be the poorer.

Still, television does some things better than anything else. The small touch that eludes or is lost to the reporter, for example. The little Russian girl who gave Khrushchev a bouquet of roses and was rewarded with a big hug from Mr. K., probably did more good for Russian relations with this child-struck country than any number of moonshots. Similarly, Mrs. Khrushchev's homey walk up the steps of Blair House won the sympathy of millions of American women whose behinds are not quite that spacious.

I feel strongly that these little glimpses — Khrushchev's handshake, for example, which goes on longer and more violently than the one we're used to from touring dignitaries—are useful in that overworked phrase "international understanding." The commentary on all three networks was cautious and full of small details about the airplane that brought Khrushchev and company (200 tons, loaded), the countryside through which he travelled (middle class ranch homes), the food he was to eat (lobster, chicken).

Khrushchev, Brinkley pointed out, had originally said our sons would live under Socialism and later modified it to say our grandsons would. "So some progress has been made," he added wryly. "We've already saved a whole generation."

Everyone vied to describe the crowd as undemonstrative but correct, police but unenthusiastic, large but impassive, and so on. All the networks were generous in cancelling shows both in the afternoon and during the evening when the day's events were summed up. NBC added a new wrinkle by having cartoons. One of the first cartoons showed a little Khrushchev looking up at the huge Lincoln Memorial statue of the Great Emancipator who is saying: "When are you going to free yours?" I winced at the time but I can't think why. That cartoon would certainly not be noticed in a newspaper. I guess I'm just not used to seeing cartoons on television.

The wonders of tape scrambled time on the evening shows rather confusingly. One show jumped from a taped sunlight to live evening blackness and then back to full sunlight all in the space of half an hour. As the world shrinks, so shrinks the day.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — There's one thing sure — Audrey Hepburn will star in "Roman Candle" for Willy Wyler. "Roman Holiday" which brought Audrey tremendous success and an Academy Award, was directed by Wyler, whose stock is higher than it's ever been since "Ben Hur."

Wyler is in New York and Audrey will talk to him when she and Mel (Ferrer) reach there Sunday. Audrey has been waiting for Paramount to give her an assignment since it's definite she will not do the Alfred Hitchcock movie, "No Bail For The Judge." She says she has enormous respect for Hitchcock, but she does not think the part is right for her.

One thing we must bear in mind Sunday is that the luncheon at 20th Century-Fox studio for Chairman Khrushchev was requested by our State Department, and is in no way a motion picture industry endorsement of him or his ideology.

We must remember that Khrushchev is being given a luncheon by our industry because our government requested that he meet a limited number of motion picture leaders, and that he be given a chance to see how our motion pictures are made. This probably is important too, because of the cultural exchange now in existence between the two countries.

It is also important that we be courteous because our own President soon goes to Russia and the Soviet treatment of him could very well be a reflection of our treatment of the rotund chairman of the Russians. Our own personal feelings do not enter into this, and should not. No one could hate what the Communists stand for, or what they have done to some of the satellite countries more than I do. Yet if anything can stop war and the useless slaughter of helpless people, it's worth a trial.

Well, Marilyn Monroe is only a day late. She arrives in town tonight and will spend Sunday discussing "The Billionaire" and several other properties with Buddy Adler at 20th Century-Fox.

I don't know whether she will be at the Khrushchev luncheon Sunday, but I doubt it, since she'll only be in Hollywood for a few days. She hasn't been here since she made "Some Like It Hot," which will bring her in a fortune. She was expecting a baby at that time and was feeling miserable.

Just as I told you, Eva Marie Saint gets the role of Kitty in "Exodus." The deal was closed today and Eva Marie takes off in time to report in February to Otto Preminger in Israel. This will be the second time she'll work with Paul Newman. They were together in "Our Town" on television. Joanne Woodward goes with Paul, and she is learning Hebrew.

Now, if Hal Wallis wants Eva Marie for "Summer And Smoke," he'll have to get the picture started way before January when she leaves for Israel.

Proud grandpa Shirley Burden called to tell me that his daughter, Muff (Mrs. Daniel Childs), had just welcomed a 7 lb. daughter — "And she's 19½ inches long," he said. "She has pink hair, and her name is Constance Crimmons Childs."

Muff, whose mother is the former Flobelle Fairbanks, was always one of my favorite young friends. In four years Muff has had four children and her family means more to her than anything in the world. Flo is with her daughter in the East, and Shirley and their son Carter leave Sunday for Cambridge where Carter enters his first year at Harvard.

Famous clown Emmett Kelly has always talked a bit sadly about the thought that his clown character "Weary Willie," will pass out of existence when his career closes. Now he's received news that his 22-year-old son, Charles, is going to carry on the famous clown tradition for his own career.

Charles did some traveling this summer with the Hart Circus in Wisconsin, and decided this was the life he wanted. Emmett, by the way, has just signed to return to Pacific Ocean Park for another year.

Health Department Serves Two Notices

The Allegany County Health Department has served notices on the owners of three Braddock Road properties requiring them to install underground sewage drainage fields.

Copies of the notices signed by Dr. Ton van Strien, county health officer, and J. Byron Dowling, county sanitarian, were received by the Board of Allegany County Commissioners at its meeting yesterday.

The three owners are Neal Nesbit, 717 Gephart Drive, who has an apartment house on Braddock Road near Zellers Addition in LaVale; Allan Holt and Dr. Jack L. Murray, also of the apartment house area.

They were charged with allowing sewage from the properties to empty into a drain. The orders require them to install within 30 days underground drainage fields and keep the sewage and wash water on their own properties.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN: The other day a girl wrote to say her fiance had slapped her during an argument. You told her to find someone else. I hope she listens.

I married a boy who slapped me when we were going together. He used to beat up on his sisters and brothers and get into fist fights with strangers. I knew all this but I married him anyway.

Don't get the idea I came from trash and that he was a bum. It isn't true that only scum use their fists. My husband's father is an attorney. His grandfather was the mayor of a large Texas city. My father is an officer in a bank.

My folks begged me not to marry this boy. They said if I did they'd have nothing to do with me. They've kept their word.

After we married I went to work in a drug store to help with expenses. Two months later I became pregnant. When I told my husband he got so furious he not only beat me, he left for a week.

Now he's going with other girls because he says I look like a freak and he doesn't want to be seen with me. I have no money to buy clothes and I can't work.

I'd give anything to be back in my nice room again. Please print this as warning to other 18-year-olds whose boy friends slap them during courtship — and promise to change.

SLAPPED BEFORE,
BEATEN AFTER

DEAR SLAPPED: If you will send me your name and address I have a few suggestions. Please use the same kind of envelope and writing paper so I will know the letter is from you. Also, repeat your husband's nick-name.

DEAR ANN: Do I have a right to complain or not? Our neighbor's 9-year-old daughter thinks she wants to be a pianist. She isn't sure. They didn't want to invest in a piano until she made up her mind, so they're giving her lessons for six months, then she's to decide.

In the meantime my wife said it was all right if she practiced an hour a day on our piano. I wouldn't mind, except she comes over every evening promptly at 6 p. m., just as we are sitting down to eat dinner. She bangs away for a solid hour and we can't hear ourselves talk.

I told my wife I was sick of this. She said I'd have to put up with it for another five months. Do I?

JAKE

DEAR JAKE: It's unfair of your wife to expect you put up with this racket every night for the next five months just because she got big-hearted.

Tell her to ask the child to work on the piano in the hours when you aren't at home. Orders from headquarters.

DEAR ANN: I hate to be a cry-baby but I need help with my boy friend. We're both 21—not exactly juveniles.

Whenever he takes me to a party or a dance I wind up alone unless I hunt up a stray girl or fellow to talk with. Rick is an excellent dancer and he's always off with the expert of the crowd, whoever she may be. He never bothers to check and see if I'm dancing. On wiener roasts or hay rides he has disappeared for the entire evening.

When I complain he says I'm "touchy." Am I? If you say so, I'll believe it. At the moment I feel like handing him his hat, for good. What about this?

SOLOMENTE

DEAR SOLOMENTE: This is a boy friend? If you had your own car you wouldn't need him at all! Tell him it's been nice — and so long. Let him date one of the shimmy queens.

Mount Tabor WSCS Votes Donations

Mrs. Foster Smith presided at the meeting of the Mount Tabor WSCS Wednesday evening. Reports of sick calls, sunshine cards sent and coupons collected were made.

Mrs. Lester Mullenax led the devotionals using the theme "A New Year — New Responsibilities." The group sang "There's a New Light Upon the Mountain." Mrs. William Hetrick started the study of "Portrait Of Christ." She also read "How To Kill Your Church." Mrs. Edward Taschenberger read a letter from the District Clipper and gave out report blanks to officers. The group decided to send $10 to the Baltimore East Parish on supply work and also to pay one-half on a new communion table, pastor's chair and side chair for the church. Mrs. Mullenax and Mrs. Lester Ritchie were appointed to buy material for tablecloths and plastic covering. An electric oven was donated by Mrs. Russel Shipe and the society agreed to buy one also.

Mrs. Mullenax led the group in prayer at the close of the business meeting. One visitor and 25 members attended. Hosteses for the social hour were Mrs. Ritchie, Mrs. Charles Riley and Mrs. Edgar Puffinberger.

Fire Scorches Eight Acres On Wills Mountain

Three Companies Fight 2-Hour Blaze

East Side firemen and volunteers of LaVale and Bowman's Addition joined forestry department personnel yesterday in extinguishing a stubborn windswept brush fire which scorched about eight acres of land on Wills Mountain.

The flames ate their way up the mountain side to within about 100 yards of the Allegany Instrument Company, one volunteer said. Firemen coordinated their efforts in fighting the fire with the use of two-way radios installed in the trucks.

Indian pumps, which hold 10 gallons of water, were used to advantage as well as rakes and brooms. The fire was first reported about 4:15 p.m. and was under control about two hours later.

Volunteers Join In

Central Fire Station received a telephone call notifying them of the brush fire which was being fanned by a brisk wind along Wills Mountain.

East Side was sent to the scene and was later joined by volunteer firemen from LaVale and Bowman's Addition.

Three local firemen took the pumper from East Side and fought the blaze with brooms. Although the fire was reported to be outside the city limits in the vicinity of Piedmont Avenue the local firemen remained on the scene, returning to the station about 6:09 p.m.

James Loar, fire chief at LaVale, was in charge of the fire fighting. Three trucks, including an equipment truck from that community were sent to the fire, although one pumper returned to the fire hall about an hour after being summoned.

Men, Boys Turn Out

Walter W. Johnson, assistant fire chief at Bowman's Addition, said his company received a call about 4:15 p.m. and some 14 men and four teen-age boys in the neighborhood joined in fighting the fire with Indian pumps and rakes. Water from the company's pumper was used to refill the pumps, he said.

The firemen were able to travel only so far with the trucks, then walked along the mountainside to extinguish the blaze. The volunteers of Bowman's Addition were dispatched by Chief Loar to the top of the mountain in the vicinity of the instrument company. They worked their way down the mountain.

The fire apparently started in the vicinity of the B&O railroad tracks and quickly ate their way up the steep terrain.

Forestry Department crews joined the volunteers in fighting the flames which burned an area from the vicinity of Piedmont Avenue to Red Rock along the mountain.

Members of the night crew at East Side received orders to relieve the day crew but when they arrived on the scene the fire was under control and they returned to their station.

Civil Service Tests Planned

Three Allegany County civil service examinations will be given at Fort Hill High School on Wednesday night, October 21, it was learned yesterday.

At a meeting Thursday night, the County Civil Service Commission decided to hold examinations next month for a stenographer in the state's attorney's office, for elevator operator at the Court House and for chief transfer clerk in the assessment department.

All three positions are being filled on a temporary basis.

Mrs. Carol Fritz has served in the stenographic position for more than a year. Patrick O'Rourke, Frostburg, has been the elevator operator since May 1. Cletus G. Brailer, Mt. Savage, has been appointed chief transfer clerk succeeding Claude R. Woodard, who will retire October 1.

State's Attorney James S. Getty said last night that there has been considerable confusion as to whether his stenographer is or is not a civil service employe. He said that he personally hired Mrs. Fritz more than a year ago and in view of the long time she has been working he has been considering her a permanent employe. He stressed that this is a most important position because he must have someone in the job who knows it and whose honesty and integrity are above question.

Forest Fire Threatens Homes

A thin line of grey smoke rises behind houses on Zihlman Way along the Narrows side of Wills Mountain as several fire companies and forestry workers battled a windblown forest fire there yesterday afternoon. The fire was brought under control after about two hours with no property damage other than burned-over land.

Cambridge Man To Head State Pythian Lodge

Governor To Head Installation Team

Otto B. Chessman Jr., Cambridge, will be the new grand chancellor of the Grand Lodge, Knights of Pythias, of Maryland.

Mr. Chessman was nominated without opposition here yesterday as the 92d annual convention of the Maryland Knights of Pythias order went into its second day.

He is currently serving as grand vice chancellor and will move to the order's top post in Maryland today at 10 a.m. when Neil K. Wood, Gaithersburg, assistant grand secretary, casts a unanimous ballot for a number of uncontested positions.

Mr. Chessman has held all chairs in Cambridge Lodge No. 154, of which he is a charter member and is currently serving as secretary of that lodge and in the second post in the state lodge.

He is employed as a special officer attached to the state's attorney's office in Dorchester County.

Ross Is Unopposed

Also nominated without opposition are Charles H. Ross, Smithsburg, grand vice chancellor; William H. Waters, Gaithersburg, for his third term as grand secretary, and Irving W. Wasserman, Baltimore, grand treasurer.

Two candidates, Dr. Aaron D. Barad, Baltimore, and James W. Jackson, Annapolis, have been nominated for the post of grand prelate.

Contending for the post of representative to the supreme lodge are Francis B. Harding, Silver Spring; his brother, Brawner Z. Harding, Gaithersburg, and Edward M. Akers, Frederick, who is seeking his third term in the state position.

Local Man Runs

Preston G. Cantler, Annapolis, the incumbent, and Louis J. Barnes, Frederick, were nominated for member of the grand lodge council, interim governing body of the order.

Frank J. Davis Sr., Cumberland, incumbent, and Bernie Harmon, Westminster, are running for the post of grand lodge trustee.

The new officers will be installed at joint ceremonies today at 7:30 p.m. in the Fort Cumberland Hotel, along with the newly elected officers of the Grand Temple, Pythian Sisters of Maryland, which is holding its 52d annual session here.

Tawes Will Install

Governor J. Millard Tawes, acting supreme chancellor, will head the installing team for the Knights of Pythias.

He will be assisted by Odith M. Brotemarkle, city, state deputy grand chancellor, and Sylvan S. Lewis, master-at-arms.

Nellie B. Miller Jr., Lonaconing, past supreme representative, will be the installing officer at the Pythian Sisters ceremony. She will be assisted by Josephine Biggs, supreme manager, and Madeline Harman, supreme senior.

Grand Lodge sessions today will include a business session from 9 a. m. to noon and from 1 to 4 p. m.

The conclave will close after the installation ceremony this evening.

The annual banquet of the joint orders was held last night and featured an address by A. Elwood Martak, Baltimore, who reviewed work of the order for the past 50 years, including the DOKK foundation, which makes educational loans to sons and daughters of members.

Paul E. Burke, chairman of the Maryland Traffic Safety Commission, presented a traffic safety award to J. Walter McKee, city, grand chancellor, in recognition of the order's safety campaign, and Mr. McKee presented a certificate of appreciation from the Knights of Pythias to Mr. Burke.

False Alarm Checked

Firemen from East Side were called to the corner of Holland and Columbia streets last night at 8:56 p. m. when Box 36 was pulled. It was a false alarm.

Human Misery Said Price Of Spurning Fluoridation

An Allegany-Garrett County Medical Society official this week charged that the Queen City is paying a high price in human misery for dragging its feet on fluoridation.

In a letter to the Mayor and Council, Dr. Leland B. Ransom, president, wrote that it is "a poor commentary on Cumberland and other communities of Western Maryland that we have allowed political and emotional pressure applied by ignorant and unqualified individuals to scare us away from this undoubtedly beneficial health measure."

Fluoridation, he said, has been endorsed not only by local medical and dental societies but by all the major health agencies in the country.

"The price we pay for our shortsighted policy," he said, "is hard to evaluate but is sure to be high in human misery as well as dollars and cents."

"Our pride," he said, "should certainly suffer also in not being a part of Maryland's progressive health program."

"It is my sincere wish," Dr. Ransom concluded, "that enough wise people in our city will be aroused to correct this backward state of affairs and help up join the other fortunate communities of our state with fluoridation."

Cites Newsletter

The local physician enclosed with his letter to city officials the first page of the current Allegany County Health Newsletter which includes a report on the status of fluoridation in Maryland.

The department pointed out that with 75 per cent of its population now using water containing fluorides, Maryland leads all other states in acceptance of this dental health measure to reduce tooth decay.

There remain only 10 communities in Maryland with a population of over 2,500, the newsletter said, that are not fluoridating their water supplies.

They are Cumberland, Havre de Grace, Elkton, Frostburg, Brunswick, Easton, Westernport, Pocomoke City, Chestertown and Aberdeen.

The newsletter said Maryland's record in fluoridation gives promise of a future with a marked improvement in dental health.

It pointed out that six years of fluoridation in Hagerstown has brought about a 60 per cent reduction in tooth decay among six, seven and eight-year-old children.

The fluoridation comments came from a report prepared by Dr. Richard C. Leonard, chief of the state's division of dental health, who cited evidence that the use of water containing controlled amounts of added fluorides has no ill effects on anyone of any age.

A Rough Time Here

Fluoridation has had a rough time in Cumberland.

It was formally ordered by the Mayor and Council in a resolution adopted December 2, 1952. This resolution has the force of a directive but still has not been placed into effect, and the feeling of the present council is that the resolution should be rescinded and the issue put to a referendum.

It looked as if fluoridation had a chance back in 1955, when George M. Hitchcock, then superintendent of the filter plant, designed a fluoride feeding system.

It was reported that the State Health Department issued a permit, based on drawings of the equipment, but nothing was done since city officials decided to wait until all modernization at the water treatment plant was completed.

In the meanwhile, opposition mounted and the past administration adopted the referendum policy but failed to put the issue to a vote.

Tax Collections Exceed $100,000

City tax collections began to mount up yesterday as payments began to come in by mail.

The total collections for Wednesday through yesterday passed the $100,000 mark yesterday afternoon. The day's collections were at the $29,286 mark by 2:30 p. m.

18 Indictments Returned By Garrett Jury

Eighteen indictments were returned this week by the grand jury of the September term of Garrett County Circuit Court at Oakland.

The jurors, who examined 40 witnesses, returned indictments against the following:

Harley Webster Stemple, three charges of breaking and entering; Delbert Earl Campbell, one charge of burglary; Solomon Tasker, assault with intent to kill; Bill Barker, two charges of false pretense and additional charges against men who have not yet been apprehended.

These charges run: larceny and receiving stolen goods, two; desertion and non-support, four; non-support, two; bastardy, two.

Barker is confined in Preston County Jail, while Campbell, Stemple and Tasker all are in Garrett County Jail.

Tasker was arrested for allegedly shooting his wife in both legs with a 12-gauge shotgun. The shooting allegedly followed an argument between the couple.

Local Mennonites Will Use New Church Sunday

The Cumberland Mennonite Church, 417 North Mechanic Street, is moving to new quarters at 127 Bedford Street, formerly occupied by First Methodist Church.

The building was purchased recently and volunteers moved furniture and equipment during the past week in order that services may be held there tomorrow.

The Mennonite Church has been located on Mechanic Street for the past eight years. Rev. Charles R. Shetler, Schellsburg, Pa., is pastor.

Services in the new building will begin Sunday morning with Sunday school at 9:45 to be followed by worship service at 11 and Sunday evening service at 7:30 p.m.

Woman Is Hit By Automobile

A 69-year-old Frostburg woman, who was hit by a car in that community yesterday evening, is reported in "satisfactory" condition at Miners Hospital.

Miss Elizabeth W. Wilkes, 2 Ormond Street, sustained a hip injury, according to attaches who said X-rays were taken.

State Police have charged Wanda Lee Raley, 24, of 96 Mechanic Srteet, with failure to give the right of way to a pedestrian.

The accident occurred about 6:30 p. m. near the intersection of Water and Ormond streets. Police said the driver told them the woman stepped out in front of the car from behind another parked car.

Two Area Boys Under Treatment For Polio

Two boys presumed to be suffering from polio are being treated in hospitals here and in Johnstown, Pa.

Admitted to Memorial Hospital here Tuesday was Donald Harvey, 11-year-old son of Charles Harvey, Kitzmiller.

The lad was reported in satisfactory condition here last night.

He was brought here in an almost completely paralyzed condition and polio was suspected, according to Dr. Arthur F. Jones, Garrett County medical officer.

No definite diagnosis is being made until a report is received from the state.

James Wakefield, 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Wakefield, RD 4, Bedford, was admitted to Bedford County Memorial Hospital on Monday with what doctors termed presumptive polio.

He was taken to Johnstown Memorial Hospital in Johnstown, where final tests are being made.

The lad's doctor said his condition was satisfactory.

Rubber Union May Buy New Headquarters

Will Meet Tonight To Discuss Plans

The Rubber Workers Union will start discussions tonight on the possibility of buying a new headquarters building.

A. E. Johnson, president of Local 26, said the subject will be a special order of business at a meeting tonight at 7:30 at the Rubber Workers Hall, North Mechanic Street.

Mr. Johnson said the present hall, which the local has occupied since 1951, is too small for the business and social activities of the 1,850-member union.

The building, built especially to house the union's headquarters, is occupied solely by the union, except for some apartments on the second floor.

Before it moved into the North Mechanic Street hall, Local 26 had its headquarters in the IOOF Temple, South Mechanic Street.

Now the union wants a place big enough to assemble 1,000 to 1,200 members, Mr. Johnson said.

Crash Victims To Be Buried Tomorrow

Funeral services for two Frostburg men who were killed Thursday evening in a one-car accident on Vale Summit Road between Midland and Clarysville will be held tomorrow afternoon at the Durst Funeral Home.

A service for Robert D. Seifarth, 40, of 118 McCulloh Street, will be held at 2 p.m. with Rev. Paul V. Taylor, pastor of Zion Evangelical and Reformed Church in Frostburg, officiating.

Interment will be in Frostburg Memorial Park. Pallbearers will be Leo Wolf, Harold Binnix, Joseph Donahue, Harold Blank, Tex Bowman and Edward House.

At 3:30 p.m. a service will be held for Frederick J. Rankin, 32, of RD 2, Frostburg, with Rev. Thomas Beckett, pastor of Eckhart Methodist Church, officiating.

Interment will be in the Porter Cemetery. Pallbearers will be Ervin and Daniel Wampler, John Winebrenner, Charles Long, Ronald Atkinson and Joseph Malloy.

Patty Hinkle Shows Slight Improvement

Patty Ann Hinkle, one of the seriously injured school children in the school bus-train accident September 10 at the B&O crossing in Mountain Lake Park, is reported slightly improved although still semi-conscious in Garrett County Memorial Hospital in Oakland.

She became conscious on Thursday the first time since the fatal accident which took the lives of seven children. She also took her first fluids through a straw Thursday and has responded to her name.

Meanwhile her two brothers, Olen, 13, and James, 12, who are patients in Sacred Heart Hospital, are reported to be improving. Another brother, Richard, was killed in the crash.

Md. Educators Unveil New School Program

Equal Opportunity Is Plan's Aim

By LOU PANOS

BALTIMORE (AP) — Maryland educators unveiled Friday the basic features of a sweeping new program aimed at giving all children equal public education opportunities throughout the State.

One feature would make the State a 50-50 partner, on the average, with local governments in footing all education costs.

It now carries only about 37 per cent of the overall load, and the plan envisions a gradual step-up over a five-year period.

The State's actual share of the education bill in a particular county, however, would vary under the new program, depending on that county's ability to pay.

If, under a special formula, the county is found capable of paying, for example, 40 per cent of the bill, the State would pay 60.

In the $4,848,339 Allegany County school budget for the current fiscal year, $2,934,815, or slightly more than 60 per cent, is state money, and $1,918,524, or slightly less than 40 per cent, is county money.

This would be true even if the bill included the cost of kindergarten classes or adult education programs, which are not now part of the State minimum education requirements and therefore are now financed solely by local governments.

The new program was announced at a meeting of members of the State Board of Education, State Department of Education, parent and teacher representatives in the State Office Building here.

Its features were explained by department officials and Dr. Paul R. Mort of Columbia University, educational and financial consultant who did most of the spadework in a two-year study leading to the proposal.

Thomas G. Pullen Jr., state school superintendent, said the plan will be aired at discussion meetings of educators and parents throughout the State. Then it will be introduced to the Maryland Legislature, possibly at its session next February.

$75 Million Now Spent

The State's current education appropriation is 75 million dollars, plus 14½ million for teacher retirement.

There was no estimate of how much the proposed program might cost. Such an estimate would have to include a prediction of how officials in the respective counties would react.

If the officials of a particular county were willing to increase local contributions toward raising teachers' salaries or adding kindergarten classes, the State would be required to kick in its share of the cost—48 or 52 per cent, or whatever its share in that county would be under the new formula.

The formula itself is based on two factors—property assessments and a new item called "pupil cost unit."

For education purposes, all assessments must be figured at 60 per cent of actual market value, even though the State Tax Commission has found that, for local taxation purposes, assessments in the various subdivisions actually range from 42 to 61 per cent of actual value.

Cost Unit Used

The "pupil cost unit" is used instead of the actual number of pupils in a county because the actual number is not a true gauge of the cost of educating each of those pupils. For example, it costs more to educate a high school boy than one in elementary school.

In a statement at the outset of the meeting, Jerome Frampton Jr., president of the State Board of Education, said the plan is designed to minimize "the disparity of the opportunity in the education" of Maryland children because of varying local education programs.

He traced this disparity to "the war and subsequent high mobility of the population" which boosted enrollment in urban counties where new communities sprang up.

"The local economy in certain of these rapidly growing counties has caused a sharp rise in teachers' salaries locally, the major item in any school budget," said Frampton.

"The increase in school costs in general and salary costs in particular have brought about very suddenly an imbalance in school expenditures per pupil, teachers' salaries and inevitably later a great disparity in the quality and quantity of education throughout the State.

Some Are "Penalized"

"Legislation at the State level during the past decade, regardless of the reason, has lagged at an even greater degree than in the past, and the disparity of the opportunity in the education our children enjoy is increasing almost daily.

"Segments of our State are being penalized by this discrimination against their children, and if the parents are to safeguard the interests of their children educationally from local sources, they must tax themselves out of 'house and home' by an execessive tax burden on real estate."

Frampton said the new program was proposed as an incentive for some local governments to help reduce the disparity without incurring unfeasible local tax burdens.

Garrett County School Board Stresses Safety

Proposals Advanced At Special Session

The Garrett County Board of Education has voted to establish a county-wide bus safety council, create a full-time position of transportation supervisor and require a fourth inspection of all county school buses each year.

Superintendent of Schools Willard L. Hawkins said these decisions were made at a special school board meeting Thursday in Oakland. Ordinarily, the board meets on the second Tuesday of each month and had held its regular meeting September 8, two days before the tragic accident in which seven pupils were killed at Mt. Lake Park.

At Thursday's meeting, the school board first reviewed the various school bus safety recommendations which had been made the previous day in the report of the Garrett County grand jury.

Supervisor Wanted

Mr. Hawkins explained that the board wants Robert Martin, shop teacher at Southern High School, to serve as the first full-time supervisor of transportation. The problem Is to get a teaching replacement for Mr. Martin. In August, another shop teacher resigned to accept employment in Montgomery County so that there already is one vacancy.

The new county-wide bus safety council will have its first meeting on Wednesday, September 30. It will include representatives from all parent-teacher associations, civic groups and service clubs, one of the three county commissioners, one of the three school board members, one of the county's representatives in the Maryland General Assembly and a state trooper.

Inspection Added

Present state law requires three inspections of every school bus each school year. The school board now is adding a fourth inspection. The bus which stalled on the B&O crossing to precipitate the tragic accident last week had been inspected just before school started.

Greater emphasis on driver training for school bus operators also was recommended by the school board. Mr. Martin will implement this proposal when he assumes duties as supervisor of transportation.

Dr. Ralph Calandrella of Kitzmiller is president of the Garrett County Board of Education. Other members are George Edwards of Grantsville and Maurice Brookhart of Oakland.

Meanwhile, in Baltimore yesterday, Maryland Commissioner of Motor Vehicles John R. Jewell said that he wants his department given the responsibility of inspecting all school buses and licensing their drivers in a special classification.

Hazelwood Gets Dam Contract

The George F. Hazelwood Company, city, which submitted a low bid of $72,042.55 for the construction of an earthen dam one mile east of Deer Park on the Little Youghiogheny River, was officially awarded the contract this week by the Garrett Soil Conservation District at Oakland.

Present to accept the contract was A. H. Wilson, one of the partners of the company. Lewis R. Jones is designated as contracting officer. He is an attorney for the town of Oakland.

The dam is one of six proposed impoundments designed to prevent Oakland from having any more floods. Oakland and the county are co-sponsors of the projects.

Funds for the construction come mainly through the federal government. Oakland and the county are providing land, easements, and rights of way.

The work is to be completed within 350 days and all work is to be shut down from December 1 through May 14.

Health Dept. Use Of LaVale Hall Proposed

Preliminary Talks Held On Matter

A preliminary meeting between the Allegany County Board of Commissioners and a three-man committee from the LaVale Volunteer Fire Department concerning the possibility of utilizing the LaVale Fire Hall for the County Health Department was held last night at the fire hall.

Cromwell C. Zembower, one of the three members of the fire department committee, said no commitments were made by either side and no figures were quoted. It was purely an informational session and both groups obtained some needed information, he said.

There may be another meeting between the two groups in another week or 10 days but no decision was made on that possibility.

The possibility of moving the County Health Department outside the city limits was raised September 11 when the County Commissioners and the Mayor and City Council met at the Court House to discuss the question of rent for the second floor of the Public Safety Building which the County Health Department uses.

This whole question was precipitated when the Mayor and Council notified the County Commissioners that beginning October 1 an annual rental of $6,000 would be charged for the second and third floors of the Public Service Building. The county retaliated by observing that the entire third floor is used by the State Health Department laboratory, and that consequently the county should pay no more than half of the rent.

Four conclusions resulted from that meeting between city and county officials. The city has immediate need for the City Hall basement and would like the Health Department clinics moved from there. There is no urgent need on the part of the city to gain possession of the second floor of the Public Safety Building. The city also expressed a willingness to defer the start of the payment of rent. Finally, the city is willing to leave the matter of fair rent for the facilities up to real estate appraisers.

Attending last night's meeting were Commissioners John J. Rowan, John T. Mason and William A. Wilson, Leslie J. Clark, attorney to the commissioners, and Mr. Zembower, Henry Wintermeyer and Paul Boch, members of the firemen's committee, and Thomas L. Smith, president of the Fire Department, who appointed the committee.

West Side PTA Hears Talk On School Finance

Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of public schools, spoke at the opening meeting of West Side Parent Teacher Association Thursday, outlining the fiscal policy of the Board of Education, cost of operating public schools and explaining tax sources from which funds are derived.

Miss Caroline Findley, speech therapist, gave a reading and a short explanation of the speech correction program in public schools.

A meeting of parents interested in the school's Cub Scout Pack 19 was called for Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. in the school cafeteria.

T. Arthur Carscaden, new president of West Side PTA, announced the names of other officers and committee members for the year.

Mrs. T. A. Carscaden is first vice president; Mrs. Ralph Isiminger, second vice president; Mrs. Morris Thomas, secretary and publicity chairman; and Douglas Golliday treasurer.

Committees include:

Membership — Mrs. James Richards and Mrs. John Dick; safety—Thomas J. See; school grounds—members of the executive board; home room mothers —Mrs. George Stein and Mrs. William Yeager;: music — Miss Helen Kreiling and Mrs. Gordon Sutherland.

Program — Mrs. William Holbrook, Mrs. John Durst, Miss Anona Brehany, Mrs. William Harrison, Mrs. Louise Zais, and Mrs. Edward Schwartz; legislative — James Alfred Avirett; ways and means — James Cook; library — Mrs. William Martin and Mrs. Leroy Fredericks.

Parent-child education — Mrs. Blaine Schindler; health — Mrs. Willard Adams, Mrs. Wesley Washburn and Mrs. Philip Lucas; county council — Mrs. Carscadan; member ex-officio — Mrs. Donald Herring; PTA directory—members of the executive board; hospitality — Mrs. Robert Peterson, Mrs. Thomas Dempsey, Mrs. Richard Henry, and Mrs. Charles Twigg.

Attendance prizes were awarded to Mrs. Ruth Britt Probst's room, first; and Miss Marie D. Ingles' room, second.

Vanguard III Orbits Earth

Satellite May Help Plot Safe Path For Voyages

WASHINGTON (AP) — America's 100 - pound Vanguard III whizzed about the earth Friday on a mission that might help plot a safe path for future space voyagers.

The satellite, shaped like a big ice cream cone, was launched Friday morning from Cape Canaveral, Fla., and promptly began sending back loud and clear radio signals packed with information.

With luck it might get some extra information from a total eclipse of the sun on Oct. 2.

Third In 11 Tries

Whizzing through space up to 18,567 miles an hour, at altitudes ranging from 319 to 2,329 miles above the earth, the new satellite was only the third put up in 11 tries by Vanguard scientists.

But it brought to eight the number of American satellites now orbiting the earth, not to mention the Pioneer IV space probe which is wheeling, perhaps eternally, around the sun.

The Vanguard success came at the end of a rather cloudy week for American space prestige. It was a week that opened with the Soviet moon-strike. Then came two successive U.S. space failures. However, the week also saw two other successes in related projects.

Vanguard III was sent aloft at 12:20 a.m. Two hours and 50 minutes later, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced the satellite was in orbit. It consists of a 50-pound instrument filled payload and the attached 50-pound spent third stage of the launching rocket.

Measures Field

Main missions of the space messenger are to measure the earth's magnetic field, solar X-rays, micrometeorite bombardment and temperatures inside and outside the satellite. All are tied in with getting further information to help speed and make safe man's eventual attempts to reach the moon and other planets.

The satellite makes a circuit of the earth every 130 minutes in an orbital pathway inclined 33 degrees north and south of the equator.

Its expected lifetime aloft is estimated at 30 to 40 years, and its radio equipment should operate for about three months.

45 Scottish Miners Feared Dead In Fire

KIRKINTILLOCH, Scotland, (AP)—Forty-five Scottish miners were feared dead Friday in a coal pit swept by fire, smoke and deadly gas.

Twelve hours after the miners were trapped nearly a quarter of a mile underground, masked rescue workers detected a large concentration of carbon monoxide in the area.

This is the dreaded "white damp," which proves lethal in a matter of minutes.

"A heavy loss of life must be expected," said an official of the National Coal Board.

As rescue workers wearing oxygen masks kept up the struggle to reach the entombed men relatives of the miners clustered anxiously at the pithead.

Mothers, daughters and wives were there. Several were so overcome they were led away weeping by Salvation Army workers.

The miners were trapped Friday morning while riding on a pit train 1,050 feet underground in the 50-year-old Auchengeich Colliery 10 miles from Glasgow, one of Britain's nationalized mines.

A huge electric exhaust fan burst into flame, quickly filling the passageways with smoke. The fire ate through support timbers, causing rock and earth falls.

Rescue workers brought the body of one miner to the surface about noon. Another was rescued unconscious.

The disaster might have been greater were it not for a three-day strike which ended Thursday. The mine employed 800 men but most had stayed out, planning to return to work Monday.

Famed Lawyer Suffers Attack

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Famed Hollywood attorney Jerry Giesler collapsed from a heart attack at his home Friday and was taken by ambulance to Mt. Sinai Hospital.

Dr. Jack A. Sheinkopf said the attack was "mild." But Giesler, 72, was expected to remain hospitalized for about two weeks for observation as well as "rest and treatment."

Robert Neeb, Jr., a partner, said Giesler has been "ill and sort of tired" recently. He said Giesler collapsed Friday in the bedroom of his home.

Giesler's courtroom career has spanned nearly half a century. His clients have included Rudolph Valentino, Errol Flynn, Marilyn Monroe and the teen-age daughter of actress Lana Turner in the Johnny Stompanato killing.

U.S. Recalls Commander Of Icelandic Air Base

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a move to soothe ruffled feelings, the United States has pulled an Air Force general out of his command in Iceland.

Brig. Gen. Gilbert Pritchard, who took command of the American - staffed NATO base at Keflavik airport only two months ago, has been relieved at the request of the Icelandic government, an Air Force spokesman said Friday.

The action followed diplomatic protests over an incident involving an American sentry and two Icelandic air control officials.

State Department officials said Pritchard was being reassigned only because of the Icelandic request and not because of any reflection on his personal competence.

The Sept. 5 incident at the airport stirred anti-American sentiment and has been used by Communists in Iceland for a new demand to oust all American forces from the strategically located island. About 5,000 U.S. personnel are stationed there.

U.S. forces first went to Iceland, an important point on the air route to Europe, at the start of World War II. Eight years ago Americans moved back into Iceland when it became an outpost of defense in the NATO structure. They have never been too popular with the local citizens.

Following the Sept. 5 incident, in which the two Icelandic officials said they were challenged and forced at gunpoint to lie in a puddle of water for 10 minutes, Icelandic representatives were told to boycott sessions of the Iceland-United States Defense Council. One of the functions of that Council is to ease friction between U.S. forces and the citizens of Iceland.

Soviet Plan To Receive Long Study

Eisenhower Has No Comment On 4-Year Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — Official Washington took the general position Friday night that Nikita S. Khrushchev's four-year plan to disarm the world should be studied carefully.

It was widely noted that the Soviet premier was vague on the question of controls and inspection—regarded as critical by the West.

There was no immediate comment from President Eisenhower, spending the weekend at Gettysburg, Pa. The State Department stood on a statement issued in New York by Secretary Christian A. Herter.

Seems To Repeat

Herter said Khrushchev's proposal requires very careful examination, adding that it seems to repeat total disarmament proposals made by the Soviet Union previously.

Among members of Congress still in the city, the consensus seemed to be that the plan should be given serious, cautious study.

Chairman J. William Fulbright (D-Ark) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee withheld comment.

Sen. Alexander Wiley (R-Wis), senior minority member of the committee, termed the Soviet premier's gambit a grandstand play. Several other congress members dismissed the proposal as propaganda.

The full text of Khrushchev's U. N. speech was being rushed to the President at Gettysburg. He and Khrushchev will get down to serious talks next Friday.

Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, assistant Senate Democratic leader, said:

"We Did Disarm"

"We did disarm after World War II and were caught short in Korea, therefore we have to be extremely careful of any proposals.

"However, we should not reject out of hand Mr. Khrushchev's proposals."

Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn), chairman of a subcommittee on disarmament, said:

"We ought not to pass it off as a mere propaganda stunt. We should give it careful scrutiny and study, and pursue every avenue and effort toward a meaningful disarmament program which must include adequate inspection and controls."

Friendly Cop Won't Guard "K"

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Tony Mihalovich, one of Des Moines' most popular policemen, will not help guard Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev here next week.

Mihalovich, born in Yugoslavia, said he requested that he not be assigned the guard detail because his friends from Slavic nations "just wouldn't understand" if he were to do so.

Tony twice has been cited by the community for his friendliness.

Khrushchev Puts Wreath On FDR's Hyde Park Grave

HYDE PARK, N.Y. (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, standing solemnly in a light rain, placed a wreath of roses on the grave of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt Friday.

The Premier had traveled a total of more than four hours for a pilgrimage that lasted only 57 minutes.

He told Roosevelt's widow, Eleanor Roosevelt: "I felt it an obligation to come here to pay my respects to your husband and his memory. I did not come for pleasure but for duty."

Khrushchev had to hurry back to New York for his United Nations speech.

Khrushchev, accompanied by his wife, Nina, was 39 minutes behind schedule when he stepped out of a limousine here at 11:09 a.m. and was greeted by Mrs. Roosevelt outside the family rose garden where the late president was buried April 15, 1945.

Khrushchev wore a light gray suit and was hatless.

He told Mrs. Roosevelt: "How do you do. I'm glad to see you again."

The two had met before in 1957 when she was visiting in the Soviet Union.

After the wreath - laying ceremony, the Khrushchevs flanked Mrs. Roosevelt for a short walk down a gravel drive to the three-story stucco and stone home in which Roosevelt was born in 1882. Mrs. Roosevelt tucked Mrs. Khrushchev's arm in hers and the two women smiled at each other and chatted briefly.

The party spent only a few minutes in the ancestral home looking at a chair Roosevelt used when he was governor of New York, and at a glass case of stuffed birds, examples of the type he hunted as a teen-age boy.

The last stop in Khrushchev's visit was at Mrs. Roosevelt's cottage, about four miles from the Hyde Park estate.

There, coffee and rolls were waiting but Khrushchev was so pressed for time that he couldn't pause to eat. Both he and his wife, however, grabbed a roll, presumably to nibble on after their departure for New York.

"One for the road," said Khrushchev.

Bob Hope Loses Partial Vision In Left Eye

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Comedian Bob Hope said Friday he has lost partial vision in his left eye, temporarily, because of overwork.

"But there's no use worrying about it now," Hope told a newsman. "I'm just waiting for nature to balance itself up. My doctor says it will happen. After all, lots of people are in the same spot as I am.

"Anyway, it hasn't affected my golf. I had a 73 last week."

Hope has been under treatment since he suffered a blood clot during the Christmas season last year, when he made a 16,000-mile tour of U. S. military bases in Europe and Africa.

Typhoon Leaves Trail Of Death

TOKYO (UPI)—Typhoon Sarah rolled out into open waters Friday night leaving a trail of death and destruction from the southern Ryukyus across Korea into northern Japan.

Still incomplete casualty reports showed the storm had left at least 148 dead or missing and 469 injured since Wednesday when it swept northward from tiny Miyako Island in the Ryukyus.

No Americans were listed among the casualties, although U.S. military installations in South Korea and southern Japan suffered more than a million dollars in damage.

The typhoon, 19th of the season, began its sweep of northern Pacific land areas with winds of up to 158 miles an hour, but most of its strength was diminished as it moved out into the Sea of Ohkotsk Friday night.

The premature lifting of storm warnings in southern Japan nearly resulted in a major tragedy when a ferry boat carrying 599 persons headed out into the Tsugaru Strait between Honshu and Hokkaido and was caught in boiling seas. It finally managed to return to port safety.

MOSCOW (AP)— The 16,000-ton Soviet atomic icebreaker Lenin sailed for Baltic test runs Friday after a two-day stop in Kronstadt, Soviet port on the Gulf of Finland, the Soviet news agency Tass reported. She was launched in December 1957 and commissioned Saturday in Leningrad.

Mitchell Seeks Report By Hoffa

Teamster Head Has 10 Days To Show Cleanup

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell disclosed Friday he has directed Teamster President James R. Hoffa to report in 10 days what steps he has taken to remove from office Teamster officials having criminal records.

Mitchell said in a speech to the AFL-CIO convention he has sent similar messages to individual officials of other labor unions. He did not name them.

The secretary said he was acting under a provision of the new labor control law passed by Congress and signed by President Eisenhower this week. It bars from service as a union official anyone convicted of certain crimes or having been a Communist Party member for five years after such conviction or membership.

Have Records

A number of Teamsters Union officials have been disclosed in Senate Rackets Committee testimony as having criminal records.

A special AFL-CIO convention session unanimously approved a plan recommended by President George Meany and other labor chiefs to ask the organization's 12½ million members to contribute an hour's pay a month to aid the steel strikers.

The nation's half million steelworkers have been idle 66 days, longest steel strike in modern times. The aid action, designed to furnish the steel union with as much as 30 million dollars a month, represents solid labor support for the walkout.

Meany said the steel strike is part of a big business drive to prevent workers from getting wage boosts which he said are warranted because of huge industry profits and productivity gains.

Heads of all AFL-CIO unions were called in for Friday's session. It was a meeting of the federation's general board, a group assembled only for major labor policy decisions.

Huge Fund For Aid

Emil Mazey, secretary-treasurer of the United Auto Workers Union, said the huge new fund sets a pattern for centralized strike aid funds in major labor-management showdowns.

"This sets a pattern for central strike funds for the labor movement, of pooling our resources for strikes in the future," Mazey said.

Mazey's union, headed by Walter Reuther, gave the steel union a one million dollar donation and said it will vote next month to give one million dollars every month the steel strike continues.

The decision to pool labor resources behind the current strike and in future major walkouts parallels to some extent the action by segments of business in adopting strike insurance plans to cushion strike losses.

The steel strikers have asked for a 15-cent hourly boost and benefits for every year of a new labor contract. The industry insists that any labor cost increase would be inflationary. The steelworkers averaged $3.11 hourly earnings before the strike began July 15.

China Regime Shakeup Said Far-Reaching

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials said Friday a shakeup in the Chinese Communist regime is more far-reaching than originally suspected and may reach the proportions of an across-the-board government purge.

Experts on Chinese affairs, after studying monitored reports of Peiping Radio, said the reshuffle is extending from the Ministry of Defense to the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, the State Planning Office and the State Statistical Office.

They said at least four members of the powerful Communist Central Committee have been kicked out of office with no announcement of assignment to other jobs.

They were Chang Wen-T'ien and Wang Chia-Hsiang, both vice ministers of foreign affairs, Marshal Peng Teh-Huai, minister of defense who was replaced by Marshal Lin Piano.

The fourth, former Army Chief of Staff Gen. Huang Ko-Cheng, was relieved of responsibility Thursday and replaced by Gen. Lo Jui-Ching, former police boss.

U.S. officials struggled with a long list of Chinese names the offical government radio said were being replaced. Some were named to other jobs but not all.

To American officials it appeared obvious that the new convulsion in the Chinese Communist government on the eve of the 10th anniversary celebration of the Communist rise to power meant only one thing:

There must have been profound dissatisfaction with the way domestic affairs had been going since adoption of the commune system one year ago. The system tried to organize the Chinese peasantry into semi-military production units.

'Mr. K' Drives Hard For Major Objective

By RELMAN MORIN

NEW YORK (AP)—With a pixie grin, waggling his fat finger, cracking homespun jokes and pleading sweet reason, Nikita Khrushchev is driving hard for a major objective of his American tour.

This is to persuade Americans that he is not the monster they pictured.

He is endeavoring to build up a wholly different image, the image of a sensible, practical, down-to-earth man who wants to be friendly. To this task, he brings the force of a towering personality and a shrewd eye for effects.

It is a selling job, and Khrushchev is an effective salesman. Note some of the techniques—

He describes his government as a "corporation," and himself as a corporation executive, one of the most familiar figures on the American scene. You can reason with an executive.

Knowing the implications of the word, "Communist," he says, with engaging candor, "Well, here I am. I wanted you to see a Communist in human form without horns or tail."

Then the quip "Anyway, if I had horns, I don't have any hair to conceal them."

Boldly, he discusses the two systems, capitalist and Communist. But he doesn't try to deprecate the former or sell the latter. On the contrary, with the appearance of immense common sense, he says, "You believe in your system and I wouldn't waste my energy trying to convert you to ours."

Americans may believe this is exactly what the Kremlin has been trying to do since World War II. Khrushchev, quietly, or with the tolerant smile, tells them they are mistaken.

He pulls a big switch, a sharp departure from an orthodox line—praising President Eisenhower as a great military leader "in our common struggle" during World War II, and acknowledging the importance of American military aid.

Four-Year Program Is Set Forth

Contains Catches Western Allies May Not Accept

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —Nikita S Khrushchev proposed Friday that the world disarm itself completely within four years. His plan presented to the United Nations would do away with armies, navies, air forces, nuclear weapons, military rockets and leave only domestic police forces for keeping internal order.

The proposal contained catches the Western allies may be unable to accept. The Soviet premier recognized this tacitly. Accordingly, he laid down a program for partial disarmament as a temporary measure.

But he said that complete and general disarmament, by treaty and under strict international control, is the "lever by grasping which mankind could be stopped from backsliding into the abyss of war."

Complete Disarmament

"The essence of our proposals," Khrushchev said, "is that over a period of four years all states should effect complete disarmament and should no longer have any means of waging war."

The world's Communist leader was vague, however, about controls and inspection—a topic on which the West is touchy and, on the basis of past negotiations, suspicious of the Soviets. Violations of the projected disarmament treaty would be subject to "immediate consideration" by the U. N. Security Council and General Assembly. And Russia has a veto in the council.

Khrushchev had promised a new disarmament plan in his speech to the General Assembly. And he unfolded it dramatically, in a long address filled with his customary words on peace and friendship and in a memorandum distributed to delegates of the world organization.

The premier managed to stir applause only once during his 65-minute speech. That came from Soviet bloc countries when he plugged for admission of Red China to U. N. membership. The corpse of Nationalist China, the premier said, should be carried out.

No Real Hopes

Eden Confined With Virus

PEWSEY, England (UPI) — Sir Anthony Eden Friday was confined to bed with a "more serious" attack of fever than those which had plagued him since illness forced his resignation as British Prime Minister.

The 62-year - old architect of Britain's disastrous 1956 Suez invasion made his last public appearance in London earlier this month to attend one of two dinners for President Eisenhower. His physicians would not let him attend the other dinner.

Eden's physician, Lord Evans, said he would see the retired statesman Saturday at his home in Pewsey Wintshire.

A spokesman for Eden said his fever was "more serious than previous ones."

Dr. Evans said he believed it was "another of those bouts of fever which he has been getting from time to time."

Eden, who succeeded Sir Winston Churchill as prime minister, had suffered from an abdominal ailment and underwent surgery in the United States.

He resigned on Jan. 9, 1957, twenty-one months after taking office. At the time, there were reports he had quit becuase of the Suez fiasco. But his physicians said that to have continued would have ruined his health. They said he retired becuase of a "recurrence of an abdominal ailment."

On Jan. 11, four days later, he resigned his seat in the House of Commons and went into retirement with his wife, Lady Clarissa, a niece of Churchill.

Legal System For Peace In World Urged

BALTIMORE (AP)—The United States should take positive action to help establish a world legal system to maintain peace, Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo) said Friday.

"It is only through the advancement of law that we can reach any true position of peace through international agreement," he said. "That is our conviction as a people, and that is what we should be certain Mr. Khrushchev understands before he leaves our shores."

Symington noted that Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev had said he seeks a relaxation of cold war tensions.

"Our leaders should emphasize to him that there is no better way to do so than to cooperate in establishing the rule of law throughout the world," said Symington, former secretary of the air force and mentioned as a possible Democratic presidential candidate.

Symington's speech was prepared for delivery at a testimonial dinner honoring a former Maryland circuit judge, Michael Paul Smith.

"Every civilized nation," Symington said, "has found that as a way of settling domestic disputes, law is vastly preferable to force, and now we must set up machinery to settle disputes at the international level."

He suggested:

1. A worldwide conference of statesmen, lawyers and judges who would explore more effective ways to use existing agencies, such as the International Court of Justice, for deciding international disputes.

2. The State Department give high priority to preparing a revision of the U.N. charter. Symington said that in the last 14 years the United Nations has won respect as a forum for peaceful debate and the sensible solution of differences. But, he added, it deserves additional authority not inconsistent with national sovereignty.

3. More exchanges of lawyers, judges and legal scholars of all nations so that they can see how other legal systems operate and discover principles and values that are common to the laws of all nations.

Clerical Error Nullifies Pact

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP) — A clerical error has nullified contracts for the purchase of $192,000 worth of land on which to build a county office building in Silver Spring.

Judge Thomas N. Anderson of Circuit Court Friday granted an injunction requested by five neighboring landowners on grounds that newspaper advertisements did not carry a required phrase that other sites were not available.

The proposed site is at First and Anson Streets, Silver Spring.

After the judge said he was "reluctant to come to this conclusion because of a clerical error," County Atty. Alfred H. Carter said he believed the county would readvertise the property and hold another public hearing within 15 days.

The landowners object to construction of the building on grounds it would reduce the value of their property.

The county has been trying to obtain a site in Silver Spring for two years.

Lawyer Guilty Of Soliciting

CHAMBERSBURG, Pa. (AP)—A Franklin County jury Friday convicted a 43-year-old Mercersburg attorney of illegally soliciting Democratic campaign contributions from State employes.

Lawrence C. Zeger, who resigned last month from the county's Democratic Executive Committee after previously serving as a State committeeman, was found guilty on five counts.

Judge John J. Pentz of Clearfield County, specially presiding, gave Zeger four days to put in writing an oral motion for a new trial. Zeger was released under $500 bond pending the appeal.

Man Found Dead With Throat Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — Several hours before he was to have undergone surgery, a man was found dead today in a George Washington University hospital bathroom. His throat had been cut.

A nurse noted Leonard Martin, 54, Indian Head, Md., was missing from his bed, unlocked the bathroom door and found him dead on the floor. Police said a razor blade was beside the body.

Martin was to have had a back operation.

Fails To Stop After Train Hit

BALTIMORE (AP) — A Pikesville motorist was charged Friday with failing to stop after hitting a train.

Police said Kenneth A. VanHeusen, 46, kept on going after his car collided with a diesel shifting engine in Southeast Baltimore.

He was charged with failing to stop and reckless driving.

Casey Found Guilty Of His Wife's Murder

BALTIMORE (AP)—Former Air Force Sgt. Robert L. Casey was convicted Friday of second degree murder in the stabbing death of his wife.

He could get up to 18 years in the state penitentiary. Criminal Court Judge Joseph Allen withheld sentence to give defense counsel three days to decide if an appeal will be made.

The slim, pale defendant, who weighs about 130, took the jury's verdict with no outward show of emotion. After the jury of seven men and five women returned from their five-hour deliberations, Casey waited in the subdued courtroom for his counsel to return.

The 35-year-old erstwhile noncom at Malmstrom Air Force Base, near Great Falls, Mont., sat with head in hands, as though lost in deep thought. He wore a loose fitting dark gray suit.

As the jury gave its verdict, the defendant's mother in the first row of spectators appeared pale and anxious and to be fighting to hold back sobs.

Casey, of Baltimore, was charged with stabbing his 27-year-old wife to death with a hunting knife on May 11, 1958. The prosecution said he was absent without leave from the air base at the time.

The former airman pleaded innocent by reason of insanity.

The prosecution introduced a note written by Casey addressed "to whom it may concern." In it he was quoted as saying he loved his wife but when he found her at home early one morning with another man "I lost all sense of reason."

Casey, and his wife whom he met while stationed in Texas, had three children.

Less Workers Put On Job

BALTIMORE (AP) — The State Department of Employment Security placed less workers in jobs during August than it did during July. The dropping off of work in the food processing industry and the steel strike were blamed for most of the slackening.

The DES placed 5,925 in nonfarm jobs last month, it reported, a drop of 12.2 per cent from July, and 11.2 per cent under the number placed in August 1958.

There also were fewer job openings, the department said.

Executive Director Robert B. Kimble said it was not possible to define the amount of slowdown caused by the steel strike, but he said it definitely was a factor.

WM To Close Bergoo Agency

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — Western Maryland Railway has been authorized by the Public Service Commission to discontinue its agency at Bergoo in Webster County as of Oct. 1.

The railway showed at a recent PSC hearing that expenses from the Bergoo operation were $5,310 more than income in a Jan. 1, 1956-March 31, 1959 period.

Westernport Man, 75, Reported Missing

Maryland State Police at La-Vale have been notified that Mocomas Broadwater, 75-year-old Westernport man, has been missing since 10 a. m. Thursday when he was last seen in that community.

He is six feet tall, weighs 160 pounds and has gray hair. When last seen he was wearing a red checkered shirt, brown hat and brown trousers. He walks with a cane and is reported to have a heart condition and palsy.

Bishop Discharged

County Treasurer James W. Bishop, 718 Washington Street, was discharged yesterday from Memorial Hospital, where he has been a patient the past 10 days.

Special Street Boxes For Air Mail Letters

BALTIMORE (AP) — Special collection boxes will be set up on street corners in Baltimore for air mail letters only.

Postmaster William F. Laukaitis said Friday a new pickup schedule geared to plane flight times will be put into effect Monday at 29 boxes in the downtown section.

Laukaitis said Baltimore will be the second city in the nation to establish the special collection routes. Los Angeles put a similar system into effect recently.

Four-Year

Western diplomat commented.

"The Messiah has come," said another.

And from a prominent Asian: "It sounds so easy. I think they must take us for morons."

U. S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter issued this formal statement:

"Obviously the disarmament proposal made by Chairman Khrushchev is one which will require very careful examination even though it seems to repeat proposals for total disarmament made by the Soviet Unior in 1932 and the more specific proposals made on May 10, 1955.

"Speaking in general terms, I think I can say that the United States will go as far on the path of controlled disarmament as any other country. I stress the word 'controlled' because up to now the previous proposals have foundered on the Sovite government's refusal to agree to effective controls."

From delegations friendly to Russia came the expected, almost automatic praise of the plan. Deputy Foreign Minister Endre Sik of Hungary said: "I think it will cut the Gordian knot." Polish Foreign Minister Adam Rapacki commented that "there is no doubt that it is a speech given to relax tensions."

Khrushchev was more solemn than on any occasion since his arrival in the United States Tuesday. He spoke deliberately, following his manuscript carefully, scarcely glancing up.

The premier's stop at the towering glass and stone U.N. building along the East River was spliced between a dinner offered in his honor by U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold and a pilgrimage to the graveside of Franklin D. Roosevelt at Hyde Park, N.Y.

It was a hurried visit by car, to lay a wreath of red roses beside the tomb of the man who brought about U.S. recognition of Communist Russia and worked with Soviet leaders as allies in World War II.

Enjoyed Nothing

"He enjoyed nothing," Mrs. Roosevelt said afterward. "A man behind him all the time kept whispering, 'seven minutes, seven minutes.'"

After his address, Khrushchev started a little touring. Hammarskjold piloted him around U.N. headquarters. Then, after a brief detour to his headquarters at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel, the seemingly tireless communist chief was off to take a look at capitalist Wall Street and the Stock Exchange.

But the appearance in the modernistic assembly hall here was the high spot of the day.

And it was one of the high spots so far of a stay in the United States which was tailored to provide time for momentous private conferences with President Eisenhower at the beginning and end.

"We belong," Khrushchev said, "to those who hope that the exchange of visits between the leading statesmen of the United States and the U.S.S.R. and the forthcoming meetings and conversations will help to pave a direct road to the complete ending of the 'cold war.'"

But he bid again for a full-scale summit conference of East and West.

Representing the Soviet Union as a "resolute and consistent champion of disarmament," Khrushchev acknowledged the control issue as a major obstacle to agreement.

Hunter Held In Shooting Of Officer

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va. (AP) — An out-of-season squirrel hunter accused of shooting a young conservation officer was in the Marshall County jail here Friday awaiting a preliminary hearing.

State Police Sgt. R. L. Bonar said Okey Randolph Holmes, 52, of near Moundsville, must answer a charge of malicious wounding before Magistrate Chester A. Burks. Holmes resides on Rt. 1, Glen Easton, about 11 miles east of here.

The man's son, 22-year-old Gene Lawson Holmes, was held as an accessory after the fact. He also was awaiting arraignment, and was in the county jail.

Sgt. Bonar said the Holmes duo admitted the Tuesday shooting, which took place in a wooded area near Moundsville. Investigating officers found a hat that was traced to Okey Holmes.

The man was quoted by Bonar as saying it had been his intention all his life that no game warden would ever take him out of the woods. Bonar said conservation department officers joined with State police in investigating the shooting.

The Conservation Department in Charleston said Gary Wade, 22, of Moundsville, the man shot, went with State Trooper H. E. Robinson to investigate reports of pre-season squirrel hunting. They came upon a man and a boy who were hunting.

The man turned as he fled and fired at the officers, hitting Wade. The victim was in a hospital. He was hit by four shotgun pellets.

Steel Strike Hits Secondary Industry

BALTIMORE (AP)—The nationwide steel strike was given as the reason for the laying off of 27 workers in secondary industry in Maryland during the week ending last Wednesday.

The Department of Employment Security said Friday all of the latest layoffs occurred in the Baltimore area. This brought the total of layoffs in the state since the steel strike began July 14 to 4,534, with all but 410 occurring in the Baltimore area.

Secondary industries affected were railroads, motor freight, construction, wholesale and retail trade, non-striking segments of the primary metal industry and manufacturers of electrical equipment, lumber and wood products and stone, clay and glass products.

State's Attorney Pleads Innocent To Tax Charge

BALTIMORE (AP) — Edwin F. Nikirk, serving his third term as State's attorney for Frederick County, pleaded innocent Friday to charges of evading $10,424 in federal income taxes.

The 43-year-old Nikirk's plea was entered by counsel at a brief arraignment before U.S. District Judge R. Dorsey Watkins.

Defense Counsel Cornelius P. Munday of Baltimore asked and was given until Oct. 15 to file motions in behalf of the prosecutor and requested a jury trial.

Nikirk remained silent throughout the proceedings, which had been delayed by his illness. He stood between Mundy and another defense attorney, Benjamin Rosenstock of Frederick.

Assistant U.S. Atty. John G. Underwood told the court the trial could be expected to take a "minimum of three weeks."

Nikirk, who has continued as prosecutor since his indictment last Jan. 6, was charged with improperly reporting his income while engaged in private practice between 1952 and 1954.

The government charged his income for the three years was $56,143 with a tax of $13,956 due. The indictment charged that Nikirk's return listed income of $20,844 for the three years, with a tax of $3,532.

The indictment was returned one day after Nikirk, a Democrat, was sworn in as State's attorney early this year. He was first elected in 1942 but entered the Army for World War II duty. He returned to the position after his discharge and was reelected in 1946. Nikirk lost out in a bid for another term in 1950, and returned to private practice. He was named to his present term in the November, 1958, election.

Nikirk, a native of Frederick County, is a former chairman of the county's Democratic Committee. He began practicing law in Frederick in 1938 after his graduation from the University of Baltimore Law School.

Youth Sentenced For Assault, Robbery

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—A 20-year-old Anne Arundel County youth was sentenced to eight years in the reformatory for males Friday in the robbery and beating of a hitch-hiker.

Circuit Court Judge Benjamin Michaelson also sentenced William F. Kirby Jr. of Arnold to six years for the holdup of a cab driver. The terms are to run concurrently.

Given reformatory terms along with Kirby in the robbery of Bobby Gene Scholz, a sailor they picked up last Aug. 14 on Ritchie Highway, were Isaiah Norman Herald, 21, of Arnold, three years; Joseph Holmes, 21, Arnold, six years, and Byron Jacobs, 23, Annapolis, six years.

James Somerville, 24, of Severna Park, was sentenced to eight years in robbery and beating of cab driver Louis J. Hayes on Aug. 15.

Two Brothers Escape Police

WATERLOO, Md. (AP) — State troopers searched Friday for two brothers who escaped from the State Police barracks here a few hours after they were arrested.

Police said Leland Crawford, 35, and his brother, Lloyd Crawford, 34, used their iron cots to bend their cell door bars. The escape was discovered early Friday, less than 24 hours after the brothers were picked up near Laurel.

Leland Crawford escaped April 9 from a Raleigh, N.C., jail where he was serving a term for burglary and larceny. His brother Lloyd was wanted by the sheriff's office in Surry County, Va.

DMV Should Inspect School Buses, Head Says

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Department of Motor Vehicles should be given the responsibility for inspecting all school buses and issuing special licenses to their drivers, says the department's commissioner.

John R. Jewell made the observations as a followup to Gov. Tawes' request to State agencies to come up with recommendations to eliminate school bus accidents. Last week a train struck a school bus in Garrett County killing seven children and injuring 11.

Jewell said bus drills should be held at schools as firedrills are. And a monitor should be assigned to each bus in charge of the emergency door.

Two Charged In Rape Case

BALTIMORE (AP) — A District Federal Court grand jury Friday indicted two Washington men on charges of kidnaping and raping two young FBI clerks on a lonely, rural Maryland lane.

The indictments were returned against Ronald E. Garrison, 27, and Joseph L. Price, 30. They face the death penalty if convicted under terms of the federal Lindbergh kidnaping statute.

The FBI charged that the two girls were seized on a Washington street early the morning of Aug. 30 and driven across the District of Columbia line into Maryland's Montgomery County, where they were raped.

The two girls are clerks in the FBI's Washington headquarters.

They told police they were returning home from a dance at a firehouse in Maryland when they were followed by a car in which two men were riding. The auto caught up with them, they said, and the men armed with knives entered the women's car.

The alleged attack occurred on View Farm Lane off Norwood road near Silver Spring.

The FBI reported that Garrison and Price were arrested after scores of persons who had attended the dance were questioned. Garrison and Price were picked out of a lineup by the two girls.

Tawes Receives Honorary Title

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes Friday received a commission as a lieutenant colonel (honorary in the Civil War Press Corps for his interest in creating a journalism Hall of Fame at Gatland State Park.

The park in Frederick County was formerly the estate of George Alfred Townsend, Civil War correspondent who established a stone memorial arch on it to the war correspondents of all ages.

Orchid Blooms After 116 Years

COPENHAGEN (AP)—A Mexican orchid that slept 116 years in Copenhagen's botanical gardens has come into beautiful bloom as an apparent result of long abnormally hot summer weather. Danish physicist Hans Christian Oersted brought it home in 1843 from Mexico, where it blooms annually.

Paralytic Polio Cases Again Decline

WASHINGTON (UPI) — New cases of paralytic polio dropped last week for the second week in succession, the Public Health Service reported Thursday.

There were 273 cases during the week, compared to 291 the week before. Before the week ended Sept. 5, the number of paralytic cases had increased every week since May 23.

There have been 3,084 new cases of paralytic polio so far this year, compared to 1,397 during the same period last year.

The Public Health Service reported that 841,929 doses of Salk vaccine were released during the week ended Sept. 12. During the same period, manufacturers shipped 920,643 to communities in the United States and exported 233,411 doses.

Patricia Phillips Heads Iota Epsilon Chapter, TPL

Officers were elected and activities for the year were discussed at a meeting of Iota Epsilon Chapter of Tau Phi Lambda of the Supreme Forest Woodmen Circle held Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Hazel Kemp, Myrtle Street. Mrs. Patricia Hunter and Mrs. Dorothy Ambrose were cohostesses.

Miss Patricia Phillips was elected president; Miss Juanita Prine, vice president; Miss Jacqua Day, secretary; Miss Shirley Stair, treasurer; Miss Sylvia Sisk, warder; Mrs. Mary White, historian; Mrs. Patricia Hunter, chaplain; Mrs. Jane Frederick, musician, and Mrs. Juanita Leese, advisor.

The business session was conducted by Miss Day. Mrs. Betty Dean presented the slate of officers. Mrs. Margaret Hartman reported that the club stands sixth in the national organization. Mrs. Kemp reported she had sent flowers to two members in the hospital, Mrs. Anna Margaret Connelley and Mrs. Carol Kenny; and a sympathy card to Mrs. Frances Hartman, Keyser. The club voted cash for stamps for the sunshine and birthday chairmen.

In welfare work it was announced 10½ hours had been given as chaperones at the annual children's picnic, given by the American Legion. The chaperones were Mrs. Frederick, Mrs. Juanita Leese and Charlotte Leese.

Prospective members were voted upon and Miss Phillips announced the rush party will be held September 24 at the Girl Scout house. Gypsy costumes are to be worn. Committee chairmen were appointed. They are invitations, Mrs. Frederick; favors, Mrs. Margaret Hartman; Mrs. Kemp; program, Miss Ruth Spangler, Mrs. Mary White; refreshments, Mrs. Betty Dean, Mrs. Anna Lee Snyder, Mrs. Mary Alice Millholland, and decorations, Miss Marjory Crist, Miss Day and Miss Prine.

A rummage sale is to be held early in October. The committee includes Miss Stair, Mrs. Dorothy Ambrose and Mrs. Kemp. Other activities include the Founders Day dinner the latter part of October; filling a Thanksgiving basket in November, and the annual Christmas dinner, December 10.

The evening concluded with a surprise birthday party for Mrs. Kemp.

Leaguers To Mark Observance

To "demonstrate the power of the Holy Spirit when young lives are confronted by the Gospel," several members of the Luther League of St. Paul's Lutheran Church will assist the pastor in both morning services tomorrow, for the first time in the history of the church. The theme is "In this sign conquer."

At the 8:30 service those participating are Bonnie Norris, Kent Allison, William Summers, Charlynne Hyde, and Darlene Browne as speakers; and, Lee Judy, Brad Moon, John Taylor, and Stephen Bennett as ushers. The youth of the Chancel Choir will sing at this service. At the 11 a. m. service those taking part are Robert Smith, Karen Frick, William Ritchey, Jane Sammel, and Cynthia Siehler as speakers; and Frank Williamson, James Brinkman, Robert Bruce, Patrick Trost, James Davis, Charles Floto, Merwin Hast and John Northcraft as ushers.

Those filling offices and teaching in the Sunday school hour are: William Ritchey, William Hartung, Teryl Chaney, Jane Sammel, Carol Griggs, Robert Smith, Linda Gipe, Bonnie Norris, Charlynne Hyde, Jean and Elizabeth Taylor.

The 6:30 p. m. Luther League program will be held in the youth chapel with William Ritchey as leader. The topic will be "Youth, Answer Christ's Call."

Sept. 23 the leaguers have planned a fall roundup party for all the young people of the church.

Advisors are Miss Virginia Lee Beall, Mr. and Mrs. James R. Smith, Mrs. M. Monroe MacKenzie and Rev. John F. Sammel.

LaSalle Mothers Club To Entertain Members

LaSalle Mothers Club will honor the mothers of the freshmen September 29. The party will be held in St. Patrick's Social Center at 8 o'clock, at which time Christian Brothers will be introduced to the mothers. Retiring and present officers will be in charge of arrangements.

The club is planning a rummage sale. It will be in SS. Peter and Paul hall, October 9 from 7 until 9 p.m., and October 10 from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. Mrs. Milton Kyhos is chairman, assisted by the officers. For pickup of contributions persons may call Mrs. Helen Schwenninger, PA 4-1605 or Mrs. Kyhos, PA 4-6573.

Rev. Charles W. Bogan will be celebrant for a mass at 10 o'clock October 25 in St. Mary's Church, when the club will attend, preceding the annual breakfast in the parish hall. Brother E. Paul, director of Anselm Hall, Elkins Park, Pa., will be guest speaker. The local faculty will attend. A business meeting will be held October 13 at 8 p.m. in the social center.

Moberly, McGreevy Team Wins

Mrs. Bernard V. McGreevy and John A. Moberly topped the field in a Western Maryland Bridge Association game Thursday evening at the Cumberland Country Club. The game attracted a near-record attendance, there being 17½ tables in play. Section A was composed of nine tables, with an average of 108. There were 8½ tables in Section B, with the average score being 94½.

Runners-up to Mrs. McGreevy and Moberly in East-West of Section A were Mrs. Barnett Leibowitz and A. J. Feigus, 129½; Mrs. Milton Gerson and Mrs. Emmett L. Jones, 124½, and Mrs. Margaret B. Sloan and Mrs. William Frailey, 119.

Top scores in North-South of Section A were Mrs. James Hugglestone and Harding Monroe, 138½; Mrs. George F. Bottorf and Mrs. A. J. Feigus, who tied with Irving Millenson and Norman W. Taylor, each finishing with 121½, and Mrs. Roger X. Day and Mrs. Bernard F. Lewis, 118.

Leaders in North-South of Section B were George F. Bottorf and James N. Long, 106½; Mrs. Joseph Knepp and Mrs. William S. Snyder, 102½; Edgar J. Dawson and Lloyd G. Trimmier, 102, and Miss Alice Stal[illegible]m and Miss Louise Zihlman, 101½.

Winners in East-West of Section B were Robert I. Dezen and Richard D. Schwab, 102½; Mrs. Norman W. Taylor and John R. Wilkinson, 99; Miss Julia Jackson and Theodore W. Gray, 98½, and C. William Dailey and William A. Douglas, 95.

The Western Maryland club will hold its annual meeting September 24 at 7:30 at the country club. All members are to attend, and a game will be played following the meeting.

The Potomac Valley Bridge Club will play a game Tuesday at 8 p. m. at the Woman's Civic Club house.

1951 Class Reunion Reservations Due

Dinner reservations for the reunion of Fort Hill High School, Class of 1951, are to be made by September 23, with Mrs. Shirley Taylor Squires, PA 2-5611.

The reunion will be in the form of a dinner and dance, September 26 at the Clary Club, beginning at 6:30, with music by Peck Mills Orchestra for dancing. Final plans were formulated at the meeting at the home of Mrs. Martha Burke Dailey.

Rev. Don Brake, member of the class, is to be master of ceremonies. Guest speakers will be Victor D. Heisey, Mrs. Kitty Pafel Wilson, Miss Catherine Cumbee, class advisor, and Carl Ritchie, financial advisor. Richard Dailey will offer the invocation.

Piney Plains PTA Plans Program

The Piney Plains PTA approved a plan to have Harry Norris furnish a bus to transport the school children to Fort Hill High School to see a play there twice during the school year. The association is to pay for the transportation cost, and the children, their own admission charge.

Other discussions during the first meeting of the year, conducted by Homer Creek, concerned continued need for road signs for children crossing, and the need of at least 15 members in order to obtain a leader for a child study course. Following prayer, J. Paul Andrick, principal, led in the flag salute. Mrs. Jack Bowman and Mrs. Faye Creek gave the treasurer and secretary report respectively.

Presentation of the PTA pin was made to James Crawford, former president.

Committees were named. They are James Collie, James Crawford, Mrs. Gloria Crawford, program; Joseph Price, John Bowman and Mr. Andrick, playground; Paul Smith, Lester Roberts and Brooks Stottlemeyer, budget and finance; Mrs. Joseph Price, Mrs. Olive Creek and Mrs. Alda Fletcher, refreshment. Bruce Blackburn is to continue as membership chairman; Mrs. Frieda Smith, music, and Mrs. Virginia Blackburn, publicity.

James Crawford and James Collie are to contact members interested in an advanced first aid course.

A social followed and refreshments were served by Mrs. Andrick and Mrs. Price, assisted by Ann Blackburn and Donna Fletcher.

Group 3, Central Methodist Church, will hold a rummage sale Monday at the church from 10 until noon.

Moorefield Club Plans Projects

The Women's Club of Moorefield opened the 1959-60 year with a membership tea at the home of Mrs. M. H. Maxwell earlier in the week. Mrs. Albert Hiser, Mrs. Loy High, Mrs. Mask Harwood and Mrs. L. S. Moomau were new members welcomed into the club this year.

Mrs. Donald Baker, president, announced that Roy Hamilton had made and donated a new gavel to the club. It is made of apple wood.

It was decided that the club would purchase again this year the pins for the members of the National Honor Society at the Moorefield High School. It was also decided that a fan would be purchased and donated to the Grant Memorial Hospital if the Hospital Auxiliary indicated that the fan was still needed.

Mrs. Baker announced the appointment of the standing committees for the year: community service — Mrs. R. J. Troughton, Mrs. R. J. Bean, Mrs. Wendell Hester and Mrs. C. A. Ludwick Jr.; sunshine — Mrs. John Harman, Miss Elizabeth Wilson, Miss Icie Barbe; American home — Mrs. T. P. From, Mrs. J. M. Harrison, Mrs. C. G. Hamrick, Mrs. M. A. Bean; public affairs— Mrs. C. B. Bishoff, Miss Helen Leatherman, Mrs. Scotty Reynolds, Mrs. L. L. McConnell; international relations — Mrs. H. G. Muntzing, Mrs. Roy Hamilton, Mrs. Albert Hiser; civil defense — Mrs. Lois Baker, Mrs. Elmo Pownall; fine arts — Mrs. James Ansel, Mrs. Francis Baker, Mrs. Ida Feller, Mrs. C. R. The club voted to recommend Mrs. Donald Baker for office of vice president in the Eastern District. The district meeting will be held in Petersburg, October 17.

Miss Jane Welton, who was sent to Rhododendron Girls State by the Moorefield Club, reported upon her week at Jackson's Mill. Miss Carolyn Chipley, sponsored by the Women of the Moose, also appeared and shared the program with Miss Welton.

Hostesses for the evening with Mrs. Maxwell were Mrs. C. G. Hamrick, Mrs. Roy Hamilton, Mrs. Guy Lang, Mrs. Ida Feller and Mrs. LaMar Sager.

Mrs. Jeanne S. Moehn, University of Maryland will conduct a training meeting for the Girls Trail, 4-H local leaders and club presidents at 10 this morning in the extension office.

A games party, sponsored by Queen City Council 114, Daughters of America, will be held at 1:30 today in Junior Order hall.

Beta Sigma Phi Council To Sponsor Friends Aware

Four socials were planned and a project for the year adopted at the meeting of Beta Sigma Phi City Council, which was held Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Josephine Pfeiffer, Willowbrook Road.

A leave of absence was granted to Mrs. Ora Mae Lewis and Mrs. Jean Green was elected new vice president to replace her.

The Ritual of Jewels banquet is to be held October 29 at the Ali Ghan Country Club. "Guest Night" is to be held either October 14 or 21. The annual dance is to be held in April and a card party in mid-winter.

For the year's project the council selected Friends Aware.

Mrs. Betty Barnes was appointed general chairman for the dance. She will be assisted by Mrs. Dolly Green of Lambda Chapter; Mrs. Frances Frank, Omicron Chapter; Miss Betty Stegmaier, Miss Janet Stegmaier, Alpha Alpha Chapter; Miss Helene Schutz, Xi Beta Chapter and Mrs. Sara Rank, Xi Nu Chapter. The card party is to be under the chairmanship of Miss Martha Lee Heron.

Members attending were Mrs. Eve Sliviak, Mrs. Kathryn Sampson, Mrs. Barnes, Mrs. Imogene Hixson, Mrs. Rank, Mrs. Jean Green, Mrs. Lois Nichols, Mrs. Dolly Green, Mrs. Dorothea Hare, Mrs. Lewis, Mrs. Betty Frantz, Miss Heron, Miss Schutz, Mrs. Wilma Jean Heinrich and Mrs. Frank.

The next meeting will be October 15.

Mrs. Walter A. Fraley Sr., 109 Park Street, is recuperating in Sacred Heart Hospital, where she underwent an operation.

Panel To Discuss Fashions

Mrs. Rudolph Steinberger, 11 Meadow Drive, Cresaptown, will serve as moderator for a panel discussion by 10 Allegany County homemakers. She was chosen by editors of McCall's magazine, sponsor of the 1959 Congress on Better Living, which is an outgrowth of the government-sponsored "Women's Congress on Housing" of 1956.

The discussion will be on fashions and tentative plans are for it to be held October 6 in the meeting room of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association.

Besides Mrs. Steinberger, others taking part will be Mrs. Benjamin R. Lewis, Mrs. James B. Reinhart, Mrs. Edward W. Dove, Mrs. Edward R. Sokolowski, Mrs. Henry Sauer, Mrs. Arthur C. Crum of Cumberland; Mrs. Harvey E. Funk, Cresaptown; Mrs. William C. Van Newkirk, Frostburg; Mrs. Alan Macy, LaVale, and Mrs. Earl W. Jamison, Potomac Park.

Mrs. Steinberger was chosen moderator because she had been a delegate to the Washington Congress last October, after receiving an honorable mention for her entry in the kitchen remodeling contest. The ten panelists were selected from their answers to the questionnaires they received on home building, home equipment, fashion, food, beauty fields and trends in physical and emotional aspects of living.

During October, groups of 10 will meet in 150 cities to discuss the whole area of family interests, from home construction to food preparation, as well as fashions, health, beauty aids and child care. Reports of their opinions will be compiled and the results returned to the moderators.

Club Has Czech, Polish Program

The Music and Arts Club appointed Mrs. Samuel Weatherholt, second vice president of the state federation, to represent the club at the state board meeting in Frederick October 9. Miss Dorothy Willison presided at the opening meeting of the season Monday evening at the home of Mrs. William Ludman, LaVale.

A program of Czechoslovakian and Polish music featured the program, with Mrs. Harry Parker giving a resume of the music and composers. Miss Carole Reith conducted the group singing with Mrs. Duke Burger at the piano. Others taking part were Mrs. Ludman, Mrs. Vernon Cost, Mrs. Howard Irwin, Mrs. Ivan Hall, Mrs. Robert Bittle and Mrs. Robert Gormer.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Ludman, Mrs. Weatherholt, Mrs. Frank Stuart Rowe and Mrs. Irwin.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Hair Control Made Easy

In a date-loaded week like this, the moment is sure to come when permanents look endy, straight hair hangs limp, and even naturally curly hair gets ideas about going its own way. This nadir between sets is bad enough at any time but it's close to tragic when you want to look your extra special best.

That's the moment to treat yourself to the miracle of the Powers Girls' sixty-minute set. During the same sixty minutes you can bathe and dress for the party ahead.

The second you hit your room, start your set by dry-cleaning your hair and scalp. Begin by parting your hair in a clean sweep over your left ear, clear across the crown of your head. Rub the part vigorously with a fresh turkish towel. Continue the parting and rubbing until you reach your right ear. Then, rub your hair with the towel as though you were drying it after a champoo.

A good brushing comes next. Bend over and let 'er fly. Then stand erect and smooth all your hair straight back. Dip your comb in a quick-drying lotion (always on hand for these crucial moments) and comb it sparingly through your hair.

Now, make a part about an inch above the hairline, horizontally across the front hair. Subdivide this into inch-square sections. Roll each section in turn around your finger.

If you want your wave or curls to fall forward, roll the hair in a forward direction. If you want them to turn backward, pull them toward the back and roll. It's all right to mix the direction if some of your hair-do sweeps forward and some back.

When you've got a thick roll over your finger, slip it off and secure the curl flat to your head with straight hair pins. Systematically roll every inch of your head this same way. It shouldn't take more than fifteen minutes.

You can spend the time while your lotion dries bedecking yourself. Just five minutes before the clock strikes the hour, take the pins out, give your curls a swipe of pomade and brush your hair into your accustomed style.

Remember, all you have to say to compliment is, "Thank you, kind sir!"

BPW Receives Members, Outlines Year's Program

Three new members were accepted and highlights of the coming year outlined at the first fall meeting of the Cumberland Business and Professional Women's Club, held in the form of a dinner-meeting earlier in the week at Sheehe's Restaurant. Mrs. Blanche Mantell, Miss Mary Jo Simpson and Miss Nell Hawkins were accepted into the membership.

Mrs. Ethel Northcraft presided and Mrs. Kathleen Burke, program co-ordinator, gave highlights of the 1959-60 calendar and distributed the programs. They include a theatre party, observance of National Business Women's Week, the annual hobby show, a benefit card party, and the annual Christmas party December 8 and June picnic. Mrs. Thelma Swartzwelder, finance chairman, presented the budget, which was approved. Miss Dorothy Manley notified the club members that reservations are being taken for a matinee-dinner party, to be held September 26. Plans are to attend a performance of "Howie" at the Jennerstown Mountain Playhouse, followed by dinner at the White Star Restaurant.

Members were urged to attend the state board meeting to be held at Elkton October 3. Mrs. Northcraft, Mrs. Burke, Miss Orpha-Bonita Pritchard and Miss Gerardine Pritchard will attend and others are considering going.

Plans for the celebration of Business and Professional Women's Week, October 4-10, were announced by Mrs. Ethel Davis. The observance will open with a breakfast Sunday at the Fort Cumberland Hotel at 8:30; Monday there is to be a BPW 'Listening Party" at Seifert's third floor; and Tuesday a banquet will be held at the Ali Ghan Country Club.

A public card party was announced by Mrs. Claude Twigg. It is to be held at the Woman's Civic Club house, October 14 to augment the scholarship fund. Mrs. Karl Perry will be chairman for the annual hobby show to be held November 10, 11 and 12. Meetings are to be held the third Tuesday of each month at 5:45 at Central YMCA, except the annual spring meeting, in April.

Guests attending the dinner were Miss Lucy B. Higgins, Mrs. Effie Parsons and Miss Jane Williams. Other members attending were Miss Helen Beck, Miss Clarabelle Kaldor, Miss Louise Mathes, Miss Patricia Martz, Mrs. Thelma Swartzwelder, Miss Anna Durst, Miss Marion Dennison, Miss Milly Gottlieb, Mrs. Alberta Treiber, Miss Orpha-Bonita Pritchard, Miss Gerardine Pritchard, Miss Anna Nicht, Miss Edna Seifert, Miss Theresa Nicht, Miss Dessie Williams, Mrs. Eva Hogan, Mrs. Anna Kurtz, Mrs. Louise Sharpless, Miss Eudora Jochum, Mrs. Margaret Poole, Miss Margaret Kirby, Mrs. Beth Hollis, Mrs. Grace Wilson, Mrs. Rose Ambrose, Mrs. Jennie Lancaster, Mrs. Jean Cioni, Miss Olive Hurlburt, Miss Kathleen Cumbee, Miss Mary Jo Logsdon, Mrs. Elizabeth Philson, Mrs. Mary White, Mrs. Cora Perry, Mrs. Ellen McKenzie, Mrs. Alta Bowman, Mrs. Lillian Hast, Mrs. Margaret Bittinger, Miss Marguerite Mullen, Mrs. Josephine MacMannis, Miss Margaret Walsh and Miss Mary Walsh.

Chorus To Rehearse

The Homemakers Chorus will begin rehearsals for the minstrel at the meeting Monday at 7:30 in Central YMCA. The minstrel is to be given in November. All members are asked to be present.

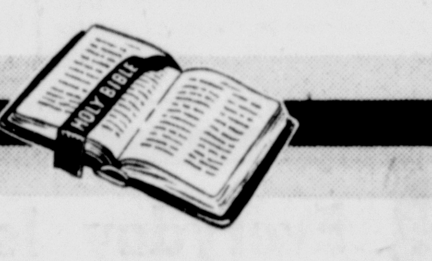
She'll Never Neglect Him...

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Day	Book	Chapter	Verses
Sunday	I Samuel	1	26-28
Monday	Luke	2	39-40
Tuesday	I Samuel	3	17-19
Wednesday	Luke	2	46-49
Thursday	I Corinthians	2	3-5
Friday	Psalms	37	3-6
Saturday	Deuteronomy	7	9



Mrs. Thompson is a "modern" mother. She wouldn't think of neglecting her baby's regular visit to the doctor. She knows that these early check-ups plus proper diet, rest and care, are vital if her child is to grow up into a strong, healthy boy, ready to take his place in tomorrow's world.

Nor will she forget an even more important factor in his development—his spiritual check-ups. When the time comes and baby is old enough, his tiny footsteps will lead him into Church School where another kind of ministry will be given to him. Later still, he will worship with his parents, and the importance of the family unit together at work, at play and in worship will be engrained in his mind.

In tomorrow's world he will be well equipped to take his place physically, mentally . . . and spiritually.

Future Teachers To Meet At Jackson's Mill Oct. 2

JACKSON'S MILL, W. Va. — College and high school students who will teach West Virginia's schools of tomorrow will gather at Jackson's Mill October 2-4 for their annual convention. About 300 are expected.

Sponsored by the West Virginia Education Association, the meeting will include members of the Future Teachers of America and Student National Association.

Eugene Smith, education major at West Virginia University will preside over the three-day session when students will consider school problems in the state. This is the eighth annual convention for the group.

Dr. Bertha Lawrence, New Jersey educator, will make the keynote address to the group Friday afternoon and Theella Woods, a student at West Virginia State will describe highlights of the NEA national convention in St. Louis last summer.

Dr. Craig Wilson, assistant superintendent of West Virginia schools, will speak to the group Saturday morning. He will be followed by a student panel headed by Kenley Hamlin of West Virginia Tech.

Beatrice Harvey, state Classroom Teacher official and a teacher in Greenbrier County, will discuss professional standards with the group Saturday; Myron Drummond, president of the Elementary Principals Association from Huntington will make a talk on public relations. Professional ethics will be discussed by Ella Bergdoll, state Classroom Teachers president from Moorefield, and Dr. John F. Montgomery of Greenbrier College in Lewisburg will talk on "Quality Teaching."

Heading a discussion on professional organizations in general will be Willis Chambers, Kanawha County assistant superintendent of schools.

Taking part in workshops will be Dr. Eddie Kennedy, West Virginia University; Edward McMillion, Nicholas Co. high school, Summersville; Virginia Frazier of Nitro High School; Mrs. Doris Bowers of Nitro and Miss Mabel Nichols of Webster Springs High School.

A banquet will be held Saturday evening when Catherine Clark, president of the WVEA, and Dr. Harrison H. Ferrell of West Virginia State will make principal talks.

Corma A. Mowrey, director of professional services for the WVEA, is in charge of the meeting.

Bible Prophecy Lecture Series Begins Sunday

FROSTBURG — Beginning tomorrow evening at 7:30 a "Bible Prophecy Speaks" series of evangelistic meetings will begin in the Adventist Church at 81 West College Avenue, Frostburg. Otis L. Parish, pastor and Bible lecturer will be the speaker.

The opening topic will be "World Peace or Atomic Pieces" with the film "Is the World Headed for Chaos?"

"This subject is especially appropriate in the light of the age in which we live, because so many are asking questions about this very thing," says Pastor Parish.

Motion pictures will be shown each night and the sermons will be illustrated by Colorama. Appropriate books will be given away every night.

On Tuesday evening the subject is "Did God Create a Devil?" and on Friday, "What and Where Is Heaven?" The services will continue each Sunday, Tuesday and Friday nights for several weeks. The public is invited.

Keyser Airs Proposal For Public Housing

Council Approves C. Of C. Suggestion

KEYSER — The Mayor and councilmen of Keyser have agreed to cooperate with the Keyser Chamber of Commerce in the establishment of a local Public Housing Authority, and have also passed an emergency ordinance to curtail use of water any time the supply becomes limited or an emergency exists.

The ordinance, which goes into effect immediately, gives the city administration the power to prohibit the use of water for lawns, washington automobiles and the like and limits its use to household needs only. Violators may be fined from $5 to $10.

It was, of course, enacted because of the city's precarious water supply due to the drought. Earlier this week the Mayor and Council requested consumers to limit the use of water, but now the request has become an order and can be enforced.

The Housing Authority proposal by the Chamber of Commerce was accepted enthusiastically by the Mayor and Council. It would set up a Housing Authority similar to that in nearby Cumberland. Funds would be obtained through the Public Housing Authority for slum clearance and the erection of low-cost housing units.

The rentals from the units would amortize the PHA grant in 40 years, and the properties then would be turned over to the city.

I. Fred Anderson is chairman of the Chamber of Commerce committee, assisted by Floyd C. Boor, Earl K. Hess, Ralph O. Martin and J. Lee Temple. No definite action towards forming the Housing Authority has been taken, except that Anderson has conferred with officers of the Cumberland Housing Authority to obtain pertinent information.

If a Housing Authority is formed here, the next step would be for the PHA to make a survey and determine the needs and location for the low-cost rental units.

Valley FHA Is Headed By Sally Miller

Regional Meeting Plans Discussed

LONACONING — The first meeting of the Senior Future Homemakers of America was held Thursday, in the Home Economics Department, Valley High School.

Officers elected for the year 1959-60 are Sally Miller, president; Mary Madeline Smith, vice president; Mary Lee, secretary; Carol Dye, treasurer; Cathy Carter, historian, and Pat McPartland, chaplain.

October 1 is set as the deadline for payment of membership dues for the FHA club. A point system has been adopted by the FHA with students attending a meeting or taking part in activities for extra points. A grocery basket project for club funds will be held next week.

A regional meeting will be held October 3 at Flintstone with students from Valley High School participating in a panel discussion. Sally Miller will report on the National FHA meeting and the state executive meeting held this month.

Students from Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties will attend the regional meeting at Flintstone, going by buses.

Cathy Carter is program chairman for the next Senior FHA club meeting at Valley High School.

Playlot Group Elects Officers

FROSTBURG — The monthly meeting of the Braddock Playground Association was held a recent evening.

New officers were elected and installed as follows: Frederick Snelson, president; Mrs. Edward Carder, vice president; Mrs. James Lancaster, secretary; Mrs. Earl Thomas, general treasurer, and Mrs. Clyde Weitzell auxiliary treasurer.

Plans were made to hold a rummage sale in November in the Eagles building. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Weitzell with Mrs. Lancaster as co-hostess.

PATRICIA LYNN WHITE

Honor Society Prexy Named Princess

ELKINS, W. Va. — Blue-eyed and brown-haired Patricia Lynn White, 18, of Ravenswood, will be among the 36 West Virginia beauties who will serve as princess in the court of Queen Silvia XXIII for the October 1-4 Mountain State Forest Festival to be held in Elkins.

A freshman at West Virginia University, Miss White is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul G. White of Ravenswood. She was appointed by US Senator Jennings Randolph.

An honor student at Ravenswood, Miss White served as president of the National Honor Society, was class representative to the Student Council for two years, was a majorette in the Ravenswood marching band and played a tenor sax in the concert band. She was chosen to play first chair in the tenor sax section of the All State Band at the State Band Festival in Huntington this year.

She received a four-year scholarship for winning the District American Legion oratorical contest in 1958, and won the Charles Palmer Award for four years of outstanding achievement in social studies.

An officer of the Thespian Society, she also held membership in the Latin Club, Future Homemakers, Future Teachers Club and Ravenswood High School chorus.

Freshmen Week Concluded At State College

22 Campus Groups Stage Program

FROSTBURG—Freshmen Week was concluded Thursday evening at Frostburg State Teachers College with an "organizations night" in Compton Hall gymnasium.

Twenty-two campus groups had displays and demonstrations. Members gave their "sales pitch" to prospective members for the coming year.

The affair was sponsored by the Freshmen Week committee of Student Congress. Chairman was Don Wittig. He was assisted by Jack Ewald, Eugene Kidwell and Howard Lemmert.

The following groups had displays and booths: Student Christian Association, Madrigals, Art Club, Band, Newman Club, Nemacolin, Radio Amateurs Club, Women's Recreation Association, State-To-Date, Alpha Psi Omega, Little Theatre, Men's Athletic Council, Delta Kappa Fraternity, Canterbury Club, Phi Omicron Delta Sorority, Kappa Pi, Xi-Xi, Outdoor Club, International Relations Club, French and Spanish Clubs, Do-Ci-Do, Student Congress and the Baptist Student Union.

The Freshman Week committee of Student Congress which planned and supervised the activities included: Marvin Vann, chairman, Alton Hoopengardner, Bessie Bailey, Jacqueline Calhoun, Jane Duling, Eugene Eagan, Catherine Joyce, Elizabeth Ann Maher and Don Wittig. John Allison was the faculty advisor.

First classes of the new school year begain Friday at 8 p. m.

Officials Plan Discussion Of Race Passes

R. Bruce Livie, chairman of the Maryland Racing Commission, will be in Hagerstown today to work with racing officials toward an agreement over alleged "discrimination" against area fans attending the Cumberland Fair Association's 12-day racing meet there.

Mr. Livie told J. Glenn Beall, president of the Cumberland Fair Association, he will confer today with Dr. Robert Snavely, president of the Hagerstown Fair Association, in an effort to reach agreement.

The local fair association yesterday lodged an official protest with the Maryland Racing Commission over what it terms discrimination.

Conferring by telephone with Mr. Livie, Senator Beall complained that Cumberland passes are not being honored at the Hagerstown track, to which the local meet was shifted due to the shortage of horses.

Senator Beall told the Maryland racing head that area race fans are being discriminated against. Tax-free passes, he said, which were put out by the Cumberland Fair Association are not being honored. A 50-cent service charge is being assessed, he stated, on grandstand passes and a dollar on press passes.

This, Senator Beall maintained, is not only unfair to the fans, but is depriving the state of additional revenue because it is hurting the wagering.

Harry J. Barton, general manager of the Cumberland Fair Association, also conferred with chairman Livie on the matter.

Three Trailer Owners Pay $10 Arrival Tax

Three more owners of house trailers have paid their $10 Allegany County arrival tax and have received tags to attach to their trailers as receipts.

The latest to pay this new tax, which became effective June 1, are James McKenzie, McMullen Highway, whose trailer is in Election District 7; Kenneth M. Wallizer, whose trailer is in District 21, and Hugh Speir, Danville, whose trailer also is in District 7.

Sterling F. Malcolm of McCoole, District 31, purchased the first trailer tag on September 9.

These trailer arrival taxes are required for every trailer remaining in Allegany County for 30 days. They are required under House Bill 795, introduced by Delegate William Walsh. The measure is designed to get house trailers on the county tax books. Those who pay the $10 arrival tax are allowed a $10 rebate on their real estate taxes in the coming year.

Orphans Court Probates Wills Of Three Persons

The last testament of Charles Francis Kaiser, who was 68 and lived at 214 Emily Street at the time of his death August 29, was one of three wills admitted to probate yesterday in Allegany County Orphans Court.

Mr. Kaiser left all of his household furniture and other tangible personal property to one of his daughters, now Mrs. Mary Jean Kaiser Rapson. All the rest of his estate was left equally to three daughters, Mrs. Helen Kaiser Wilson, Mrs. Catherine Kaiser McNeel and Mrs. Rapson, a stepson, Elwood Mitchell, and a son, Charles Francis Kaiser Jr. Attorney William Walsh qualified as executor of the estate under a $5,000 bond. The will was dated November 20, 1957.

Also probated westerday was the will of Mrs. Bessie May Davis, who was 70 and lived at 1418 River Avenue at the time of her death September 11. Her husband, Frank Theodore Davis, qualified as executor under a $5,000 bond. He was bequeathed her property at Roberts Street and River Avenue along with all merchandise, store fixtures, store furniture and household furniture. He was given a life interest in all of the rest of her estate which is to go equally to her four sisters upon his death. The will was dated November 6, 1940.

The last will of John M. Murphy, who was 74 and lived in Lonaconing at the time of death August 17, left his entire estate to his friend, Etta Mae Dare, Lonaconing. She qualified as executrix of the estate under a $1,000 bond. This will was dated May 19, 1959, less than three months before his death.

Additional Frost Slated For Area

A heavy frost covered this area early yesterday morning as the temperature dipped to a low of 27 degrees at Oakland.

More scattered frost was forecast in Western Maryland this morning. Mostly sunny weather with slightly warmer temperatures are forecast for this afternoon.

Other area readings yesterday morning included 28 degrees at Deal, 31 at LaVale and 34 at Cumberland and Frostburg.

Stocks Suffer Fourth Loss Of Week In Quiet Market

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks suffered their fourth loss of the week Friday, bringing the loss in values for the five session to more than seven billion dollars.

Trading picked up on the decline but it still was a relatively quiet market. Sales totaled 2,530,000 shares, against 2,090,000 Thursday.

Again it was the thinness of the market rather than any news that brought the easiness into the list. The market received very little support as investors stood to the sidelines awaiting new developments in steel negotiations and the money market.

Khrushchev was virtually ignored by the market. There were many glowing predictions about the outlook for 1960, but even these failed to lure investors into trading.

Electronics issues again were the hardest hit in the sell-off. General Time dropped 5, IBM 4⅞ and Litton 3¾, the last ignoring stock split news.

An optimistic outlook for American Motors lifted that stock 1⅛ in an otherwise narrow and mixed auto section. Chrysler and Ford added fractions while General Motors eased.

The prolonged steel strike kept the pressure on steel shares. Carpenter fell 3½; Armco 1⅝, Wheeling and American Steel Foundries 1⅜ each, and U.S. Steel 1¼.

Oils extended Thursday's substantial losses by as much as 1¾ in Seklly, which Thursday ended its merger talks with Tidewater. The latter was off 1⅛.

Rails dropped to a new 1959 low on average paced by a one point decline in Southern Pacific. Western Maryland, not in the averages, fell 1¾.

United Industrial Corp., with the help of a late block of 80,000 shares, was the most active issue on sales of 89,800. It closed up ¾.

Of the total 1,179 issues traded Friday, 971 declined, 229 advanced, and 179 held unchanged. New 1959 lows were made by 169 issues and new highs by two.

Stock values were cut in all major groups Friday as trading tempo increased on the American Exchange.

Oils, electronics and metals all showed widespread losses of moderate portions. A few scattered specialties were the only bright spots.

Vanguard Is Boosted Into Space

ABL Develops 3rd Stage Engine

The third stage rocket engine which boosted the Vanguard III satellite into orbit yesterday was developed at Allegany Ballistics Laboratory at Pinto and the Hercules Young Development Division, Rocky Hill, N. J.

The third-stage engine consists of a double-base solid propellant encased in a plastic shell. The solid propellant was developed at Allegany Ballistics Laboratory and the case was designed and produced by the New Jersey unit.

It is essentially, the same unit used as the third stage of the Thor Able III which launched the National Aeronautics and Space Administration Explorer VI, which remains in orbit.

ABL is a Navy Bureau of Ordnance facility which has been operated by Hercules Powder Company since 1946.

The propellant charge was designed especially to be burned under the vacuum conditions that exist at high altitudes. The combination of its high-performance characteristics with the lightweight case provided the final "kick" that brought the satellite's velocity to the designed level.

The glass filament-reinforced plastic case resulted from 10 years of research and development by Hercules for a material lighter than metal yet just as strong, for use in making solid propellant rocket engines. It constitutes a major structural change in modern rocket design, and permits designers of rocket engines to put greater weight of propellant, or more "push per pound," in the finished rocket engine. This is an especially critical factor in multistage space probes, where each additional pound of dead weight in second and third stages of the vehicle requires hundreds of pounds of additional fuel in the first stage.

Scientists and engineers at ABL yesterday were pleased to learn of the success of their participation in the Navy's Vanguard program. This effort by the laboratory came on the last-scheduled firing in the present series of Vanguard launchings.

John N. Sherman, assistant superintendent of the Rocket Development Department, and William B. Helbert Jr., development engineer, have been at Cape Canaveral since last Saturday assisting in the installation of the ABL third-stage motor.

Sherman, in a phone conversation with ABL officials stated, "Both Mr. Helbert and myself thought, while viewing the Vanguard launching, that it was going skyward with many hours, days and nights of concentrated engineering efforts and hard work by ABL and Hercules, in addition to the other companies involved.

"When we learned that the firing was successful, we felt that the long hours spent preparing the third-stage for its function in the overall program were certainly hours well spent."

N.Y. Eggs And Butter

NEW YORK (AP) — (USDA) — Wholesale egg offerings very short on large and short to ample on mediums and smalls. Demand good. Receipts 11,900.

Nearby Whites: Top quality (48-50 lbs) 51-55; mediums 32-33; smalls 20-21; peewees 14-15.

Browns. Top quality (48-50 lbs) 51-52; mediums 32-33; smalls 21-22; peewees 14-15.

Butter offerings adequate. Demand fair. Receipts 561,000. Prices unchanged.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Grains were mixed and mostly quiet Friday in the last session of the week on the Chicago Board of Trade.

At the final bell, wheat was off ⅛ to up ⅞; corn was off ¼ to up ¼; oats were up 1½; new oats off ⅛ to up ¼; rye was up ⅛ to off ½ and soybeans were off ¾ to 1¼.

The wheat market was steady. September contracts were wanted at 5⅜ cents below the December price. Several commission houses sold September. There was some early commission house buying and later commission house selling. The weather forecast in portions of the winter wheat area was favorable.

Corn was mostly steady. Northwest brokers bought September and the market rallied. Commission houses were sellers. Favorable weather was reported for the corn belt. Most export subsidy bids were rejected.

The oats market was steady with not much trade. Cash houses continued to buy new September. Commission house trade was mixed.

Rye was weak, led by nearby contracts.

Soybeans were heavy, after opening on the easy side. One export house bought on the decline. There was moderate commission house selling. There was little to suggest that rains might interfere with the harvest. Some of the trade expected the new crop movement to expand over the weekend or as the new week progresses.

Meals were easier.

Germany and Denmark were reported to have bought soybeans. The United Arab Republic and Pakistan were said to be in the market for wheat. Trading in September grain futures contracts will end at the close of business Monday. New figures on the amount of grain under price support will be made public by the government early in the week. Outside markets were irregular. The range:

Collectors Should Make Tax Probes, Rowan Says

Allegany County tax collectors who were appointed before the central collection system went into effect this year should be responsible for all investigations into cases involving insolvencies.

This was the opinion of John J. Rowan, president of the Board of Allegany County Commissioners, on the subject concerning a Georges Creek case.

The collector involved was appointed under the previous administration and is paid on the percentage of taxes collected.

These collectors serve until all the taxes are gathered for the years in which they serve, or until those that can't be collected are declared insolvent and the books cleared.

Rowan pointed out that these collectors are bonded, and in his opinion, the county has no legal right to pay for an investigation of any case involving an insolvency.

He pointed out an assessor's report is also considered when the county commissioners grant an insolvency.

Payment for this Georges Creek case investigation by the county would be setting a precedent for other pending tax cases, he added.

The board of commissioners also sent to the State Department of Assessment and Taxation the names of three men who are candidates for the job of assessor in the County Assessment Department.

The job becomes vacant with the retirement of Claude R. Woodard, veteran assessor in that department.

The candidates sent to Albert W. Ward, director of the Department of Assessment and Taxation are Cletus G. Brailer, Mt. Savage; John R. Kelly, 727 Maryland Avenue, and John H. Stiteley, 749 Washington Street.

Hearing Is Set In Sewer Case

Warrants have been served on two property owners who are charged by the city engineer's office with maintaining a nuisance by improper maintenance of a private sewer line on Decatur Street.

Warrants were served yesterday on Byron Kight, 309 Decatur Street, and William A. Spruill, 743 Washington Street, who owns an apartment house adjoining Kight's property. A hearing has been scheduled for 9 a. m. Monday in Police Court.

Spruill previously had been ordered to make repairs to the sewer line, but advised authorities that he was unable to obtain permission from Kight to get onto his property in order to make the repairs.

At a hearing before Trial Magistrate Allan Weatherholt, the city engineer was advised to have a firm make the repairs to the sewer line and then bill the charges to the proper person.

Picketing Continues At Packing Plant

Pickets continued to pace yesterday before the local Swift and Company branch unit here as negotiations between the company and the two AFL-CIO unions continued deadlocked in Chicago.

The line was set up early this week and yesterday was manned by several members of Pittsburgh Local 424, which has bargaining rights here, and a number of women workers from the plant.

The Chicago negotiations are being conducted by the Meat Cutters and the Parking House Workers unions.

A plant spokesman said the union wants to see what the Western plants settle for before negotiating for area contracts and that area units should not be struck.

A local 424 spokesman said the strike here has been authorized and that the Swift settlement offer falls 9½ cents short of the Armour agreement.

About 25 workers are affected here.

Lonaconing School Safety Meeting Set

County Commissioner William A. Wilson said yesterday he will meet with the Mayor and Council of Lonaconing Monday night on the subject of school children's safety on Georges Creek Boulevard.

A complaint was received by the Board of Allegany County Commissioners Tuesday concerning students at Valley High School having to walk on Route 36 to and from school.

Wilson was named to investigate the issue and said yesterday that the problem is also one that must be shared by the Allegany County Board of Education.

The commissioner said he will discuss the 300 feet of Route 36 on which the students walk that is in the corporate limits of Lonaconing.

The remainder of the distance is in the county and the children use the state road for a sidewalk.

Wilson pointed out that the students walk three or four abreast and motorists have to stop for them.

He commented that possibly a school boy patrol system with disciplinary action would be one solution.

Most of the houses abut right on the highway, he explained, and there is no room for a sidewalk.

Another solution is using an alley behind the properties that face on Route 36. This would involve going across land owned by a Frostburg coal concern and would lead from Church Hill to the school.

Board Is Thanked By Two Agencies

Letters of thanks were received from two Allegany County agencies by the Board of Allegany County Commissioners yesterday.

One was from Miss Henrietta Schwarzenbach, president of the Allegany County League for Crippled Children, and was in appreciation of the $1,000 given the league by the county from the public welfare fund.

She pointed out that this contribution gives tremendous support and added encouragement for all those who work with crippled children.

Miss Schwarzenbach reported that the league has an active caseload of 987 children.

Another communication of thanks was from the Allegany County Chapter of the American Cancer Society. Mrs. Regina Cioni, executive secretary, thanked the commissioners for the donation of $600.

Hot Time In The Space Capsule

Now that Project Mercury is fast working up toward the man-in-orbit goal, the candidates for the first trip — somehow "maiden voyage" seems inappropriate — are watching the results of every experimental shot with interest. Interest? That's putting it mildly.

When a fellow crawls into a capsule sometime a year or two from now, he wants to think he can come back safe and sound to earth. It's a safe bet there's not a single would-be colonizer among all those astronauts.

One thing an astronaut wants to know is that he has a good chance of coming back uncooked. So it is worth noting that the temperature inside the space capsule fired recently from Cape Canaveral, Fla., never exceeded 100 degrees Fahrenheit despite an outside temperature that reached a peak of 3,000 degrees.

Anyone can stand 100 degrees for a while. Before air-conditioning was standard equipment for cars crossing the Great American Desert—or for the cars of sheiks of Araby and their harems — men, women and children withstood temperatures somewhat higher with more or less ease.

That being a matter of record, the astronauts can consider that 100-degree warmth in the nose cone that went 100 miles up, and be reassured. After all, those two rocketing monkeys survived, some months ago. A larger capsule seems on the way to offering nothing worse for a man.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Going Capitalist

Installment buying is saving in advance; that is, it is possible to make purchases without possessing the means to make the purchase. It is a distinctly American innovation in the capitalist economy.

Prior to installment buying, the purchaser bought a commodity after he had the money. One of the earliest forms of installment buying was the "Customer Pedlar." He was, in effect, a factor who lent the customer the money to buy a commodity, provided the purchase was made in a particular store. The Customer Pedlar got his from both sides, a commission from the store and interest on the money he lent to the customer.

Installment buying is, in a large measure, responsible for the exaggeratedly high standard of living in the United States. It makes mass production possible because of the enormous purchasing power developed among the people. It is also inflationary.

Installment buying has generally been condemned by Marxists as wasteful and as a weapon of the capitalists to soften the worker into believing that he is better off than he really is. Now, however, "Izvestia," the Soviet government organ, officially announces that Soviet Russia is about to adopt installment buying as a method of increasing the purchasing power of the Russian people. Herewith the text:

" 'Izvestiya' reports that in the near future workers and employees will be able to buy a variety of consumer goods through installment buying. The list of these goods includes phonographs and radio sets of the super, first, and second class; cameras costing from 400 rubles; bicycles, scooters, motorcycles 'M/L/M' and 'K/58'; 'Moskva' boat engines; 'Tula' sewing machines; shotguns costing from 700 rubles; metal wristwatches; and woolen and silk clothing. This list, applicable to the union republics, may be changed and augmented.

"In buying goods on the installment plan, customers will make an initial cash payment of 20 percent of the value of the goods and pay off the rest over 6 and 12 months.

For the convenience of customers and on their written authorization, enterprises and institutions where they are employed will deduct the installments from their salaries. This will result in a considerable saving of time. An interest rate of one to two percent of the cost of the goods is charged for the installment plan facilities."

Two phases of this announcement are interesting. One is the check-off. In the United States the check-off is employed principally to collect labor union dues. It is also used in connection with fringe benefits to which the employer makes contributions. It is rarely employed in connection with installment buying. However, in Soviet Russia the government is the sole employer and the government is the sole shopkeeper. In a word, if a fellow wants to gyp, he can only gyp the government which gives him his job, determines his wages, provides him with permits to use living quarters and sells him everything he buys.

The other factor of exceptional interest is the interest rate which the government charges for its money. Interest is a capitalistic device. In theoretical Marxism, interest is usury. It is adding to the cost of an item, a sum over and above the cost to produce, carry and distribute the item. It is building capital instead of productivity.

In capitalist theory interest is a just compensation for the use of money, provided the rate charged is not usurious. Usury is a term fixed by law.

In a capitalist country, loans for installment buying are made by banks, finance companies and since World War II, in the United States, to a limited degree, by government agencies, particularly to veterans.

In Soviet Russia, it is the government that becomes the lender and charges the interest. It is the government that goes capitalistic and becomes a finance company, charging for the use of money to purchase goods made by workers in government-owned factories.

However, the ownership of the factories or the stores by the Soviet government does not lessen the fact that Soviet Russia is forced to increase its use of capitalist devices. Whereas Red China continues to attempt to operate under classical Marxist theories, Soviet Russia is moving in the direction of a peculiar type of mixed economic system for which there is no name. Soviet Russia might land in a kind of William McKinley capitalism rather than in Leninist Communism.

Labor Leaders Had Hot Debate About Meeting With Khrushchev

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — The public knows that Nikita Khrushchev of Russia is sitting down in the Mark Hopkins Hotel in San Francisco tomorrow to be cross-examined by a group of AFL-CIO leaders. But the public doesn't know what happened behind the scenes before this meeting was arranged.

When James Carey, president of the United Electrical Workers, arrived at Unity House, Pa., for the recent AFL-CIO executive council meeting, he had no sooner stepped inside the door than he was paged. It was Ambassador Menshikov in Washington calling.

"It is important," he said, "that Khrushchev get the views of American Labor leaders. We will agree to such a conference."

Carey went into the dining room, sat down at the most important table, No. 8, called the "captain's table," usually occupied by David Dubinsky, head of the International Ladies Garment Workers which owns Unity House. On this occasion it was occupied by President George Meany and Jay Lovestone, the reformed Communist who is Meany's anti-Communist adviser. Meany didn't look too hospitable as Carey sat down. He had heard him paged by the Russian Ambassador.

"George, I was paged on my arrival here by Ambassador Menshikov," said Carey, "and he has agreed to a meeting between labor and Khrushchev. Khrushchev has a very tight schedule but he will agree to meet with us in San Francisco. I wanted to know what are the wishes of labor."

"Jim," replied Meany, "you delivered the message and you know how I feel."

"That I do," replied Carey.

Jay Lovestone remarked that he would like to tell Khrushchev a thing or two, to his face.

"Do you want me to set up a meeting?" asked Carey.

"Khrushchev would no more meet with Jay Lovestone," replied Lovestone, "than the chief rabbi would eat ham on Yom Kippur."

"I don't think Khrushchev knows of your existence," replied Carey, 'but I'll try to arrange it—with Meany's permission. Suppose we put you both on television and give you 20 minutes and Khrushchev 20 minutes."

"I'll take ten," snapped Lovestone.

Asking For Punishment

Later, at the closed-door AFL-CIO executive council meeting, Meany expressed his blunt disapproval of any labor conference with Khrushchev. Obviously Meany hadn't realized the amazing changes that must have taken place inside Russia when its No. 1 man was not only willing to face a battery of press club questions but sit down with blunt-talking American labor leaders who have taken the lead in opposing Communism. This would never have happened under Stalin, nor under Malenkov, his successor, nor with Foreign Minister Molotov. They did not tolerate debate or disagreement.

However, Deputy Premier Mikoyan had stuck his head in the lion's mouth at a luncheon with Carey, Walter Reuther, Bill Doherty, head of the Letter Carriers, Jack Knight, head of the Oil Workers, and Joe Beirne, head of the Communications Workers. They had heckled and cross-examined him. Despite this, Khrushchev with Ambassador Menshikov's blessing was ready to return for similar punishment. Meany knew all this. However, he exploded at the closed-door executive council meeting.

"If President Eisenhower and the State Department want to welcome this tyrant to the United States that's their business," he said. "But I want no part of it and neither do the great majority of working people we represent."

Meany added that he understood Carey had already arranged a meeting with Khrushchev through the Soviet Embassy.

"What's wrong with some of us meeting with Khrushchev?" shot back Carey, who has waged a bitter battle to purge Communists from labor unions. "It doesn't mean we agree with him or condone Communism. On the contrary, we want to sit down with this man and set him straight on a few things, including how American labor feels about events in Hungary.

"We also want to set him straight on the high living standards and democracy enjoyed by American working people."

Meany countered that the Khrushchev visit would be interpreted as "appeasement" by our NATO allies in Europe.

"I feel the same way about it," Meany added. "If the White House and State Department want to wine and dine this guy with blood on his hands, American labor doesn't have to get into the act."

Reuther Disagrees

Walter Reuther immediately spoke up to say that there was no "appeasement" in talking to Khrushchev "straight from the shoulder in the usual American way."

"This is a golden opportunity for American labor to speak its piece in the cold war," Reuther said. "Khrushchev is a former workingman, and miner. He may not understand the State Department, but we can talk to him in his own language."

"Communications is my business," interrupted Joe Beirne, president of the American Communications Workers. "It is the bread and butter of my union. Everyone says that the way to world peace is through understanding. How are we going to understand this guy if we don't communicate with him? It was the Apostle Paul who said if you're going to convert the heathen you must carry the Gospel to them."

"I agree with that idea 100 per cent," said Doherty, president of the Letter Carriers, "except that it was not Paul who was the first to carry the Lord's message. It was Moses. Saint Paul may have pioneered your union, Joe, but Moses was the first letter carrier. He carried the word of the Lord on slabs of stone down from Mount Sinai."

This was the rough-and-tumble debate held behind closed doors by American labor leaders before some of them arranged to meet the head of the Soviet Union in an equally rough-and-tumble debate in San Francisco.

Hints On The Game Of Khrushchev-Watching

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

On television or in person, a great many people will be watching and listening to Nikita Sergeyvich Khrushchev in the next ten days. Here, then, are some tips of Khrushchev-watching, based on recent experience.

Remember, first of all, that this sport of pastime demands extreme prudence. Bear in mind the broken careers of Molotov and Malenkov, Kaganovich, Shepilov, Bulganin, and how many others, who have been Khrushchev's competitiors for power. Consider Marshal Zhukov, defeated and destroyed.

These men were also Khrushchev-watchers, all but Zhukov, studying Khrushchev's every move and glance with the deadly intensity of rivals; but they were not watchful enough. Remember these men's fates. Then look at Khrushchev on the rostrum, and you begin to suspect how it happened.

The solid, squat, gutta-percha-like figure is not outwardly impressive, despite the careful tailoring. There is nothing majestic or commanding, nothing to intimate the fearful power the man wields. Reading one of his shrewdly prepared speeches, having a little trouble with his old-fashioned steel-rimmed spectacles, stumbling every so often with a difficult word, he looks like any prosperous, hard-working, penny-pinching farmer who has reached the chairmanship of the local school board by the sheer weight of his own toilsome success with his fields.

Better still, look at Khrushchev answering or asking questions, without the spectacles and the prepared manuscript. He is all animation, all vivid gesture, and if the question can be turned to humor, he is marvelously humorous. A great actor would be needed to imitate Khrushchev at the National Press Club, when he pretended to confuse Communist China and America, to suggest that we too had had our Communist revolution, and then to apologize most humbly for his error. At such a moment as this, you can imagine his rivals thinking of him, with easy, perilous complacency, as "Little Nikita, the Kremlin's favorite comic turn."

But wait until there is a question that angers or embarrasses him, about Hungary, for instance, or about his own complicity in Stalin's crimes. Then the heavy jaw juts; the powerful shoulders hunch forward; the little eyes flash daangerously; the pleasant voice grows harsh. And suddenly, if you have been brought up on "Horatius at the Bridge," you find yourself recalling:

"The great wild boar that had its den

"Amidst the reeds of Cosa's fen

"And wasted fields, and slaughtered men

"Along Albania's shore."

No doubt Khrushchev did not allow himself these moments of self-revelation, when it was needful to convince Malenkov and Molotov that he was only "Little Nikita, the Kremlin's favorite comic turn." But now, in the plenitude of his unparalleled power, with his Lunik landed on the moon's face, he can permit himself to be more forthright as a guest of the United States. And in these forthright flashes, you may glimpse the danger and the strength and the dynamism of this strange human animal, this ultimate product of an iron struggle for survival such as most Americans cannot even imagine.

Study, too, the inner meaning of the smooth-worn phrases that he always uses. "The right of all peoples to choose the system they live under" equals, "What happened to Hungary and what is now happening in Laos, unless you others can stop it." And, "Peaceful co-existence" equals "You lie quiet while we do you in." And, "Banishing all threats to peace" equals "Western surrender at Berlin." And so it goes, from start to finish, unless the fog of double-meaninged cliches is accidentally dispelled.

The fog was dispelled in Washington, when Khrushchev was asked whether he had once said of the capitalist world, "We will bury you." There was a trace of the ingratiating old peasant, oiling his way over an indiscretion; there was a momentary sketch from a Turgenev short story, when he sweetly explained that he really did not want to bury us all physically. But there was an amazing ring of confidence and belief and finality in his trumpeted proclamation, "From feudalism, capitalism was born, and capitalism buried feudalism; from capitalism Communism has been born, and I think I know the end."

Thus you know that this is a man who believes, deeply believes, in the system that has produced and aggrandized him. And thus you see how the belief has justified the horrors, and how Nikita Sergeyvich Khrushchev quite surely thinks of himself as a highly moral man.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

TOURISTS GALORE — Eighty million visitors a year seems an astronomical and impossible figure, yet this is what the National Park service estimates the total will be in visitors to the nation's parks by 1966.

The nation's parks and monuments range from the historic sites in Washington and New York and other eastern cities to the vast virgin forest lands and plains of the West.

Several years ago, when the mounting tide of vacationers indicated that increasing millions would visit the nation's parks and monuments in the years ahead, the National Park service embarked on an improvement program to make ready for the stampede.

In the last three years, the National Park service has completed nearly $100 million in improvements, including buildings, roads, exhibit facilities, lodges and camp grounds. The Park service says that when those 80 million come swarming around in 1966, they'll be ready for them.

Homemaking Is More Than A Full-Time Job

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Being a housewife is a full-time job, consisting of companion, cook, housekeeper, wife, mother, hostess, chauffeur, financier, and citizen. Occasionally the woman also is a bread-winner. The job of homemaking deserves more prestige than it receives because home and family are basic to the survival of our western culture.

It is easy to understand why most mothers are dead to the world by the end of the day. Many with young children work 16 hours a day, 7 days a week. They get no vacations and are bogged down with responsibilities. If, in addition, they must care for aged relatives, the situation may become overwhelming.

The problems of homemaking are so complex it takes a stable woman to escape without a few emotional scars. Worries about husband, children, and money are everyday affairs in some households. Fatigue invites nervousness, insomnia, and depression.

Women are not always happy with their lot and feelings of guilt or hostility often stem from incidents of bygone days. But the majority have a built-in safety valve in the form of an active tongue and free flowing tears. They obtain considerable relief by talking things over and ventilating their plans, fears, problems, and hopes.

Others need more practical assistance in the form of leisure time, outside activities, and more social life with husband and friends. A new hat helps temporarily. Recognition from a loving husband goes a long way, especially when he cooperates by altering his work schedule to spend more time at home.

Now and then relief is obtained through the help of assistants to provide more needed breaks in the routine of "mother's never ending day."

PREMATURES

D. A. writes: Is it true that incubator babies usually have an eye defect?
REPLY

No. Several years ago some incubator babies became blind because they received too much oxygen. Giving oxygen to prematures is a life saving procedure. But the tiniest babies, who were born before the eyes had a chance to develop, were the ones whose vision was affected. This no longer occurs.

MILK IS BASIC

H. E. M. writes: Is milk essential in a child's diet?
REPLY

No, but milk contains so many essential nutritive substances, it is difficult to plan a balanced diet without at least a pint a day.

DIZZINESS ON LYING

T. S. writes: Could blood pressure be responsible for getting dizzy when I lie on my back?
REPLY

Possibly, but the commonest cause is a disturbance of the balancing mechanism in the ear.

PARENTS' BLOOD

Mrs. D. writes: Since a baby has only the mother's blood during pregnancy, does the child get any of the father's blood?
REPLY

The baby manufactures his own blood, which comes into close contact with the mother's blood in the placenta. It is here that the youngster receives his nourishment, even though two streams of blood do not mix. The type of blood is determined by a mixture of the chromosomes from the father and mother.

ETHER

J. L. writes: Is ether still used as an anesthetic?
REPLY

Yes, but not as often as it was a decade ago. It is most valuable when deep anesthesia with full relaxation is needed.

OVERSUPPLIED

W. I. writes: If a person has three kidneys must the extra one be removed surgically?
REPLY

No—the more the merrier, so long as the kidneys are healthy.

MEAT AND WEARINESS

W. D. writes: Will eating more meat help overcome fatigue?
REPLY

It might, provided your meat intake is low at present. Why are you fatigued?

THERE ARE TESTS

F. D. writes: How can a woman 39 tell whether she is pregnant or in the change?
REPLY

Via examination and the usual pregnancy tests.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

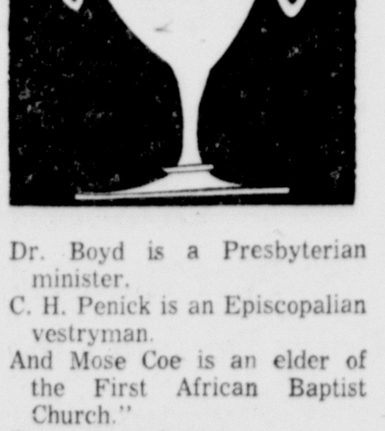
Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Mims Jemison, of Tuscaloosa, Ala., sent me this very heartening story:

"Some years ago, a civic-minded merchant, Dave Rosenau, proposed a cup to the 'most useful Tuscaloosan.' Jim Brierton, wealthy industrialist, promptly proposed Dr. Obediah Dawson for the honor, and his motion was passed unanimously. Dr. Charles Boyd was chosen to preside at the ceremony. Attorney Cliff Penick was named to make the presentation speech, and Mose Coe appointed to ring the church bells summoning folks to the meeting. Now hear this:

Dave Rosenau is a Jew.
J. L. Brierton is a Catholic.
Dr. Dawson is a Baptist preacher.
The building chosen is the Methodist Church.



Dr. Boyd is a Presbyterian minister.
C. H. Penick is an Episcopalian vestryman.
And Mose Coe is an elder of the First African Baptist Church."

Bravo, Tuscaloosa!

Red Trade? Peanuts!

By Leslie Gould

Next to propaganda, the main purpose of Nikita Khrushchev's visit to the U.S. is trade. And that on the cuff. The figure is around $5 billion.

For years Russia has been promising the western world increased trade.

The drive for this has stepped up with the shift under Khrushchev to what he terms "peaceful competition."

There is nothing peaceful about this competition. It is economic warfare. It is just as all out as any phase of the hot and cold wars, that have disrupted the world since the ending of the big war in 1945.

Trade as practiced by the free world is an exchange of goods and services. This trade must be in balance if one or the other countries involved is to remain financially solvent. When trade gets out of balance — a country buys more than it sells—it loses gold.

Russian style trade is different. Under the Russian concept of economics, trade is perverted solely for political action.

Russian trade is designed:

1.—To further world Communism.

2.—To undermine the economies of the capitalistic nations.

3.—To bring under Communist domination the underdeveloped countries.

Soviet trading is state trading. Profit is not a consideration. Prices thus can be strategically determined by the Kremlin bosses in ways not open to competing private enterprises. Also, some of the goods and raw materials are slave labor produced.

When it has suited Moscow's purposes, prices can be — and they have been — fixed under the market.

Moscow can dump goods and disrupt the world markets as it has recently in platinum, tin and aluminum. A typical deal was in Egyptian cotton, which Moscow bought and then, when displeased with Nasser, dumped at 10 per cent below the market.

Russian trade can be largely illusionary — particularly when it comes down to how it is to be paid for.

At the official rate of four rubles to the dollar — which is a fictional value — total Russian trade with the non-Communist world for the latest year is only about $2.2 billion. This is less than 1 per cent of the total of all world trade.

Russia's trade with the outside world is less than that of tiny Denmark and about the same as that of Austria.

Trade between the U. S. and Russia is infinitesimal. It is about half the volume with Haiti.

U. S. imports from Russia are running around $17½ million and exports to Russia about $3½ million. It could be larger if the U. S. were to agree to sell them strategic goods and materials.

Trade never has been larger, even in the early days of the New Deal when the U. S. recognized Moscow. The "bale of hay" for that recognition was to be increased trade. American business then was coming out of a slump.

The trade never developed. From an average annual export of $33 million in American goods in the 1931 to 1935 years, it got to $69½ million in 1938. The war years jumped this — Lend Lease for which the Russians refuse even today to settle on a 30 cents on the dollar basis.

Since the war exports to Russia have been virtually nil and in the Korean War years were nil — only $19,000 in 1953. In the last three years they have come back to around $3½ million, which is less than two hundredths of 1 per cent of our total export business and less than three-quarters of one per cent American sales to Europe.

It is peanuts.

You're Telling Me!

Zadok Dumkopf points out that if Columbus had waited until now to discover America he would have had to sail 18 inches more than he did.

The continents, it seems, have been drifting apart at the rate of one yard every thousand years. No wonder, our friend Kay says, the airlines have been in such a hurry for those faster jet jobs.

The Arawak Indians of the West Indies originated the hammock — Factographs. Probably invented the back porch, too.

An alligator, according to a nature item, lives to the ripe old age of 43. Provided, of course, he has successfully escaped being turned into a snappy handbag or a chic pair of shoes.

Fort Hill and Frederick battled to a 7-7 deadlock last night in the Cumberland Valley Athletic League opener for both schools, before a crowd of approximately 3,000 fans at Frederick.

The Sentinels, defending cochampion of the CVAL with North Hagerstown, tallied first in the gruelling contest, but the Cadets of Coach Jack Molesworth came back in the final period to tie it up and were threatening to move in front when the game ended.

Frank Robinson Tallies

Frank Robinson, flashy Fort Hill halfback who racked up three touchdowns in the Sentinels' 39-6 victory over LaSalle last week, scored the only Fort Hill six-pointer last night when he crashed off tackle from six yards out. This scoring drive began on the 30-yard line in Fort Hill territory.

A penalty gave the Cumberlanders a second crack at the point after touchdown after the first try (from placement) had failed. The infraction against the Cadets advanced the ball from the two to the one-yard line, from where Joe DiNicola, Fort Hill fullback, bulled over for the point.

Marko Knots Score

A sustained drive which commenced on the Frederick 19-yard line was climaxed when Frederick fullback Dave Marko scored on a six-yard plunge. Rich Markey kicked the extra point for the equalizer. The longest gallop in this scoring series was a 26-yard gain by halfback Ken Wilbourne, who personally outrushed the entire Fort Hill backfield (129 yards to 128).

Twice during the earlier stages of the battle, Frederick penetrated deep into Fort Hill territory. In each instance, long runs by Wilbourne sparked the attack, but these threats died when the Cadets lost the ball on downs.

In the closing seconds of play, a pass interception by Frederick's Marko, coupled with a personal foul violation against Fort Hill, placed the ball on the Sentinels' 29. An 11-yard run up the middle gave the Cadets another first down on the 18, but time ran out at this point.

Score by quarters:

Fort Hill	0	0	7	0—7
Frederick	0	0	0	7—7

Scoring: Touchdowns — Robinson, Fort Hill (6-yard run); Marko, Frederick (8-yard run). Points after touchdowns: DiNicola, Fort Hill (plunge); Markey, Frederick (placement).

Senators Whip Baltimore, 5-3

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Bald Bill Fischer, winless since July 16, broke a six-game losing streak Friday night and pitched a five-hitter to give Washington a 5-3 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

The victory was Washington's 62nd of the year, the best showing for the Senators since 1954 when they won 66.

The Senators bounced starter Jerry Walker for four runs on six hits. Jim Lemon hit his 33rd home run off Hal Brown who came in to pitch the eighth. It was Lemon's fifth home run in the last eight games.

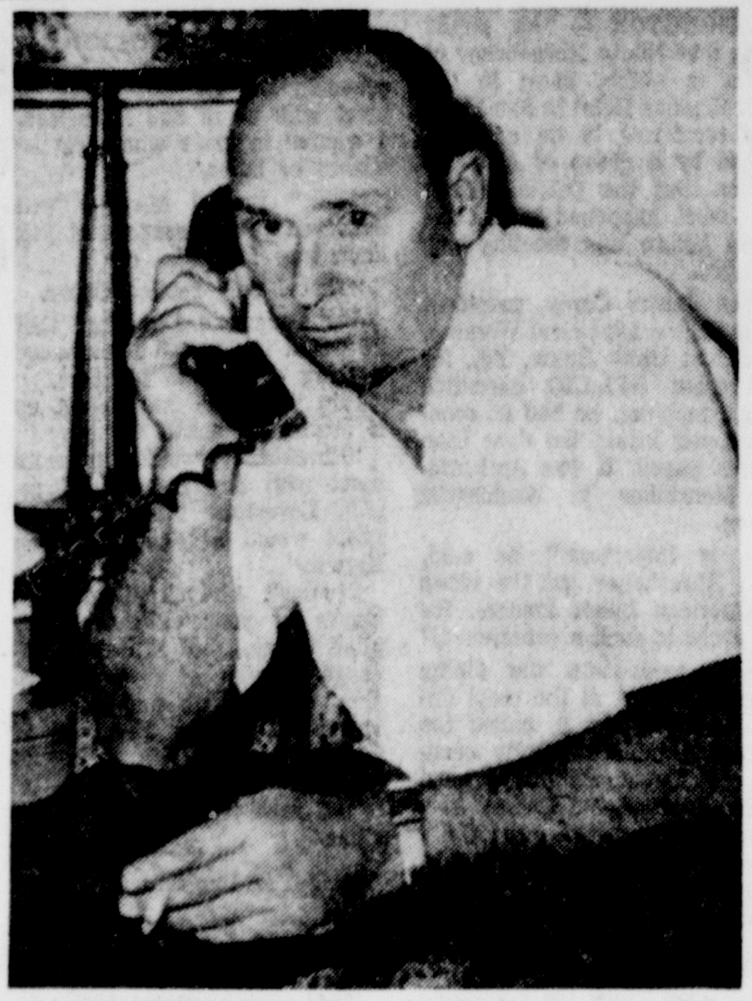
Goetz, Martin Pace Tourney

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — Young Bob Goetz of Tulsa, Okla., carded an eight under par 64 to share the halfway lead in the 72-hole $20,000 El Paso Open Golf Tourney with hometown pro Iverson Martin Friday.

Each had a nine under par 135 for the 36 holes.

Doug Ford of Crystal River, Fla., finished with a 71 to stand one stroke back of the leaders at 136.



TO QUIT CLEVELAND JOB — Joe Gordon, manager of the Cleveland Indians, talks on his hotel room telephone to a reporter yesterday after announcing he is resigning at the end of this season. The resignation followed a blast by Indians' General Manager Frank Lane that he was displeased with the team's showing and that he had four or five men preferred over Gordon. Gordon was a former star second baseman of pennant winning teams at New York and Cleveland. (AP Photofax)

Gordon Removes Himself As Tribe Pilot In 1960

Joe Says Harmony Can't Be Achieved With Frank Lane

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Joe Gordon, apparently in a "win or else" situation and embittered by second guessing by general manager Frank Lane, Friday definitely removed himself as manager of the Cleveland Indians next year.

Gordon said he would finish out the year as manager of the second-place Indians, but would not consider taking the job again next year "under any circumstances."

Gordon said "it is obvious that harmony cannot be achieved between Frank Lane and myself."

Refers To Feud

He referred to a simmering feud between the two that broke wide open in the closing weeks of this year's close pennant race between the Indians and the leading Chicago White Sox.

Gordon, the former dazzling second baseman who was on four Yankee pennant winners and once for Cleveland, made his announcement in a prepared statement four hours before Friday night's game with the Kansas City Athletics.

The Indians were 5½ games behind with 8 to play and the "magic number" of the White Sox wins and Cleveland defeats to give the flag to Chicago was down to three.

Gordon did not actually resign Friday for he had only a one-year contract. He only removed himself from consideration for the job next season and that may not have been necessary.

Leo May Get Job

It was authoritatively reported that Lane would hire Leo Durocher, the former Dodger and Giant manager who only Thursday resigned a lucrative television job, to manage the Indians in 1960.

Gordon came to Cleveland as manager early last season to replace Bobby Bragan who was fired by Lane.

Lane said recently that Gordon thought he had become a genius and would not accept any advice. Lane said he thought Gordon did a better job as a manager last season.

Perhaps the most stinging and obvious barb in the rift between Lane and Gordon came earlier this week when Lane publicly criticized him for not calling a bunt during a situation in a 1-0 loss to Boston.

Earlier this season it was known that Lane was unhappy over the benching of Billy Martin and Jimmy Piersall.

Lollar Homer Gives Chisox 1-0 Triumph

Bob Shaw Victor Over Jim Bunning

CHICAGO (UPI)—Sherm Lollar, "old reliable" of the pennant-bound Chicago White Sox, belted a home run in the fifth inning Friday night to decide a pitching duel between righthander Bob Shaw and Jim Bunning and give Chicago a 1-0 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

The win was the 35th one-run decision for the White Sox in their march to their first American League pennant since 1919. It was Shaw's 17th victory of the season against six losses, but the young star of the Chicago pitching staff needed a game-saving catch by Jim Rivera, who went to the rightfield wall and robbed Gail Harris of a home run in the ninth inning.

Lollar, leading long ball hitter of the White Sox, smashed the second pitch off Bunning in the fifth inning into the second row of the leftfield stands. It was his 21st of the year and it marked the eighth time his homers proved to be the winning run for the White Sox.

But Lollar's blow was all that Shaw needed. The 26 - year - old righthander from Garden City, N.Y., gave up five hits and permitted only one runner past second base. This came in the ninth when he walked Harvey Kuenn, and Charley Maxwell lined a single to rightfield, sending Kuenn to third base. But he worked the count to 2-2 on Frank Bolling and got the Tiger second baseman to bounce into a forceout at second base and end the game.

It was the first victory for the White Sox against Bunning in three decisions this season and the first win for Shaw over the Tigers.

Red Sox Trim Yankees, 6-4

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Boston Red Sox scored five runs in the first inning but then had to choke a ninth-inning rally Friday night to beat the New York Yankees, 6-4.

The Yankees, held to four singles during the first eight innings by Frank Baumann, scored four runs in the ninth and had the bases loaded with two out when Bobby Richardson fouled out to end the game.

Explorers Beaten By St. Francis

Ron DeCarlo Leads Trojans To Third Win At Morgantown

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. — St. Francis High School's Trojans rolled to their third straight victory here last night when they downed the Explorers of LaSalle High School of Cumberland by the score of 18-13.

It was the Trojans' fourth victory over the Marylanders in five meetings. Their 1940 game was a scoreless tie.

Ron DeCarlo, St. Francis left halfback, who is touted as a candidate for All-State honors, accounted for all of his team's scores. DeCarlo smashed over from the two-yard line for the initial tally in the first period, snared Joe Wiltsey's pass for the second six-pointer in the second quarter and slashed off tackle for 10 yards and the final score in the third stanza.

LaSalle's scores came on long passes thrown by quarterback Carroll Wilt. Tom O'Rouke scored on a pass play that covered 40 yards and Tom Simpson snared an aerial for a 40 yard gain and the final Explorer six-pointer. Fullback Allen Lueck kicked LaSalle's only extra point.

Coach Sam Barberio's undefeated Trojans whipped Lumberport, 19-6, and Mountaineer High of Thomas, 20-6 in their first two outings. LaSalle suffered its second straight loss of the campaign, having dropped a 39-6 decision to Fort Hill in the season opener.

Touch Grid League To Meet Wednesday

There will be a meeting Wednesday night at 7 o'clock at the City Hall to organize the Adult Touch Football League. All persons interested in entering a team are urged to attend this meeting, so that the league can be organized and play started as soon as possible.

The League was re-organized last year after a lapse of several years. Twelve teams participated last season with six teams in each division. Each team played six games.

The league will operate very similar to last year with an approximate entry fee of $10.00. All games were played on Sunday afternoon last year.

All operational plans will be discussed at the Wednesday meeting.

Wind Ensemble Concert Tonight

The Allegany County Youth Wind Ensemble has completed plans for its fall concert to be presented at 8 o'clock tonight in the Allegany High School auditorium under the direction of Dr. Frank E. Gamble, supervisor of music education in the public schools.

Some 14 older musicians will augment the 36 youngsters of junior high school for tonight's performance. No admission will be charged.

West Virginia School for the Deaf launched its 1959 football campaign with a 13-6 victory over Southern High School of Oakland, Md., in a Potomac Valley Conference game yesterday at Romney and extended its three-season winning streak to eleven games.

Coach Donald Bullock's Lions have won eleven in a row since a scoreless tie with Harpers Ferry late in the 1957 season. Last season the West Virginia School for the Deaf posted an 8-0 record and was the only undefeated and untied high school eleven in the tri-state area.

Larry Jones, of Dunbar, scored the Lions' initial touchdown in the opening quarter on a 47-yard run. Freeman Saylor of Dunbar plunged the point.

After Saylor's 35-yard touchdown run gave the WVSD eleven a 13- lead, the Highlanders hit paydirt before the first period ended when Keith Butler drove over from the six three plays after Bolyard intercepted a pass and returned it 42 yards to the 17.

Alexander Rubiano of New York, graduate of Gallaudet College, Washington, D.C., is the new assistant coach at West Virginia School. He replaces William Swaim, who goes to the Maryland School for the Deaf at Frederick as head basketball coach. Swaim had served on the coaching staff at the Romney school for three years.

Tony Anthony Cops Decision

Johnson Is Loser In Baltimore Bout

BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI) — Light - heavyweight contender Tony Anthony finished the stronger Friday night to win an upset unanimous 10-round decision over heavyweight contender Alonzo Johnson in their TV fight at the Baltimore Coliseum.

It was a timely victory for slender Anthony of New York who has just invaded the heavyweight division and is starting a campaign for a shot at Ingemar Johansson's title.

Johnson, ranked eighth among heavyweight contenders by the NBA, weighed 189 pounds to 184 for Anthony, rated fourth among light-heavy aspirants by the NBA.

It was a zig-zag fight until the seventh round, when Anthony staggered the Braddock, Pa., contender with a straight right and a left hook to the head, and slowed him down.

There were no knockdowns. Anthony slipped to the canvas in the first session when he crossed his feet while evading a body punch. Johnson slipped down in the third round.

But Johnson was favored at 7-5 because he had lost only two previous bouts in his 19 starts. It was Anthony's 40th victory in 48 bouts.

The three ring officials, scoring on the five-point-must system, favored Anthony unanimously as follows: Rederee Eddie Leonard, 46-45; Judge Benny Goldstein, 46-44, and Judge Tom Kelly, 48-43. The United Press International agreed, 46-44.

Coach Eddie Hartman's Romney High School Pioneers handed the Franklin High Panthers their second straight shutout of the season yesterday in a P.V.C. contest at Romney. The score was 6-0.

With six minutes remaining in the final quarter A. D. Hott, Pioneer's quarterback, scored from the three-yard line to break a scoreless deadlock. John Blue's kick for the point was low.

Franklin muffed an opportunity to score in the second period due to a fumble in the end zone which Romney recovered. With 29 yards to go, a pass advanced the Panthers to the 12. With a foot to go, the ball carrier fumbled to end the visitors' scoring threat.

Romney piled up a total of 196 yards on the ground and through the air in posting its second P.V.C. victory. The Pioneers beat Berkeley Springs, 34-0, and lost a non-league game to Charles Town, 26-9. Franklin dropped its opener to Green Bank, 35-0.

Phil Jenkins and Mrs. R. W. Trevaskis tied Dr. Frank T. Cawley and Mrs. Charles Helmrich for first place in the Mixed Scotch Foursome Tournament yesterday at the Cumberland Country Club, each team posting net scores of 34.

L. W. Brown and Mrs. Morgan C. Harris tied Dr. W. R. Hodges and Mrs. George Griffith for third place with net 35s.

Three combinations were tied for the lowest number of putts—15. They were Judge Morgan C. Harris and Mrs. L. W. Brown, Jack Moberly and Mrs. William Carscaden and William Carscaden and Mrs. Lester Deneen.

Dr. Frank Leger and Mrs. Jack Moberly had the most putts—a total of 19.

Twenty-eight members participated in the tourney.

LSU To Play Rice In Top Game Today

Tarheels To Meet Clemson; Boston To Battle Navy

By JACK CLARY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The menu for the 1959 college football season was made up long ago. The first course was served Friday with some delicacies to tempt any gridiron fan for the main course which begins next weekend.

This is the weekend when the football fan can get a good glimpse of the new "wild card" player instituted by the rule makers last winter, and also the lengthened crossbar of the goal post to 23 feet, 4 inches.

He also can catch an eyeful of 1958 national champion Louisiana State, picked to succeed itself this year in the pre-season Associated Press poll.

Tigers Play Rice

The Tigers take on Rice Saturday in the first national television game at 4 p.m. (EST) over NBC.

The Athletic Assn. of Western Universities, more succinctly known as the Far West Five, began operations but face their former partners in the old Pacific Coast Conference.

The Rice-LSU game in Baton Rouge, La. is rivaled for attention only by Atlantic Coast Conference champion Clemson's invasion of North Carolina, where the 1959 ACC title could be decided. A bowl bid could also hang in the balance here.

The Tar Heels were picked No. 12 in the pre-season rankings, Clemson No. 18.

The only other team in the top ten to see action is No. 8 Mississippi, runnerup to LSU for Southeastern Conference honors last year. Ole Miss travels to Houston for a night game against Hal Lahar's Houston Tigers.

Two Night Games

Southern California, ranked 14th and a member of the Far West Five, brings its mammoth line to Oregon State for a night game, while 13th rated Texas Christian hosts Big Eight member Kansas, also at night.

Texas, picked No. 17, is at Nebraska in another top intersectional clash.

In the East, Navy, under new Coach Wayne Hardin and minus center and Capt. Jim Dunn because of injuries, plays Boston College in the only big game.

The South has West Virginia traveling to Maryland where the Terrapins' new coach Tom Nugent unveils his "I" formation. Georgia Tech is at Kentucky in an SEC night game and Alabama is at Georgia in the daylight.

Duke goes to South Carolina for an ACC night game. Southern Conference stalwart Virginia Tech plays ACC member North Carolina State in a night game at Norfolk, Va.

Eastern independents Pitt and Penn State travel to the Mideast to meet Marquette and Big Eight member Missouri, respectively.

Sparked by the versatile Gary Keedy, who scored three of his team's touchdowns, Keyser High School's Golden Tornado spoiled the debut of Beall High School as a member of the Potomac Valley Conference by walloping the Marylanders yesterday at Stayman Field, Keyser, by the score of 38-0.

It was Keyser's opening game of the season after cancellation by Charles Town and Parsons and the victory was the 26th straight in P.V.C. competition since the 1953 season. Beall was shut out for the second straight time. The Mountaineers lost their opener to Allegany by the score of 20-0.

Keedy, Keyser's track, basketball, baseball and grid star, scored the game's first touchdown in the opening quarter on a 10-yard ramble. Robert Shaw kicked the point to make the score 7-0.

In the second period Keedy sprinted 20 yards for Keyser's second score and tallied the third on a 60-yard punt return. He also passed to Fred Clark, son of head coach "Tack" Clark, for an extra point. Ronnie Shaffer intercepted a pass and dashed five yards for another Keyser td to give the P.V.C. co-champions of 1958 a 26-0 advantage at the halfway point.

Floyd Wilt ran 10 yards for Keyser's fifth touchdown in the third period and later in the same quarter Jim Miers passed 10 yards to "Bud" Smith for the final six-pointer.

Beverly Hanson Leads Tourney

Louise Suggs' 144 Trails By Stroke

ATLANTA (AP)—Slender Beverly Hanson shot steady golf Friday and staved off a strong bid by Louise Suggs for the midway laad in the $7,500 Atlanta Women's Open.

Miss Hanson, former journalism student from Indio, Calif., fired a 72, one over par, for a 36-hole total of 143. Miss Suggs, of Sea Island, Ga., scrambled to a one under par 70 — best round of the tournament so far — for 144.

Kathy Cornelius of Lakeland, Fla., tied with Miss Hanson for the lead after the first round, slipped to third place with a 74 and 145.

Par for the 6,265-yard Continental Colony Club course is 35-36—71.

Danny Murtaugh Praised By Brown

PITTSBURGH (AP) — General Manager Joe L. Brown of the Pittsburgh Pirates Friday termed ridiculous reports that Danny Murtaugh may be on his way out as manager. "With the team we had and the inujries and everything else," Brown told The Associated Press, "Murtaugh's done one helluva job."

Giants Will Battle Forty Niners Today

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—The San Francisco 49ers and the New York Giants clash here Saturday night in an exhibition game that shapes up as the offensive power of the 49ers against the rugged defense of the Giants.

The two clubs meet in the final tuneup game of the season before starting league play. The game, third postwar professional football contest to be played in Salt Lake City, officially opens the 1959 football season here.

Hemmis To Seek Canadian Cycle Hill Climb Crown

Ontario Test Set Oct. 11; Joe Sweeps Rochester Events

Joe Hemmis

Joseph W. Hemmis, national professional motorcycle hill climbing champion for the 1959 season and also the nation's high point scorer this year, will compete in the Canadian championships to be held in the province of Ontario, Sunday, Oct. 11.

Winner of the United States crown at Muskegon, Mich., in August, Hemmis has been competing in hill climbs since 1947 and this will be his first appearance in Canada.

Before he goes there, however, Joe will participate in two more hill climbing tests in this country — York, Pa., Sept. 27 and Dayton, Ohio, Oct. 6.

Last Sunday, Cumberland's slant riding ace, piloting his English Triumph, made a sweep of two professional events at Rochester, N.Y. He reeled off his eleventh and twelfth consecutive victories and upped his 1958-59 season first places to 28 in 33 tries.

Hammis has finished out of the money only once this year. Cash awards go to riders finishing first, second, third and fourth in each event.

Here is the order in which the riders finished in the pro events at Rochester:

FIRST EVENT:

1. J. W. Hemmis, Cumberland, 7.30 seconds.
2. Charles Jacobs, Bangor, Pa., 7.87.
3. Howard Mitzel, York, Pa., 8.82.
4. Jake Nealen, Bedford, Ohio, 8.84.

SECOND EVENT:

1. J. W. Hemmis, 7.59 seconds.
2. Charles Jacobs, 8.50.
3. Howard Mitzel, 8.95.
4. Kenneth Hatton, Canada, 10.46.

Milwaukee Protest Denied By Giles

LOS ANGELES (AP) — President Warren C. Giles of the National League Friday formally denied a protest by Milwaukee in its losing game to the Los Angeles Dodgers Sept. 15.

The protest was based on a ball that Joe Adcock hit that lodged in the notorious left field screen. Manager Fred Haney and General Manager Joh McHale of the Braves claimed the ball sailed and stuck beyond the screen and should have been called a home run instead of a ground-rules two base hit.

Milwaukee would have won the game in nine innings, 7 - 6. The Dodgers went on to win in 10 innings, 8-7.

Motorcyclist Fatally Hurt

BALTIMORE (AP)—A 28-year-old motorcyclist was fatally injured Friday in a collision with a dump truck east of the city's downtown section.

Gene McKinney, of Baltimore, died at Mercy Hospital after doctors revived him by massaging his heart. On the way to the hospital the ambulance was involved in a minor accident when a side door flew open and struck a parked car.

Police said McKinney was making a left turn at an intersection when he was involved in a collision with the truck driven by Frank Kelly, 33, a Negro, of Baltimore.

One of the week's best baseball anecdotes came from Al Lopez, White Sox manager, who had alerted base runner Jim Rivera (then on third) that a squeeze bunt was coming. . . the bunt was executed but Rivera failed to dash for the plate. . . "I caught the sign, all right," Rivera confessed later. "I just forgot to run."

The Pittsburgh Pirates have won 18 extra inning games this season, 10 of them in the 10th inning. . . which, in part, accounts for the way Elroy Face piled up those 17 straight victories in relief.

You can bet the ponies legally in the east clear up to December 15. . . . it's legal, that is, if you travel to Baltimore where Pimlico runs from Nov. 13 to 10 days before Christmas.

Terps Make Debut Under Tom Nugent

West Virginia Foe In Opener Today

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Football uniforms will be about all West Virginia and Maryland have in common when they clash here Saturday. And those will be different colors.

The game at Byrd Stadium is the opener for both squads but there the similarity ends.

Maryland Coach Tom Nugent will be making his maiden voyage for the Terps, having replaced Tommy Mont after several years at Florida State.

West Virginia Coach Art (Pappy) Lewis has been at Morgantown so long (10 years) he's part of the landscape.

The Terrapins are sure to uncork some Fancy Dan razzle-dazzle, including the "I" formation that Nugent has used before.

The Mountaineers probably will play their usual brand of split-T football that is orthodox by comparison.

Terps Outweighed

It also will be the big ones against the little ones. West Virginia is famous for its beefy lines and though Lewis has been moaning that his mountain boys are small this season they'll still outweigh Maryland about five pounds per man in the backfield and 10 pounds up front.

And then there are the coaches themselves.

Nugent has been gabbing all week about what he plans to do and what he can expect come Saturday. The taciturn, bushy-browed Lewis has been his usual closed-mouth self and West Virginia even practiced behind closed doors.

Both schools are trying to make a comeback from a losing season. Maryland was 4-6 last year and the Southern Conference champs were 4-5-1.

West Virginia flew into Washington Friday and worked out briefly at College Park before returning to Washington to spend the night. Maryland also had a last-minute, light tuneup.

Game Is Tossup

The game is pretty much a toss up and both coaches know it.

"We're going into this game even, I would say," said Nugent. "We can win, and I think we will win."

"A lot depends on how we do in our opener against Maryland," said Lewis. "We have a bunch of young sophomores on our squad and a victory in the opener would give them a lot of confidence."

Game time is 1:30 p.m. (EDT).

Twelve To Vie In Futurity At Aqueduct Today

NEW YORK (UPI)—The 70th running of the $75,000 added Futurity Stakes drew a field of 12 starters Friday for its first running Saturday at Aqueduct and its first round a turn since 1915.

The time - honored classic for two-year-olds formerly was contested on the now-eliminated Widener course at Belmont Park and the new $33,000,000 Aqueduct Track has no six and one-half furlong straightaway.

The wonders of the track will be viewed for the first time by racing television fans throughout the country, for CBS will televise the Futurity from 4:30 to 5 p.m. e.d.t.

The young horses entered are Encanto, Penowa Rullah, Count Amber, Weatherwise, the entry of Pleasant Prairie and Greek Page, Persian Spy, Winonly, All Hands, Udaipur, Catapult and Hallursan. All carry 122 pounds.

Cubs Top Phils In 13th Frame

Irv Noren's Blow Decides Game, 5-4

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago Cubs blended a 13th inning walk with George Anderson's error and Irv Noren's single and defeated the Philadelphia Phillies 5-4 Friday.

A paid crowd of 971 saw Tony Taylor draw the leadoff walk in the 13th inning before Anderson muffed what looked like a double play grounder off the bat of George Altman.

Then Noren singled to right giving outfielder-turned-pitcher Bob Bowman his first loss. Dave Hillman, fourth Chicago pitcher, picked up his seventh win. He has lost 11.

All the Phillies' runs resulted from a pair of homers. Gene Freese stroked his 21st with one out in the second. Wally Post pounded his 21st off starter Art Ceccarelli in the sixth after Solly Drake bunted for a single and shortstop Joe Koppe singled to center.

The game ended play this season between the two teams, the Phillies winning the series 12-10.

Braves Host Moorefield

League Teams Will End Series Sunday

Pennant winning teams of the Mountain State Baseball League and the Twilight Baseball League windup their home-and-home series Sunday when the Moorefield All-Stars tackle the Barton Braves in Barton at 2:30 p.m., EDT.

Moorefield won the opening game of the series on its home field last Sunday with Gordon Raines gaining an 8-1 decision over Lou Fazenbaker. Barton collected 11 hits in this game but stranded 14 on the hassocks. The Mountain State League team racked up a total of 12 hits.

Tomorrow will be observed as "Frieda Thomas Day" at Barton and the Moscow resident who has done so much for the Barton baseball cause will be presented gifts before the game gets under way.

Barrelville And Hyndman Will Open Series Sunday

Old Exports Seek 18th Straight Win In Playoff Opener

Hyndman's Merchants and the Barrelville Old Exports will tangle at Barrelville Sunday at 2:30 p.m., in the opening game of a best-of-three series for the playoff crown in the Pen-Mar Baseball League.

For the past two seasons Hyndman has won the pennant and Barrelville emerged the winner of the post-season playoffs. This year Barrelville bagged the pennant with a 25-3 record, and finished 6½ games in front of Hyndman which won 18 games and lost nine.

Manager Raymond "Buck" Fiorita's club has made a sweep of the regular season and playoff title three times in previous years—1956, 1954 and 1949—and is hopeful of turning the trick for the fourth time.

Win 17 Straight

Barrelville takes a 17-game winning streak into tomorrow's game and Bobby Raines, the ace of the Old Exports' pitching staff (14-1) has racked up 13 consecutive victories since his lone defeat on May 10 when he dropped a 6-5 decision to Robert "Abe" See at Hyndman. Raines later decisioned Stan Corley at Barrelville, 5-4. Barrelville scored two other wins over Hyndman, Bobby Dawson beating See, 8-3, at Barrelville, while Jesse Markley won over Von Lehman in Hyndman, 4-3. The fact that three of the games were one-run decisions is an indication these teams are evenly matched.

The Old Exports' last loss came on June 14 at the hands of Salisbury, 2-1. Barrelville's third loss of the season also was by the margin of one run and that was an 8-7 setback dealt out by Salisbury.

If Raines doesn't pitch tomorrow's opener for the Old Exports Bobby Dawson (8-1) or Jesse Markley (5-1) will be on the firing line for the pennant winners.

Bob See (9-4), Vohn Lehman (3-1), Stan Corley (4-2) and Jim Leydig (3-2) are the Hyndman pitchers.

Both Made Sweep

Barrelville reached the playoff finals by whipping Mt. Savage, 2-1 and 5-4. Hyndman disposed of Centerville's Reds in two straight, 1-0 and 4-2.

IN U. S. SCHOOL—Sister of Ingemar Johansson, the world's heavyweight champ, Eva Johansson now is enrolled in a private school at Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Coach George Hott's Moorefield Yellow Jackets registered their second straight victory of the season in the Potomac Valley Conference by whipping the Petersburg High Vikings yesterday in Moorefield by the score of 20 to 7.

Moorefield packed its scoring punch into the first half while Petersburg, making its conference debut under new coach Wayne Barr averted a shutout by scoring in the final period.

Billy Sherman scored the Jackets' first touchdown in the opening period on a 35-yard gallop. He also kicked the extra point.

In the second period Sherman tallied from four yards out and Bill Toohey flipped a 22-yard pass to Marlin Evans for the Hardy Countians' final six-pointer. Sherman converted on a placement kick.

Quarterback Jack Boor smashed over from the three for the Vikings' TD in the final stanza and Eddie Nelson placekicked the point.

Petersburg opened the season last week with a 7-6 win over Terra Alta. Moorefield downed Southern of Oakland in a PVC contest, 25-7.

Jack Nicklaus Will Play Coe

National Amateur Golf Final Today

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—Charlie Coe, a great golf competitor over a dozen or more years, and 19-year-old Jack Nicklaus Friday took opposite routes into the finals of the U.S. Amatuer Golf championship.

Coe, a skinny Oklahoman who has won the championship each time he has reached the final, trounced Dudley Wysong, a 20-year-old collegian from McKinney, Tex., 6 and 4.

Nicklaus, who temporarily left college this spring to play on the U.S. Walker Cup team, had to go to the last green to defeat 46-year-old Gene Andrews of Whittier, Calif.

They will meet Saturday in the 36-hole final over the picturesque 7,010-yard Broadmoor course nestled at the base of the Rockies.

Jim Tatum Leaves $167,000 Estate

HILLSBORO, N.C. (UPI)—University of North Carolina football Coach Jim Tatum left an estate of about $167,000 when he died this summer, according to a preliminary inventory released Friday.

The bulk of assets listed in the inventory were assigned to a trust fund for his widow and three young children.

Tatum died in Chapel Hill July 23 of the effects of a "massive virus" attack.

WINNING RECORD

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Coach Paul Brown of the Cleveland Browns started the 1959 National Football League season with a record of 267 victories, 55 losses and 11 ties on all levels of the sport from high school to professional competition.

Ray Hewett's point-after-touchdown was the margin of victory yesterday as Berkeley Springs High School eked out a 7-6 decision over Ridgeley High School's Blackhawks in a Potomac Valley Conference game at Berkeley Springs.

The win was the first in three outings for Coach Allen Goldstrom's Indians. Ridgeley suffered its first defeat after opening last week with a 26-0 victory over Circleville.

Hewett scored Berkeley's touchdown and extra point in the opening period. Berkeley blocked Kenny Phillips' punt and Hewett recovered. Several plays later the Indians' fullback went over from the two-yard mark. Then he ran the extra point to give his team a 7-0 lead.

Ridgeley drove 60 yards for its lone touchdown in the third quarter, with Frank Lambert carrying on the final play from the one yard line. Ridgeley's kick for the point, however, was blocked.

Berkeley Springs had lost to Romney 34-0 and Hancock 8-6 prior to yesterday's game.

Giants, Dodgers Game Rained Out, Play Pair Today

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Friday night's crucial game between the league leading San Francisco Giants and second place Los Angeles Dodgers was postponed because of rain and wet grounds.

A club spokesman for the Giants said that the teams will play a day-night doubleheader Saturday. It will be the first twin bill of the year at Seals Stadium, where the Giants have not been washed out since May 14 of last year. That one also involved a game with the Dodgers.

San Francisco played 74 home dates this year without a postponement.

Giant secretary Eddie Brannick said the Giants and Dodgers would play one game at 4:30 p.m., e.d.t. and another at 11:15 p.m.

Overexposure For Mr. Khrushchev

Everyone's giving Khrushchev advice. Advice about our way of life, our freedom, our supermarkets, warnings about our determination, our unity, our banquet food. I'd just like to insert my two cents worth of advice and warning. Overexposure, Mr. Khrushchev. It killed Milton Berle. It can murder you, too. If there's anyone who can wear out his welcome faster than a comedian, it is a sinister comedian.

Mr. Khrushchev may be overexposed by the time this gets into print. He opened on three networks and within an hour, a single joke had been worn threadbare. (If the Soviets can get to the moon only a minute or so off schedule, why are they an hour late getting here? There were many variants.) Of course, it wasn't Mr. Khrushchev's joke but he'll get blamed for it anyhow. (In our country, Mr. K., we never blame the writers. The comedian takes full responsibility—but on the other hand, it is he who makes all the money and who sells the story of his miserable childhood to "Look" magazine, too. That's the American way.)

David Brinkley, of NBC, declared that, while Khrushchev had expressed the wish to see our people at work and play, he was likely to see instead just the inside of a lot of limousines as he went from banquet to banquet of chicken and peas. This is a very trenchant observation but also, I'm afraid, it is a critique of televised or electronic journalism.

Many years ago George Bernard Shaw complained that our movies seemed to be only a succession of shots of people getting in and out of automobiles. Well, as I look back over the years of great events covered by television, I see again and again the image of a car passing up through cheering throngs bearing the newly-elected President up Pennsylvania Avenue, or taking Queen Elizabeth to lay a wreath some place, or transporting de Gaulle to the Arch of Triumph. If Khrushchev is going to see the inside of a lot of limousines, we, the viewers, are going to see the outside of a lot of limousines—and both of us will be the poorer.

Still, television does some things better than anything else. The small touch that eludes or is lost to the reporter, for example. The little Russian girl who gave Khrushchev a bouquet of roses and was rewarded with a big hug from Mr. K., probably did more good for Russian relations with this child-struck country than any number of moonshots. Similarly, Mrs. Khrushchev's homey walk up the steps of Blair House won the sympathy of millions of American women whose behinds are not quite that spacious.

I feel strongly that these little glimpses — Khrushchev's handshake, for example, which goes on longer and more violently than the one we're used to from touring dignitaries—are useful in that overworked phrase "international understanding." The commentary on all three networks was cautious and full of small details about the airplane that brought Khrushchev and company (200 tons, loaded), the countryside through which he travelled (middle class ranch homes), the food he was to eat (lobster, chicken).

Khrushchev, Brinkley pointed out, had originally said our sons would live under Socialism and later modified it to say our grandsons would. "So some progress has been made," he added wryly. "We've already saved a whole generation."

Everyone vied to describe the crowd as undemonstrative but correct, police but unenthusiastic, large but impassive, and so on. All the networks were generous in cancelling shows both in the afternoon and during the evening when the day's events were summed up. NBC added a new wrinkle by having cartoons. One of the first cartoons showed a little Khrushchev looking up at the huge Lincoln Memorial statue of the Great Emancipator who is saying: "When are you going to free yours?" I winced at the time but I can't think why. That cartoon would certainly not be noticed in a newspaper. I guess I'm just not used to seeing cartoons on television.

The wonders of tape scrambled time on the evening shows rather confusingly. One show jumped from a taped sunlight to live evening blackness and then back to full sunlight all in the space of half an hour. As the world shrinks, so shrinks the day.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — There's one thing sure — Audrey Hepburn will star in "Roman Candle" for Willy Wyler. "Roman Holiday" which brought Audrey tremendous success and an Academy Award, was directed by Wyler, whose stock is higher than it's ever been since "Ben Hur."

Wyler is in New York and Audrey will talk to him when she and Mel (Ferrer) reach there Sunday. Audrey has been waiting for Paramount to give her an assignment since it's definite she will not do the Alfred Hitchcock movie, "No Bail For The Judge." She says she has enormous respect for Hitchcock, but she does not think the part is right for her.

One thing we must bear in mind Sunday is that the luncheon at 20th Century-Fox studio for Chairman Khrushchev was requested by our State Department, and is in no way a motion picture industry endorsement of him or his ideology.

We must remember that Khrushchev is being given a luncheon by our industry because our government requested that he meet a limited number of motion picture leaders, and that he be given a chance to see how our motion pictures are made. This probably is important too, because of the cultural exchange now in existence between the two countries.

It is also important that we be courteous because our own President soon goes to Russia and the Soviet treatment of him could very well be a reflection of our treatment of the rotund chairman of the Russians. Our own personal feelings do not enter into this, and should not. No one could hate what the Communists stand for, or what they have done to some of the satellite countries more than I do. Yet if anything can stop war and the useless slaughter of helpless people, it's worth a trial.

Well, Marilyn Monroe is only a day late. She arrives in town tonight and will spend Sunday discussing "The Billionaire" and several other properties with Buddy Adler at 20th Century-Fox.

I don't know whether she will be at the Khrushchev luncheon Sunday, but I doubt it, since she'll only be in Hollywood for a few days. She hasn't been here since she made "Some Like It Hot," which will bring her in a fortune. She was expecting a baby at that time and was feeling miserable.

Just as I told you, Eva Marie Saint gets the role of Kitty in "Exodus." The deal was closed today and Eva Marie takes off in time to report in February to Otto Preminger in Israel. This will be the second time she'll work with Paul Newman. They were together in "Our Town" on television. Joanne Woodward goes with Paul, and she is learning Hebrew.

Now, if Hal Wallis wants Eva Marie for "Summer And Smoke," he'll have to get the picture started way before January when she leaves for Israel.

Proud grandpa Shirley Burden called to tell me that his daughter, Muff (Mrs. Daniel Childs), had just welcomed a 7 lb. daughter — "And she's 19½ inches long," he said. "She has pink hair, and her name is Constance Crimmons Childs."

Muff, whose mother is the former Flobelle Fairbanks, was always one of my favorite young friends. In four years Muff has had four children and her family means more to her than anything in the world. Flo is with her daughter in the East, and Shirley and their son Carter leave Sunday for Cambridge where Carter enters his first year at Harvard.

Famous clown Emmett Kelly has always talked a bit sadly about the thought that his clown character "Weary Willie," will pass out of existence when his career closes. Now he's received news that his 22-year-old son, Charles, is going to carry on the famous clown tradition for his own career.

Charles did some traveling this summer with the Hart Circus in Wisconsin, and decided this was the life he wanted. Emmett, by the way, has just signed to return to Pacific Ocean Park for another year.

Health Department Serves Two Notices

The Allegany County Health Department has served notices on the owners of three Braddock Road properties requiring them to install underground sewage drainage fields.

Copies of the notices signed by Dr. Ton van Strien, county health officer, and J. Byron Dowling, county sanitarian, were received by the Board of Allegany County Commissioners at its meeting yesterday.

The three owners are Neal Nesbit, 717 Gephart Drive, who has an apartment house on Braddock Road near Zellers Addition in LaVale; Allan Holt and Dr. Jack L. Murray, also of the apartment house area.

They were charged with allowing sewage from the properties to empty into a drain. The orders require them to install within 30 days underground drainage fields and keep the sewage and wash water on their own properties.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN: The other day a girl wrote to say her fiance had slapped her during an argument. You told her to find someone else. I hope she listens.

I married a boy who slapped me when we were going together. He used to beat up on his sisters and brothers and get into fist fights with strangers. I knew all this but I married him anyway.

Don't get the idea I came from trash and that he was a bum. It isn't true that only scum use their fists. My husband's father is an attorney. His grandfather was the mayor of a large Texas city. My father is an officer in a bank.

My folks begged me not to marry this boy. They said if I did they'd have nothing to do with me. They've kept their word.

After we married I went to work in a drug store to help with expenses. Two months later I became pregnant. When I told my husband he got so furious he not only beat me, he left for a week.

Now he's going with other girls because he says I look like a freak and he doesn't want to be seen with me. I have no money to buy clothes and I can't work.

I'd give anything to be back in my nice room again. Please print this as warning to other 18-year-olds whose boy friends slap them during courtship — and promise to change.

SLAPPED BEFORE,
BEATEN AFTER

DEAR SLAPPED: If you will send me your name and address I have a few suggestions. Please use the same kind of envelope and writing paper so I will know the letter is from you. Also, repeat your husband's nick-name.

DEAR ANN: Do I have a right to complain or not? Our neighbor's 9-year-old daughter thinks she wants to be a pianist. She isn't sure. They didn't want to invest in a piano until she made up her mind, so they're giving her lessons for six months, then she's to decide.

In the meantime my wife said it was all right if she practiced an hour a day on our piano. I wouldn't mind, except she comes over every evening promptly at 6 p. m., just as we are sitting down to eat dinner. She bangs away for a solid hour and we can't hear ourselves talk.

I told my wife I was sick of this. She said I'd have to put up with it for another five months. Do I?

JAKE

DEAR JAKE: It's unfair of your wife to expect you put up with this racket every night for the next five months just because she got big-hearted.

Tell her to ask the child to work on the piano in the hours when you aren't at home. Orders from headquarters.

DEAR ANN: I hate to be a cry-baby but I need help with my boy friend. We're both 21—not exactly juveniles.

Whenever he takes me to a party or a dance I wind up alone unless I hunt up a stray girl or fellow to talk with. Rick is an excellent dancer and he's always off with the expert of the crowd, whoever she may be. He never bothers to check and see if I'm dancing. On wiener roasts or hay rides he has disappeared for the entire evening.

When I complain he says I'm "touchy." Am I? If you say so, I'll believe it. At the moment I feel like handing him his hat, for good. What about this?

SOLOMENTE

DEAR SOLOMENTE: This is a boy friend? If you had your own car you wouldn't need him at all! Tell him it's been nice — and so long. Let him date one of the shimmy queens.

To learn the difference between a marriage that "settles down" and one that "gets dull," send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "What To Expect From Marriage," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Fire Scorches Eight Acres On Wills Mountain

Three Companies Fight 2-Hour Blaze

East Side firemen and volunteers of LaVale and Bowman's Addition joined forestry department personnel yesterday in extinguishing a stubborn wind-swept brush fire which scorched about eight acres of land on Wills Mountain.

The flames ate their way up the mountain side to within about 100 yards of the Allegany Instrument Company, one volunteer said. Firemen coordinated their efforts in fighting the fire with the use of two-way radios installed in the trucks.

Indian pumps, which hold 10 gallons of water, were used to advantage as well as rakes and brooms. The fire was first reported about 4:15 p.m. and was under control about two hours later.

Volunteers Join In

Central Fire Station received a telephone call notifying them of the brush fire which was being fanned by a brisk wind along Wills Mountain.

East Side was sent to the scene and was later joined by volunteer firemen from LaVale and Bowman's Addition.

Three local firemen took the pumper from East Side and fought the blaze with brooms. Although the fire was reported to be outside the city limits in the vicinity of Piedmont Avenue the local firemen remained on the scene, returning to the station about 6:09 p.m.

James Loar, fire chief at LaVale, was in charge of the fire fighting. Three trucks, including an equipment truck from that community were sent to the fire, although one pumper returned to the fire hall about an hour after being summoned.

Men, Boys Turn Out

Walter W. Johnson, assistant fire chief at Bowman's Addition, said his company received a call about 4:15 p.m. and some 14 men and four teen-age boys in the neighborhood joined in fighting the fire with Indian pumps and rakes. Water from the company's pumper was used to refill the pumps, he said.

The firemen were able to travel only so far with the trucks, then walked along the mountainside to extinguish the blaze. The volunteers of Bowman's Addition were dispatched by Chief Loar to the top of the mountain in the vicinity of the instrument company. They worked their way down the mountain.

The fire apparently started in the vicinity of the B&O railroad tracks and quickly ate their way up the steep terrain.

Forestry Department crews joined the volunteers in fighting the flames which burned an area from the vicinity of Piedmont Avenue to Red Rock along the mountain.

Members of the night crew at East Side received orders to relieve the day crew but when they arrived on the scene the fire was under control and they returned to their station.

Civil Service Tests Planned

Three Allegany County civil service examinations will be given at Fort Hill High School on Wednesday night, October 21, it was learned yesterday.

At a meeting Thursday night, the County Civil Service Commission decided to hold examinations next month for a stenographer in the state's attorney's office, for elevator operator at the Court House and for chief transfer clerk in the assessment department.

All three positions are being filled on a temporary basis.

Mrs. Carol Fritz has served in the stenographic position for more than a year. Patrick O'Rourke, Frostburg, has been the elevator operator since May 1. Cletus G. Brailer, Mt. Savage, has been appointed chief transfer clerk succeeding Claude R. Woodard, who will retire October 1.

State's Attorney James S. Getty said last night that there has been considerable confusion as to whether his stenographer is or is not a civil service employe. He said that he personally hired Mrs. Fritz more than a year ago and in view of the long time she has been working he has been considering her a permanent employe. He stressed that this is a most important position because he must have someone in the job who knows it and whose honesty and integrity are above question.

Forest Fire Threatens Homes

A thin line of grey smoke rises behind houses on Zihlman Way along the Narrows side of Wills Mountain as several fire companies and forestry workers battled a windblown forest fire there yesterday afternoon. The fire was brought under control after about two hours with no property damage other than burned-over land.

Cambridge Man To Head State Pythian Lodge

Governor To Head Installation Team

Otto B. Chessman Jr., Cambridge, will be the new grand chancellor of the Grand Lodge, Knights of Pythias, of Maryland.

Mr. Chessman was nominated without opposition here yesterday as the 92d annual convention of the Maryland Knights of Pythias order went into its second day.

He is currently serving as grand vice chancellor and will move to the order's top post in Maryland today at 10 a.m. when Neil K. Wood, Gaithersburg, assistant grand secretary, casts a unanimous ballot for a number of uncontested positions.

Mr. Chessman has held all chairs in Cambridge Lodge No. 154, of which he is a charter member and is currently serving as secretary of that lodge and in the second post in the state lodge.

He is employed as a special officer attached to the state's attorney's office in Dorchester County.

Ross Is Unopposed

Also nominated without opposition are Charles H. Ross, Smithsburg, grand vice chancellor; William H. Waters, Gaithersburg, for his third term as grand secretary, and Irving W. Wasserman, Baltimore, grand treasurer.

Two candidates, Dr. Aaron D. Barad, Baltimore, and James W. Jackson, Annapolis, have been nominated for the post of grand prelate.

Contending for the post of representative to the supreme lodge are Francis B. Harding, Silver Spring; his brother, Brawner Z. Harding, Gaithersburg, and Edward M. Akers, Frederick, who is seeking his third term in the state position.

Local Man Runs

Preston G. Cantler, Annapolis, the incumbent, and Louis J. Barnes, Frederick, were nominated for member of the grand lodge council, interim governing body of the order.

Frank J. Davis Sr., Cumberland, incumbent, and Bernie Harmon, Westminster, are running for the post of grand lodge trustee.

The new officers will be installed at joint ceremonies today at 7:30 p.m. in the Fort Cumberland Hotel, along with the newly elected officers of the Grand Temple, Pythian Sisters of Maryland, which is holding its 52d annual session here.

Tawes Will Install

Governor J. Millard Tawes, acting supreme chancellor, will head the installing team for the Knights of Pythias.

He will be assisted by Odith M. Brotemarkle, city, state deputy grand chancellor, and Sylvan S. Lewis, master-at-arms.

Nellie B. Miller Jr., Lonaconing, past supreme representative, will be the installing officer at the Pythian Sisters ceremony. She will be assisted by Josephine Biggs, supreme manager, and Madeline Harman, supreme senior.

Grand Lodge sessions today will include a business session from 9 a. m. to noon and from 1 to 4 p. m.

The conclave will close after the installation ceremony this evening.

The annual banquet of the joint orders was held last night and featured an address by A. Elwood Martak, Baltimore, who reviewed work of the order for the past 50 years, including the DOKK foundation, which makes educational loans to sons and daughters of members.

Paul E. Burke, chairman of the Maryland Traffic Safety Commission, presented a traffic safety award to J. Walter McKee, city, grand chancellor, in recognition of the order's safety campaign, and Mr. McKee presented a certificate of appreciation from the Knights of Pythias to Mr. Burke.

False Alarm Checked

Firemen from East Side were called to the corner of Holland and Columbia streets last night at 8:56 p. m. when Box 36 was pulled. It was a false alarm.

Human Misery Said Price Of Spurning Fluoridation

An Allegany-Garrett County Medical Society official this week charged that the Queen City is paying a high price in human misery for dragging its feet on fluoridation.

In a letter to the Mayor and Council, Dr. Leland B. Ransom, president, wrote that it is "a poor commentary on Cumberland and other communities of Western Maryland that we have allowed political and emotional pressure applied by ignorant and unqualified individuals to scare us away from this undoubtedly beneficial health measure."

Fluoridation, he said, has been endorsed not only by local medical and dental societies but by all the major health agencies in the country.

"The price we pay for our shortsighted policy," he said, "is hard to evaluate but is sure to be high in human misery as well as dollars and cents."

"Our pride," he said, "should certainly suffer also in not being a part of Maryland's progressive health program."

"It is my sincere wish," Dr. Ransom concluded, "that enough wise people in our city will be aroused to correct this backward state of affairs and help up join the other fortunate communities of our state with fluoridation."

Cites Newsletter

The local physician enclosed with his letter to city officials the first page of the current Allegany County Health Newsletter which includes a report on the status of fluoridation in Maryland.

The department pointed out that with 75 per cent of its population now using water containing fluorides, Maryland leads all other states in acceptance of this dental health measure to reduce tooth decay.

There remain only 10 communities in Maryland with a population of over 2,500, the newsletter said, that are not fluoridating their water supplies.

They are Cumberland, Havre de Grace, Elkton, Frostburg, Brunswick, Easton, Westernport, Pocomoke City, Chestertown and Aberdeen.

The newsletter said Maryland's record in fluoridation gives promise of a future with a marked improvement in dental health.

It pointed out that six years of fluoridation in Hagerstown has brought about a 60 per cent reduction in tooth decay among six, seven and eight-year-old children.

The fluoridation comments came from a report prepared by Dr. Richard C. Leonard, chief of the state's division of dental health, who cited evidence that the use of water containing controlled amounts of added fluorides has no ill effects on anyone of any age.

A Rough Time Here

Fluoridation has had a rough time in Cumberland.

It was formally ordered by the Mayor and Council in a resolution adopted December 2, 1952. This resolution has the force of a directive but still has not been placed into effect, and the feeling of the present council is that the resolution should be rescinded and the issue put to a referendum.

It looked as if fluoridation had a chance back in 1955, when George M. Hitchcock, then superintendent of the filter plant, designed a fluoride feeding system.

It was reported that the State Health Department issued a permit, based on drawings of the equipment, but nothing was done since city officials decided to wait until all modernization at the water treatment plant was completed.

In the meanwhile, opposition mounted and the past administration adopted the referendum policy but failed to put the issue to a vote.

The total collections for Wednesday through yesterday passed the $100,000 mark yesterday afternoon. The day's collections were at the $29,286 mark by 2:30 p. m.

18 Indictments Returned By Garrett Jury

Eighteen indictments were returned this week by the grand jury of the September term of Garrett County Circuit Court at Oakland.

The jurors, who examined 40 witnesses, returned indictments against the following:

Harley Webster Stemple, three charges of breaking and entering; Delbert Earl Campbell, one charge of burglary; Solomon Tasker, assault with intent to kill; Bill Barker, two charges of false pretense and additional charges against men who have not yet been apprehended.

These charges run: larceny and receiving stolen goods, two; desertion and non-support, four; non-support, two; bastardy, two.

Barker is confined in Preston County Jail, while Campbell, Stemple and Tasker all are in Garrett County Jail.

Tasker was arrested for allegedly shooting his wife in both legs with a 12-gauge shotgun. The shooting allegedly followed an argument between the couple.

Local Mennonites Will Use New Church Sunday

The Cumberland Mennonite Church, 417 North Mechanic Street, is moving to new quarters at 127 Bedford Street, formerly occupied by First Methodist Church.

The building was purchased recently and volunteers moved furniture and equipment during the past week in order that services may be held there tomorrow.

The Mennonite Church has been located on Mechanic Street for the past eight years. Rev. Charles R. Shetler, Schellsburg, Pa., is pastor.

Services in the new building will begin Sunday morning with Sunday school at 9:45 to be followed by worship service at 11 and Sunday evening service at 7:30 p.m.

Woman Is Hit By Automobile

A 69-year-old Frostburg woman, who was hit by a car in that community yesterday evening, is reported in "satisfactory" condition at Miners Hospital.

Miss Elizabeth W. Wilkes, 2 Ormond Street, sustained a hip injury, according to attaches who said X-rays were taken.

State Police have charged Wanda Lee Raley, 24, of 96 Mechanic Srteet, with failure to give the right of way to a pedestrian.

The accident occurred about 6:30 p. m. near the intersection of Water and Ormond streets. Police said the driver told them the woman stepped out in front of the car from behind another parked car.

Two Area Boys Under Treatment For Polio

Two boys presumed to be suffering from polio are being treated in hospitals here and in Johnstown, Pa.

Admitted to Memorial Hospital here Tuesday was Donald Harvey, 11-year-old son of Charles Harvey, Kitzmiller.

The lad was reported in satisfactory condition here last night.

He was brought here in an almost completely paralyzed condition and polio was suspected, according to Dr. Arthur F. Jones, Garrett County medical officer.

No definite diagnosis is being made until a report is received from the state.

James Wakefield, 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Wakefield, RD 4, Bedford, was admitted to Bedford County Memorial Hospital on Monday with what doctors termed presumptive polio.

He was taken to Johnstown Memorial Hospital in Johnstown, where final tests are being made.

The lad's doctor said his condition was satisfactory.

Rubber Union May Buy New Headquarters

Will Meet Tonight To Discuss Plans

The Rubber Workers Union will start discussions tonight on the possibility of buying a new headquarters building.

A. E. Johnson, president of Local 26, said the subject will be a special order of business at a meeting tonight at 7:30 at the Rubber Workers Hall, North Mechanic Street.

Mr. Johnson said the present hall, which the local has occupied since 1951, is too small for the business and social activities of the 1,850-member union.

The building, built especially to house the union's headquarters, is occupied solely by the union, except for some apartments on the second floor.

Before it moved into the North Mechanic Street hall, Local 26 had its headquarters in the IOOF Temple, South Mechanic Street.

Now the union wants a place big enough to assemble 1,000 to 1,200 members, Mr. Johnson said.

Crash Victims To Be Buried Tomorrow

Funeral services for two Frostburg men who were killed Thursday evening in a one-car accident on Vale Summit Road between Midland and Clarysville will be held tomorrow afternoon at the Durst Funeral Home.

A service for Robert D. Seifarth, 40, of 118 McCulloh Street, will be held at 2 p.m. with Rev. Paul V. Taylor, pastor of Zion Evangelical and Reformed Church in Frostburg, officiating.

Interment will be in Frostburg Memorial Park. Pallbearers will be Leo Wolf, Harold Binnix, Joseph Donahue, Harold Blank, Tex Powman and Edward House.

At 3:30 p.m. a service will be held for Frederick J. Rankin, 32, of RD 2, Frostburg, with Rev. Thomas Beckett, pastor of Eckhart Methodist Church, officiating.

Interment will be in the Porter Cemetery. Pallbearers will be Ervin and Daniel Wampler, John Winebrenner, Charles Long, Ronald Atkinson and Joseph Malloy.

Patty Hinkle Shows Slight Improvement

Patty Ann Hinkle, one of the seriously injured school children in the school bus-train accident September 10 at the B&O crossing in Mountain Lake Park, is reported slightly improved although still semi-conscious in Garrett County Memorial Hospital in Oakland.

She became conscious on Thursday the first time since the fatal accident which took the lives of seven children. She also took her first fluids through a straw Thursday and has responded to her name.

Meanwhile her two brothers, Olen, 13, and James, 12, who are patients in Sacred Heart Hospital, are reported to be improving. Another brother, Richard, was killed in the crash.

Md. Educators Unveil New School Program

Equal Opportunity Is Plan's Aim

By LOU PANOS

BALTIMORE (AP) — Maryland educators unveiled Friday the basic features of a sweeping new program aimed at giving all children equal public education opportunities throughout the State.

One feature would make the State a 50-50 partner, on the average, with local governments in footing all education costs.

It now carries only about 37 per cent of the overall load, and the plan envisions a gradual step-up over a five-year period.

The State's actual share of the education bill in a particular county, however, would vary under the new program, depending on that county's ability to pay.

If, under a special formula, the county is found capable of paying, for example, 40 per cent of the bill, the State would pay 60.

In the $4,848,339 Allegany County school budget for the current fiscal year, $2,934,815, or slightly more than 60 per cent, is state money, and $1,918,524, or slightly less than 40 per cent, is county money.

This would be true even if the bill included the cost of kindergarten classes or adult education programs, which are not now part of the State minimum education requirements and therefore are now financed solely by local governments.

The new program was announced at a meeting of members of the State Board of Education, State Department of Education, parent and teacher representatives in the State Office Building here.

Its features were explained by department officials and Dr. Paul R. Mort of Columbia University, educational and financial consultant who did most of the spadework in a two-year study leading to the proposal.

Thomas G. Pullen Jr., state school superintendent, said the plan will be aired at discussion meetings of educators and parents throughout the State. Then it will be introduced to the Maryland Legislature, possibly at its session next February.

$75 Million Now Spent

The State's current education appropriation is 75 million dollars, plus 14½ million for teacher retirement.

There was no estimate of how much the proposed program might cost. Such an estimate would have to include a prediction of how officials in the respective counties would react.

If the officials of a particular county were willing to increase local contributions toward raising teachers' salaries or adding kindergarten classes, the State would be required to kick in its share of the cost—48 or 52 per cent, or whatever its share in that county would be under the new formula.

The formula itself is based on two factors—property assessments and a new item called "pupil cost unit."

For education purposes, all assessments must be figured at 60 per cent of actual market value, even though the State Tax Commission has found that, for local taxation purposes, assessments in the various subdivisions actually range from 42 to 61 per cent of actual value.

Cost Unit Used

The "pupil cost unit" is used instead of the actual number of pupils in a county because the actual number is not a true gauge of the cost of educating each of those pupils. For example, it costs more to educate a high school boy than one in elementary school.

In a statement at the outset of the meeting, Jerome Frampton Jr., president of the State Board of Education, said the plan is designed to minimize "the disparity of the opportunity in the education" of Maryland children because of varying local education programs.

He traced this disparity to "the war and subsequent high mobility of the population" which boosted enrollment in urban counties where new communities sprang up.

"The local economy in certain of these rapidly growing counties has caused a sharp rise in teachers' salaries locally, the major item in any school budget," said Frampton.

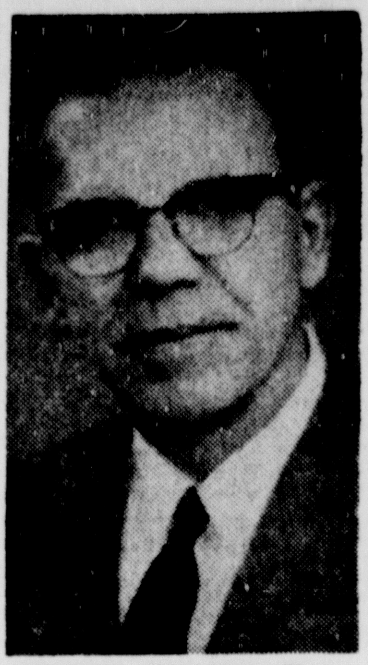
"The increase in school costs in general and salary costs in particular have brought about very suddenly an imbalance in school expenditures per pupil, teachers' salaries and inevitably later a great disparity in the quality and quantity of education throughout the State.

Some Are "Penalized"

"Legislation at the State level during the past decade, regardless of the reason, has lagged at an even greater degree than in the past, and the disparity of the opportunity in the education our children enjoy is increasing almost daily.

"Segments of our State are being penalized by this discrimination against their children, and if the parents are to safeguard the interests of their children educationally from local sources, they must tax themselves out of 'house and home' by an execessive tax burden on real estate."

Frampton said the new program was proposed as an incentive for some local governments to help reduce the disparity without incurring unfeasible local tax burdens.



CHURCH SPEAKER—Thomas R. Gardner, Washington, D. C., secretary-treasurer of the Columbia Union Conference of Seventh-Day Adventists, will be guest speaker at 10 a. m. today at the LaVale fire hall during the Cumberland - Frostburg district meeting being held in connection with the Sabbath school program.

Garrett County School Board Stresses Safety

Proposals Advanced At Special Session

The Garrett County Board of Education has voted to establish a county-wide bus safety council, create a full-time position of transportation supervisor and require a fourth inspection of all county school buses each year.

Superintendent of Schools Willard L. Hawkins said these decisions were made at a special school board meeting Thursday in Oakland. Ordinarily, the board meets on the second Tuesday of each month and had held its regular meeting September 8, two days before the tragic accident in which seven pupils were killed at Mt. Lake Park.

At Thursday's meeting, the school board first reviewed the various school bus safety recommendations which had been made the previous day in the report of the Garrett County grand jury.

Supervisor Wanted

Mr. Hawkins explained that the board wants Robert Martin, shop teacher at Southern High School, to serve as the first full-time supervisor of transportation. The problem Is to get a teaching replacement for Mr. Martin. In August, another shop teacher resigned to accept employment in Montgomery County so that there already is one vacancy.

The new county-wide bus safety council will have its first meeting on Wednesday, September 30. It will include representatives from all parent-teacher associations, civic groups and service clubs, one of the three county commissioners, one of the three school board members, one of the county's representatives in the Maryland General Assembly and a state trooper.

Inspection Added

Present state law requires three inspections of every school bus each school year. The school board now is adding a fourth inspection. The bus which stalled on the B&O crossing to precipitate the tragic accident last week had been inspected just before school started.

Greater emphasis on driver training for school bus operators also was recommended by the school board. Mr. Martin will implement this proposal when he assumes duties as supervisor of transportation.

Dr. Ralph Calandrella of Kitzmiller is president of the Garrett County Board of Education. Other members are George Edwards of Grantsville and Maurice Brookhart of Oakland.

Meanwhile, in Baltimore yesterday, Maryland Commissioner of Motor Vehicles John R. Jewell said that he wants his department given the responsibility of inspecting all school buses and licensing their drivers in a special classification.

Hazelwood Gets Dam Contract

The George F. Hazelwood Company, city, which submitted a low bid of $72,042.55 for the construction of an earthen dam one mile east of Deer Park on the Little Youghiogheny River, was officially awarded the contract this week by the Garrett Soil Conservation District at Oakland.

Present to accept the contract was A. H. Wilson, one of the partners of the company. Lewis R. Jones is designated as contracting officer. He is an attorney for the town of Oakland.

The dam is one of six proposed impoundments designed to prevent Oakland from having any more floods. Oakland and the county are co-sponsors of the projects.

Funds for the construction come mainly through the federal government. Oakland and the county are providing land, easements, and rights of way.

The work is to be completed within 350 days and all work is to be shut down from December 1 through May 14.

Health Dept. Use Of LaVale Hall Proposed

Preliminary Talks Held On Matter

A preliminary meeting between the Allegany County Board of Commissioners and a three-man committee from the LaVale Volunteer Fire Department concerning the possibility of utilizing the LaVale Fire Hall for the County Health Department was held last night at the fire hall.

Cromwell C. Zembower, one of the three members of the fire department committee, said no commitments were made by either side and no figures were quoted. It was purely an informational session and both groups obtained some needed information, he said.

There may be another meeting between the two groups in another week or 10 days but no decision was made on that possibility.

The possibility of moving the County Health Department outside the city limits was raised September 11 when the County Commissioners and the Mayor and City Council met at the Court House to discuss the question of rent for the second floor of the Public Safety Building which the County Health Department uses.

This whole question was precipitated when the Mayor and Council notified the County Commissioners that beginning October 1 an annual rental of $6,000 would be charged for the second and third floors of the Public Service Building. The county retaliated by observing that the entire third floor is used by the State Health Department laboratory, and that consequently the county should pay no more than half of the rent.

Four conclusions resulted from that meeting between city and county officials. The city has immediate need for the City Hall basement and would like the Health Department clinics moved from there. There is no urgent need on the part of the city to gain possession of the second floor of the Public Safety Building. The city also expressed a willingness to defer the start of the payment of rent. Finally, the city is willing to leave the matter of fair rent for the facilities up to real estate appraisers.

Attending last night's meeting were Commissioners John J. Rowan, John T. Mason and William A. Wilson, Leslie J. Clark, attorney to the commissioners, and Mr. Zembower, Henry Wintermeyer and Paul Boch, members of the firemen's committee, and Thomas L. Smith, president of the Fire Department, who appointed the committee.
